Eddyville Bridge Repairs to Start Soon

Span to Remain Closed For Several Months

South Pier Damaged by Flood Will Be Bolstered by Steel and Concrete

Repairs to the southern pier of the Eddyville bridge will be started very shortly it was revealed today by Division Engineer James S. Bixby at the Poughkeepsie office of the State Department of Public Works.

However the work will take considerable time and the bridge will remain closed to traffic pending completion of the work.

The decision to make repairs to the pier which was damaged by the flood of October 15-16 was made at a meeting held at Albany yesterday, Bixby said. Attending that meeting was Chief Engineer Gibbons, Bridge Engineer Blanchard and District Superintendent Hughes.

STEEL PILING will be driven down to encircle the damaged pier and concrete will be poured to protect and strengthen the pier. This work will take several months to complete.

Bixby said following the meeting yesterday immediate action was taken to secure necessary boats from which the operation will be conducted, securing of needed steel piling and other materials necessary. He predicted the work would be commenced "very shortly" but he warned the job would be a slow one and requires considerable time.

"I know the closing of the bridge is a great inconvenience to those who must travel the route but the pier there is in poor condition, the bridge floor has sunk about a foot over the pier and something has to be done before the bridge can be re-opened," Bixby said.

INSTRUCTIONS were received at the district office in Poughkeepsie yesterday to proceed with the plan. The pier foundation will be encircled with steel piles and protected so that the concrete can be poured between the sheet piling and the existing pier.

"This is not an easy task and it is going to take several months to do it," Bixby said. "The experts in Albany do not think anything less will insure the safety of this bridge," he continued.

In order to move as fast as possible with the work, it will be done under the supervision of the State Department through the Division office. "We will start at once to look for boats, steel sheeting and other necessary equipment and supplies and expect to be able to start the operation very soon," Bixby said.

HAD THE WORK been undertaken by contract, considerable time would elapse in preparation of plans, specifications and soliciting bids. Need for a hasty opening of the bridge to eliminate the inconvenience of a long detour prompted the department to do the job without contracting.

An examination of the pier by divers disclosed there had been

Ike Calls Security Conference

No Emergency Is Seen by Decision

Gettysburg, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower today called the National Security Council to a meeting on Thursday at Camp David near Thurmont, Md. The White House said no particular emergency lay behind the decision.

This will be the second meeting of the defense strategy planning group to be held at the President's Maryland mountain retreat in two weeks. Both the NSC and the cabinet are scheduled to meet there next week.

WHITE HOUSE Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will drive the 222 miles from his Gettysburg farm to Camp David for the 2:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday session. He will return as soon as the meeting ends around 4:30 p. m.

"There is not any particular emergency," Hagerty said, adding that the council regularly meets on Thursday. He said the meeting was being shifted from Washington to the nearby camp because the President wants to attend.

Some of the NSC members and other officials may travel to Camp David by helicopter. Near-

Police Inspector Picked for Docks

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor has picked New York city Police Inspector Michael J. Murphy as its new executive director.

Murphy succeeds Samuel M. Lane, who resigned from the job in September. The post had been filled on a temporary basis until the two commission members, representing the states of New York and New Jersey, could agree on Lane's replacement.

LANE ALSO was general counsel for the commission. To fill this job, the bistate agency promoted Assistant General Counsel Irving Sionin. He had earlier been designated as acting general counsel.

Murphy's appointment yesterday cleared the way for New York's commissioner-designate John P. McGrath to take office.

New York Gov. Averell Harriman named McGrath, who had been his Democratic campaign manager last year, to the commission earlier this month after

Three Primary Objectives Are Cited for City's Reassessment

Plan Is Meant to Insure Tax on Each Property Be in Proportion to Value

Reappraisal of all real property in the city has "three primary objectives," Mayor Frederick H. Stang said today in his first official release on the city's reassessment program, which is due to start early next month.

The mayor stressed that "This program is not designed to increase the overall level of local taxes. It is simply an equalization program intended to insure that the tax on each property shall be in direct proportion to property values as required by law."

The Cole-Layer-Trumble Co., of Dayton, Ohio, a firm specializing in the field of tax equalization, has been retained by the city to make a complete survey and appraisal of all the city's real property.

APPRAISALS will later be studied by the city assessor and used as the basis for the assessment roll to be compiled in July, 1956.

The three main objectives, the mayor said, are the city's move to establish properly equalized assessments on all existing properties through use of a uniform standard of value and proven methods of systematic appraisals.

Next, the city seeks to establish an up-to-date and complete set of records for all properties so that the basis of each asessment may be readily verified by the city assessor and understood by the taxpayers.

FINALLY, the schedules and formulae developed in making this appraisal will be retained by the city assessor and used in the future for the appraisal of new buildings, so that the proper relationship of assessments will be maintained.

The Ohio company, the mayor said, "has conducted similar surveys in over 500 communities in 19 states east of the Mississippi. Here in the state of New York th' have revalued the city of Peekskill, and the villages of Ardsley, Tarrytown, Pelham, Pelham Manor, and North Pelham. They are now appraising the town of Cortland and communities in New Jersey and the New England states.

THE MAYOR stressed that "The city assessor urges that all city residents cooperate with the company's appraisers to insure the success of the program. It is necessary that each building be measured and inspected so that all factors affecting the value may be recorded and considered. It is to be to the taxpayers' advantage that this be done."

Each of the company's appraisers will carry an identification card with photograph attached, imprinted with the city seal and signed by the assessor and the chief of police.

THE REPLACEMENT cost of buildings will be computed according to size, quality of construction, and the mechanical features. Two types of depreciation will be applied. Physical depreciation is determined according to the effective age and structural condition of the building.

Painting and decorating, being items of normal maintenance, will not affect physical depreciation allowances. Functional depreciation covers any other factor adversely affecting the market value of the property. This may be caused by the building itself being obsolete, or it may arise through outside detracting influences.

FOR THE APPRAISAL of land, unit front-foot values will be fixed for each street, based on information gathered on land sales throughout the section. The value of each lot will then be calculated according to its size and the unit front-foot value which has been set for the street. Land values are also subjected to depreciating factors where warranted by the presence of swamps, gulleys or other poor topography.

After all factors have been allowed for, the final values of each property are than reviewed and compared to insure that the comparative values are equitable.

FIELD WORK on the revaluation program is scheduled to start early in December. Completion of the survey is to be on or before June 1, 1956. In cases where the appraisers are unable to find anyone at home on the first call, second visits will be made. At properties where nobody is at home on the second call, a letter will be left at the property by the appraisers.

Upon completion of the program, each taxpayer will be notified by the city of the results. The company's appraisers will be available to discuss any questions with individual taxpayers at that time.

Mones Is Named Again to Authority

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced the reappointment of Max Mones, 231 Washington avenue, to the Kingston Housing Authority. The appointment is for five years and is due to expire Nov. 29, 1960.

Mr. Mones was first appointed by former Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who established the authority as the local controlling board of the city's housing project, Colonial Gardens.

CS Listings Given for Local Jobs

Appointments and promotions in several city departments from eligibility lists compiled by the Municipal Civil Service Commission are expected to be made next month, it was announced today.

The lists include names for appointments and promotions in the public works, water, education and police departments.

FOUR LISTS have been compiled for positions in the public works department, three for water department jobs, and three for positions in education.

The one police department list bears the names of Sergeants Grover S. Hoffay, 22 Navara street, and Charles A. Hoehing, 303 East Chester street, who qualified for promotion to lieutenancies. The former scored a mark of 83 and the latter one of 78.90.

Emerson L. Mayes, of 117 Clinton avenue, received a mark of 88.80 in a promotional test for the position of working foreman in the public works department, and Roy E. Jacob, of 151 Smith avenue, scored 89 with veteran's credits for the working foreman position in an open competitive examination.

OTHERS on the list resulting from the promotional examination are:

Elwood E. Finkle, 507 Broadway, 87.50; Edward P. Tuey, 39 Garden street, 86.40; Lawrence L. Hyatt, 120 South Manor avenue, 82.90; Kenneth W. DuBois, 19 Hayes street, 80.10, and Leon C. Studt, 59 South Manor avenue, 79.50.

THOSE WHO QUALIFIED for positions as maintainers in the public works department in an open competitive test are: Ralph C. Conklin, 50 Hoffman street, 90.71; Thomas J. Koskie, 181 Fairview avenue, 87.14; George L. Nelting, 211 Catherine street, 81.43, and Benjamin T. Osterhcudt, 46 Elmendorf street, 80.

Those who qualified as maintenance men in the same department through an open competitive test are: Irving H. Croswell, 43½ St. James street, 89.41; Vernon F. Broadhead, 27 St. Mary's street, 87.06; Arthur H. Brodhead, 26 First avenue, 87.06, and Charles L. Wands, 618 Broadway, 86.18, including five veterans' credit points.

Downtown Meeting Is Open to All

The Downtown Businessmen's Association would like an attendance as representative as possible of all interests at the meeting tonight in the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, to discuss the future of the downtown district, Henry Singer, president of the association, said today.

The meeting will open at 8:15 p. m. All business and professional men, taxpayers and persons interested are urged to attend. Problems and plans vital to the entire downtown area will be discussed.

Air Force Moves for Airy Site

Legal action in recent weeks by the U. S. Air Force to acquire land by condemnation proceedings at Mt. Airy, town of Saugerties indicates that 1.62 acres on the highest point in the township may be the site of a $100,000 structure to house aircraft warning devices.

THE AIR FORCE took direct action against the owner of a large tract on Mt. Airy, Heinz Durow of 8001 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, when an order for immediate possession for the 1.62 acres was filed November 4 in U. S. District Court.

According to the condemnation notice posted. in the town hall at Saugerties the land, a very small portion of the entire tract belonging to Mr. Durow, is sought for air force station and depots. The notice also states that a hearing will be granted for the owner to fix a just compensation for the property.

PART OF the text of the notice said "the secretary of the air force has found and determined that the immediate possession and use of said lands to the extent of the interests being acquired is necessary for the public use."

On October 20 an Associated Press story indicated that Saugerties had been chosen as one of the six sites in New York and New Jersey for the radar tower contruction project which will form part of the nation's defense network.

ACCORDING to the Associated Press army engineers said the structures would be used to house technical equipment used in the country's aircraft warning system and that plans for the buildings were being drawn and bids for construction probably would be sought shortly.

In addition to Saugerties, other sites include Duttonville, N. J., Brockport, East Meredith, Oswegatchie and Sutton Corner.

Paltz Man Critical After Cycle Mishap

A 20-year-old New Paltz man is in critical condition at Vassar Bros. Hospital, Poughkeepsie, following a motorcycle mishap at 9:45 p. m. yesterday on Route 9W about a mile south of the Highland traffic circle.

He is Charles Coutant who, according to Highland State Police, was apparently thrown from his 1955 Harley-Davidson motorcycle when he attempted to apply brakes. Cpl. Elliott Johnson said Coutant's condition was such that it had not been possible to question him.

He said Coutant suffered a fractured thigh, fractured left wrist, concussion and possible internal injuries.

New Industry Would Employ 300 Men 365 Days a Year at Full Capacity

Proposed construction of a $10,000,000 cement plant in the Steep Rocks section of the Fifth Ward by the Stralene Realty Corporation of Kingston was announced today by Mayor Frederick H. Stang.

The plant, which would operate 24 hours a day for 365 days a year, would employ an initial labor force of 250 men, increasing to more than 300.

Abraham Streifer of Kingston, attorney for the corporation, said it was proposed to commence construction of the plant almost immediately after passage of a zoning change and to complete the job within 15 months. Operation of the plant, according to the schedule now evisioned, would begin in the spring of 1957.

ASSOCIATED with Mr. Streifer in the corporation is Ellis Clark Soper of Franklin, N. C., who will serve as general manager and consulting engineer. Mr. Soper has constructed approximately 25 of the largest and most modernly designed cement plants in this country and overseas.

Mr. Streifer said today that at least $5,000,000 would be spent locally for labor and materials in construction of the plant itself. More than 500 men would be employed on construction of the plant.

MAYOR STANG told The Freeman he welcomed the advent of "new and further industry in the community. It will mean more work to that particular section and can do nothing but good. In the overall picture any step in the right direction is a step toward progress—and this is a step in the right direction."

ALDERMAN SAMUEL J. PERRY of the Fifth ward said he saw the new plant as a means of taking up the slack in unemployment for men who depend on heavy industry for jobs.

Referring to a recent housing and job survey made by the State Department of Housing, he pointed out that workmen depending on government contracts were without employment, and he cited that other workers in various lines depended on seasonal employment.

Alderman Perry said engineers had advised him that the proposed plant would be of modern design, with processes that eliminate smoke and dust.

"I've checked every angle," he said, "and there seems to be nothing detrimental about the new plant that would be a hazard to the Fifth ward."

Alderman Perry further stated that he had been invited to go to Detroit with officials of the city to inspect a similar plant "to see for ourselves that modern methods in cement-making eliminate dust and smoke."

He said workmen with whom he had talked were overjoyed at the prospect of another big industry for Kingston.

GEORGE E. YERRY, Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority, said the Authority welcomed the new industry as an addition to the rebuilding plan in the downtown section. The location of the new cement plant will "greatly aid" the planning Authority in that area,

Peril Seen In Partisan Policy Talk

Dulles in Favor Of Short Debates

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today called on Republicans as well as Democrats to avoid partisan foreign policy quarrels which, he said, might "endanger our nation."

DULLES SUGGESTED at a news conference that Republicans, as well as Democrats, should avoid what he called "excesses" in debate on foreign policy in the campaign.

He said he himself is trying to avoid getting drawn into "what would reasonably be considered a partisan position."

Dulles said he has no present intention of making Republican party speeches in the 1956 campaign. But, he added, unspecified events could change his mind.

DULLES REFUSED to comment on criticisms of Eisenhower administration foreign policy made by Adlai Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and other top Democrats.

The meeting with newsmen was Dulles' first since his return from the foreign ministers' conference at Geneva.

Answering questions, Dulles said Democrats could well follow the example he said had

Buffalo Crippled by 16-Inch Snowfall; Four Are Dead; Schools, Plants Closed

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—An early winter snowstorm, spawned over the Great Lakes during the night, crippled this sprawling industrial city today, clogged even main thoroughfares, forced schools to close and claimed at least four lives.

State police warned that all roads in and out of the storm-lashed metropolitan area were dangerous and many were impassable.

All city schools, public and parochial, were closed. More than 50 others in suburbs and outlying areas also were unable to open. Many industries also shut their gates.

Up to 16 inches of snow fell in Buffalo itself and there were reports of up to four feet of it south of the city.

The rest of the state was hit mainly by frigid temperatures, but Watertown, perennial storm center of the north country, had a foot of snow this morning.

The U. S. Weather Bureau held out hope for Buffalo residents, however, predicting the storm would let up and turn south of the city. As if to lend a ray or two of encouragement, the sun broke through in downtown Buffalo shortly before 11 a. m.

The Ford assembly plant on Furhmann Blvd. was closed and most plants and offices reported only scattered attendance. Those operating have only skeleton crews.

All downtown department stores are closed for the day.

Deaths due to the storm number four. Edward H. Fursbach, 62, was stricken while shoveling snow at his home. Almer Roth, 58, also collapsed while shoveling snow at his home. William A. Miller, 57, was found dead in his automobile while caught in a traffic jam on his way home from night work. Fred Tweed, 64, of nearby Derby was overcome by fumes from a pipeless

District Governor Visits Esopus Lions Club Monday

Bernard G. Schamberg of Hyde Park, who is the district governor of Lions International for this area, paid an official visit to the Town of Esopus Lions Club Monday night.

District Governor Schamberg was elected to that office at the 1955 New York State Lions Convention in Rochester May 17. He is one of eight governors administering to the affairs of Lionism in New York state. This district, known as District 20-0, covers six counties of the Hudson Valley. They are Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Ulster, Sullivan, and Orange.

Lion Schamberg has been a member of the Hyde Park Lions Club for nine years. He holds a Key Membership and has maintained perfect attendance for seven years. He is married and has three sons, one of whom is presently serving in the navy. In business, he is secretary of the Wire-O Corp. of Poughkeepsie.

The guest of honor was introduced to the Esopus Lions Club by William R. Stall of Kingston who is presently serving as deputy district governor for this area. Mr. Stall pointed out that there are 283 district governors serving that number of districts throughout the world. He also explained that Lions International is by far the largest service club organization in the world with more than 11,000 clubs located in 70 countries and a membership totaling more than 530,000 Lions from among the leading business and professional men of their respective communities.

George Kornstone of the Rondout Valley Lions Club who is zone chairman of this area was among the guests present.

Downtown Meeting Is Open to All

The Downtown Businessmen's Association would like an attendance as representative as possible of all interests at the meeting tonight in the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, to discuss the future of the downtown district, Henry Singer, president of the association, said today.

The meeting will open at 8:15 p. m. All business and professional men, taxpayers and persons interested are urged to attend. Problems and plans vital to the entire downtown area will be discussed.

Air Force Moves for Airy Site

Legal action in recent weeks by the U. S. Air Force to acquire land by condemnation proceedings at Mt. Airy, town of Saugerties indicates that 1.62 acres on the highest point in the township may be the site of a $100,000 structure to house aircraft warning devices.

THE AIR FORCE took direct action against the owner of a large tract on Mt. Airy, Heinz Durow of 8001 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, when an order for immediate possession for the 1.62 acres was filed November 4 in U. S. District Court.

According to the condemnation notice posted in the town hall at Saugerties the land, a very small portion of the entire tract belonging to Mr. Durow, is sought for air force station and depots. The notice also states that a hearing will be granted for the owner to fix a just compensation for the property.

PART OF the text of the notice said "the secretary of the air force has found and determined that the immediate possession and use of said lands to the extent of the interests being acquired is necessary for the public use."

On October 20 an Associated Press story indicated that Saugerties had been chosen as one of the six sites in New York and New Jersey for the radar tower contruction project which will form part of the nation's defense network.

ACCORDING to the Associated Press army engineers said the structures would be used to house technical equipment used in the country's aircraft warning system and that plans for the buildings were being drawn and bids for construction probably would be sought shortly.

In addition to Saugerties, other sites include Duttonville, N. J., Brockport, East Meredith, Oswegatchie and Sutton Corner.

Paltz Man Critical After Cycle Mishap

A 20-year-old New Paltz man is in critical condition at Vassar Bros. Hospital, Poughkeepsie, following a motorcycle mishap at 9:45 p. m. yesterday on Route 9W about a mile south of the Highland traffic circle.

He is Charles Coutant who, according to Highland State Police, was apparently thrown from his 1955 Harley-Davidson motorcycle when he attempted to apply brakes. Cpl. Elliott Johnson said Coutant's condition was such that it had not been possible to question him.

He said Coutant suffered a fractured thigh, fractured left wrist, concussion and possible internal injuries.

New Industry Would Employ 300 Men 365 Days a Year at Full Capacity

Proposed construction of a $10,000,000 cement plant in the Steep Rocks section of the Fifth Ward by the Stralene Realty Corporation of Kingston was announced today by Mayor Frederick H. Stang.

The plant, which would operate 24 hours a day for 365 days a year, would employ an initial labor force of 250 men, increasing to more than 300.

Abraham Streifer of Kingston, attorney for the corporation, said it was proposed to commence construction of the plant almost immediately after passage of a zoning change and to complete the job within 15 months. Operation of the plant, according to the schedule now evisioned, would begin in the spring of 1957.

ASSOCIATED with Mr. Streifer in the corporation is Ellis Clark Soper of Franklin, N. C., who will serve as general manager and consulting engineer. Mr. Soper has constructed approximately 25 of the largest and most modernly designed cement plants in this country and overseas.

Mr. Streifer said today that at least $5,000,000 would be spent locally for labor and materials in construction of the plant itself. More than 500 men would be employed on construction of the plant.

MAYOR STANG told The Freeman he welcomed the advent of "new and further industry in the community. It will mean more work to that particular section and can do nothing but good. In the overall picture any step in the right direction is a step toward progress—and this is a step in the right direction."

ALDERMAN SAMUEL J. PERRY of the Fifth ward said he saw the new plant as a means of taking up the slack in unemployment for men who depend on heavy industry for jobs.

Referring to a recent housing and job survey made by the State Department of Housing, he pointed out that workmen depending on government contracts were without employment, and he cited that other workers in various lines depended on seasonal employment.

Alderman Perry said engineers had advised him that the proposed plant would be of modern design, with processes that eliminate smoke and dust.

"I've checked every angle," he said, "and there seems to be nothing detrimental about the new plant that would be a hazard to the Fifth ward."

Alderman Perry further stated that he had been invited to go to Detroit with officials of the city to inspect a similar plant "to see for ourselves that modern methods in cement-making eliminate dust and smoke."

He said workmen with whom he had talked were overjoyed at the prospect of another big industry for Kingston.

GEORGE E. YERRY, Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority, said the Authority welcomed the new industry as an addition to the rebuilding plan in the downtown section. The location of the new cement plant will "greatly aid" the planning Authority in that area,

Peril Seen In Partisan Policy Talk

Dulles in Favor Of Short Debates

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today called on Republicans as well as Democrats to avoid partisan foreign policy quarrels which, he said, might "endanger our nation."

DULLES SUGGESTED at a news conference that Republicans, as well as Democrats, should avoid what he called "excesses" in debate on foreign policy in the campaign.

He said he himself is trying to avoid getting drawn into "what would reasonably be considered a partisan position."

Dulles said he has no present intention of making Republican party speeches in the 1956 campaign. But, he added, unspecified events could change his mind.

DULLES REFUSED to comment on criticisms of Eisenhower administration foreign policy made by Adlai Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and other top Democrats.

The meeting with newsmen was Dulles' first since his return from the foreign ministers' conference at Geneva.

Answering questions, Dulles said Democrats could well follow the example he said had

Buffalo Crippled by 16-Inch Snowfall; Four Are Dead; Schools, Plants Closed

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—An early winter snowstorm, spawned over the Great Lakes during the night, crippled this sprawling industrial city today, clogged even main thoroughfares, forced schools to close and claimed at least four lives.

State police warned that all roads in and out of the storm-lashed metropolitan area were dangerous and many were impassable.

All city schools, public and parochial, were closed. More than 50 others in suburbs and outlying areas also were unable to open. Many industries also shut their gates.

Up to 16 inches of snow fell in Buffalo itself and there were reports of up to four feet of it south of the city.

The rest of the state was hit mainly by frigid temperatures, but Watertown, perennial storm center of the north country, had a foot of snow this morning.

The U. S. Weather Bureau held out hope for Buffalo residents, however, predicting the storm would let up and turn south of the city. As if to lend a ray or two of encouragement, the sun broke through in downtown Buffalo shortly before 11 a. m.

The Ford assembly plant on Furhmann Blvd. was closed and most plants and offices reported only scattered attendance. Those operating have only skeleton crews.

All downtown department stores are closed for the day.

Deaths due to the storm number four. Edward H. Fursbach, 62, was stricken while shoveling snow at his home. Almer Roth, 58, also collapsed while shoveling snow at his home. William A. Miller, 57, was found dead in his automobile while caught in a traffic jam on his way home from night work. Fred Tweed, 64, of nearby Derby was overcome by fumes from a pipeless

Bernard G. Schamberg of Hyde Park, who is the district governor of Lions International for this area, paid an official visit to the Town of Esopus Lions Club Monday night.

District Governor Schamberg was elected to that office at the 1955 New York State Lions Convention in Rochester May 17. He is one of eight governors administering to the affairs of Lionism in New York state. This district, known as District 20-0, covers six counties of the Hudson Valley. They are Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Ulster, Sullivan, and Orange.

Lion Schamberg has been a member of the Hyde Park Lions Club for nine years. He holds a Key Membership and has maintained perfect attendance for seven years. He is married and has three sons, one of whom is presently serving in the navy. In business, he is secretary of the Wire-O Corp. of Poughkeepsie.

The guest of honor was introduced to the Esopus Lions Club by William R. Stall of Kingston who is presently serving as deputy district governor for this area. Mr. Stall pointed out that there are 283 district governors serving that number of districts throughout the world. He also explained that Lions International is by far the largest service club organization in the world with more than 11,000 clubs located in 70 countries and a membership totaling more than 530,000 Lions from among the leading business and professional men of their respective communities.

George Kornstone of the Rondout Valley Lions Club who is zone chairman of this area was among the guests present.

Writer Hints Majors Might Quit for Year

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Dan Daniel of the New York World-Telegram and the Sun said today that major league baseball was hinting at suspension of operations for one year because of being "harassed by the Department of Justice and handicapped by the television-radio lobby in Washington."

The veteran baseball writer said it was doubtful that a majority of the 16 clubs in the majors would permit such a drastic proposal come to a vote, but declared:

"Responsible officials are so desperate they are toying with the idea of a year's suspension of operations.

"The matter is not on Commissioner Ford Frick's announced agenda for the major leagues' annual meeting in Chicago next week. Out of necessity such discussion must be secret."

Daniel said a top official told him the other day: "It would be a terrible thing for baseball to stop competition for a season, but a layoff might offer the best solution to our problems. Suppose we were to announce a shutdown and explain to the fans that Washington is hampering us to a point at which we no longer are able to conduct our business? How would those who now harry and threaten us justify their actions to the baseball followers of America?"

See Ike in Race

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sens. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Allot (R-Colo.) said today they are confident—along with GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall—that President Eisenhower will run again if his health permits. Sen. Butler (R-Md.) said he wasn't prepared to guess at this time on Eisenhower's course. But he agreed with Hall that if the President seeks a second term, Vice President Nixon will be the second man on the ticket.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna (Madish) Melechowicz was held Monday at 9 a. m. from her late residence, 120 Hasbrouck avenue, thence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Joseph J. Sieczek at 9:30 a. m. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Miss Theresa Gehringer. While the body reposed in the home many relatives and friends called and numerous floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Sunday at 8 p. m. the Immaculate Conception Rosary Society called and was led in the recitation of the Holy Rosary by their spiritual director, Father Sieczek, and the Rosary Rosary Society also attended the Mass in a body and acted as an honorary escort. Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery where Father Sieczek gave the final blessing. The bearers were Fred Hartmann, Joseph Sember, Walter Wolczak, Val Skop, Edward Amato and Michael Kruszenski.

HAGERTY ALSO announced Eisenhower will see Budget Director Rowland Hughes at 11 a. m. EST Thursday to continue a discussion on the 1956-57 budget.

The cabinet will meet as usual at Washington Friday but Eisenhower will not attend.

Sub-freezing weather and a lack of pressing business kept the President away from his downtown Gettysburg office today as new speculation swept the country as to his second term intentions.

EISENHOWER conferred at his farm home instead with the White House staff secretary, Col. Andrew Goodpaster, and dictated to his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman.

The mercury plummeted to 14 above during the night. This morning with the temperature in the crisp 20's, Eisenhower phoned his office, learned there wasn't much doing, and decided to work at his Gettysburg battlefield country home.

IT WAS A GOOD bet he found some occasion for chuckling over the renewed will-he-run? controversy.

This long-simmering question boiled up again yesterday when Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, fresh from a conference with the Chief Executive, offered with a broad smile this "personal opinion":

Eisenhower will run again "if he feels he is able."

The White House itself had nothing further to say—though Hall's statement obviously was cleared in advance. The chairman conferred with Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, before and after his 45-minute meeting with the President. Hagerty sat impassive beside Hall when the statement was made.

World News in Brief

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) — The Soviet Union protested to Britain today against a foreign office spokesman's charge that Russian Premier Bulganin had expressed "hypocritical" views on German unification.

Charge D'Affaires N. D. Belokhvostikov called on Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, permanent head of the foreign office, and complained that such expressions "are incompatible with the nature of the relations existing between our two countries."

PARIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—Premier Edgar Faure's government today appeared to be doomed after Communist deputies announced they would vote against him later tonight on a vote of confidence. On two previous confidence votes, both on a question of early elections, Faure had been kept in office only through the support of the big Communist bloc. The vote later tonight will be his cabinet's fifth confidence test in six weeks.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Nationalist China has informed the Latin American Republics it will veto outer Mongolia's application for UN membership, it was reported today. This would kill a plan to admit 18 new members at this session of the Assembly.

The Nationalist Chinese delegation here has said it has no instructions on the membership question. The Chinese some years ago said they would veto outer Mongolia in the Security Council. But this was before the membership issue appeared near a solution and more than two-thirds of the UN Assembly favored admission of all 18 applicants.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A Negro delegate injected the racial segregation issue into the White House education conference today by inquiring whether federal travel money has been paid to delegates who "do not support the Constitution."

Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) ,said he had just returned from South Carolina, "where some newspapers are advocating defiance of the Supreme Court integration decision."

He asked whether delegates from South Carolina signed a statement that they uphold the Constitution when they filled out expense vouchers.

NEW CASTLE, IND., Nov. 29 (AP)—Striking CIO United Auto Workers voted 86-72 today to accept a new contract and end their violent four-month-old strike against Perfect Circle Corp. here.

The announcement of the vote came from Emil Mazey, Detroit, UAW secretary-treasurer, after a 2½-hour meeting in which the members heard the full contract, negotiated in Chicago, read.

The acceptance came as a force of 93 National Guard troops remained to guard against any recurrence of the Oct. 5 riot in which eight nonstrikers and strikers were wounded at the piston ring foundry.

CALCUTTA, INDIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—The most tumultous welcome of their entire Indian tour greeted Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev today when they arrived in Calcutta.

More than one million people turned out to cheer the Soviet leaders at the airport and on their drive into the city—then jammed so tightly around the governor's residence where they are staying that Bulganin and Khrushchev found themselves prisoners of their admirers.

Mentions Rice Property for New County Building

Among sites suggested for the proposed new county office building, was one received today by the Freeman asking that the former Rice property on Wurts street be considered.

The suggestion came from a local resident, who asked to remain unidentified, but in his opinion the site has sufficent land for the bulding and for parking facilities, including the area on the Post street side.

Recent indication by the Board of Supervisors that the need for a new county office building drew several suggestions as to a suitable location for it. Some have proposed keeping it in the uptown area, others asked that downtown be considered, and it was also suggested that it be built on a site along the Boulevard.

White Sentenced, Stoff Must Pay

Thomas Gerald White, 26, of 265 Magnolia street, Newark, N. J., charged with grand larceny, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny in County Court Monday afternoon and was sentenced to 79 days in the county jail, that being the time he had already served. James Abernethy appeared for defendant. White, charged with having taken jewelry and other articles from John and Helen Sharp, was turned over to federal authorities under a warrant for his return to Buffalo.

Daniel L. Stoff, Jr., of Charlton City, Mass., charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry and was given a year in jail, execution of sentence being suspended on condition he make restitution. Norman Kellar appeared for defendant. Court was recessed until 2 o'clock today by County Judge William A. Kelly.

White Plains Woman Killed on Turnpike

Donegal, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—An auto skidded and crashed into a stopped trailer truck on the ice-covered Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Donegal interchange today and killed one person and injured five others.

Fatally injured was Mrs. Eunice Wolfe, 53, of White Plains, N. Y., an occupant in the car operated by Harold Carter, 40, of East Elmhurt, N. Y.

Carter, his wife, Ophelia, Miss Lucille Rich, 24, of 369 W. 119th street, New York; Miss Alberta Culbreath, 23, of R.D. 4, Norristown; and Miss Doris Chambers, 28, of Hastings, N. Y., all were injured, none seriously.

Leo Calabrese, 39, of 52 High street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., the driver of the truck, was not hurt.

There are about 1,600,000 mentally deficient children in the United States.

Steep Rocks

he said. He pointed out also that the new plant came to the community "at a good time in the city's history" . . . at a time when the number of brickyards was gradually decreasing.

He said labor unions have assured the mayor that there is plenty of competent help available for the construction of the plant.

MR. STREIFER said it was their plan to "recruit our work force locally and to a considerable extent among those employed during the construction stage."

Mr. Streifer said they would be taught specialty operations, although no educational or special experience would be required.

HE POINTED out that the initial capacity of the plant would be 6,000 barrels a day, increasing to approximately 9,000 within a year.

Mr. Streifer said options had been taken on approximately 150 acres on North street—including the Dwyer Lighterage, Inc., property with approximately 1,000 feet river frontage and extending on both sides of North street and the David Terry property back of the Dwyer property, extending into the uplands, taking in most of Devil's Lake and reaching into the town of Ulster.

It is contemplated that the plant will be constructed on the river frontage of the property with covered conveyors leading to it from high ground in the back. Tests have determined that the outcroppings of rock are "peculiarly suited to the manufacture of cement," Mr. Streifer explained.

HE SAID THAT negotiations have been in progress with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., for the supply of both natural gas and electric power to the plant. It is problematical at this point whether Central Hudson can supply the gas in the quantities required.

Mr. Streifer said a distinctive feature of this plant was the complete absence of dust in the operation and that it would be perfectly possible "to eat right off the plant!" Dust losses in old-time plants were a waste as well as a nuisance, he said, explaining that today dust was "captured" and reused.

Harold W. O'Connor, Albany avenue realtor, handled the realty aspects of the negotiations including the securing of options. Frank Campochiaro, local attorney, has been associated with Mr. Streifer in some of the legal aspects of the enterprise, it was reported.

MR. SOPER has constructed and supervised operations of similar cement plants in Argentina where he was consulting engineer to former President Juan Peron. He also constructed a plant similar to that proposed for Kingston in the South American nation of Columbia. Other cement plants were constructed by Mr. Soper in Cuba, Canada and the Yucatan peninsula in Mexico. He is now engaged in the construction of similar plants in Venezuela and Montreal, Canada.

Police Inspector

requesting Lt. Gen. George P. Hays (ret.) to quit.

HAYS HAD BEEN appointed to the commission by Republican former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey when the agency was formed over two years ago to police labor on the racket-ridden waterfront.

Harriman's action brought into the open an apparent rift between the New York governor and Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, both Democrats. A point at issue was apparently the selection of a new executive director.

Before Hays left office, he and the New Jersey commissioner, Joseph Weintraub, named William P. Sirignano of the commission staff as acting executive director and provided that he should keep the job until Weintraub and McGrath agreed on someone else.

McGRATH REFUSED to take office under these conditions, and on Nov. 7 Harriman and Meyner met to iron out the dispute. It was agreed that McGrath would not take office until he and Weintraub had selected a new director and that they should make the choice as soon as possible. McGrath is now scheduled to be sworn in tomorrow.

In Albany, Harriman said he was gratified by the selection and added:

"With an executive director who is not only trained in the law but who has risen through the ranks of the police department to head the police academy and is thus an expert on law enforcement, the staff of the commission has been strengthened for the peformance of its work."

$200,000 Fire

St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 29 (AP)—A fire early today destroyed the plant and warehouse of the Tregunno Canning Co., one of the largest in the Niagara fruit belt. About 40,000 cases of canned goods were destroyed. Total damage was estimated at $200,000. No casualties were reported. P. E. Tregunno, the proprietor, said no one was in the building when the fire started. Cause of the blaze was being investigated.

Adlai Making Gains

Gainesville, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Some of Florida's political leaders are showing signs of warming up to Adlai Stevenson, the man they snubbed at the polls in 1952. Starting out today on a handshaking tour of the University of Florida campus, the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination said he felt "highly encouraged" by the reception given him during the first day of his "see the people" tour of the state.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—The stock market resumed its uptrend early this afternoon after earlier hesitation.

Gains ran from fractions to a point on pivotal issues following mixed early trading. A few losers spotted the list.

Steels, motors and rails were traded with fair activity and estimated volume is about at the level of yesterday's 2,460,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents to $180.70 at noon. The industrials and rails were up $1 or better.

Rain Will Be 'Hot'

Tokyo, Wednesday, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Central Meteorological Observatory said today a mass of radioactive air has moved over Japan and for some time to come rain will be fairly "hot." It was another in a series of radioactivity reports following the explosion of a nuclear device this month in Russia. The observatory said henceforth its forecasts would warn of any radioactive rain.

serious damage done by the flood. The structure appears to be in good condition from a casual observation but Bixby said the damage was so severe it would be dangerous to allow traffic to enter the bridge.

"IT IS IN SUCH condition that there is a possibility of a fast and spectacular collapse of the structure if it were in use. There might not be sufficient time to clear traffic from the structure," Bixby said in referring to the possibility of collapse.

The contemplated work he said was the "minimum adequate support necessary to insure the safety of the bridge."

Bixby expressed some concern wether the depth of the channel at the bridge was sufficient to accommodate the necessary boats from which operations could be conducted. This may create some delay in getting equipment to the scene.

SHORTLY AFTER the disastrous flood and the damage to the pier, Senator Arthur H. Wicks wrote the State Department of Public Works asking that an examination be made to ascertain the condition of the structure. Supervisors Edward Eckert of Esopus and Percy Bush of Ulster, whose towns are connected by the bridge, had sought action from the State Department of Public Works toward an early opening of the bridge.

It was after divers had made an examination of the damaged pier that it was announced the damage had been so great that closing of the structure was necessary pending repairs.

PLANS FOR A NEW bridge just downstream from the existing bridge have been under discussion for some time. Bixby said the damage to the existing bridge probably would hasten the erection of a new bridge and he said data has been sought by the State Department in Albany from the District office for plans for a new structure. This study is being made and the work has been under way for the past two or three weeks.

The proposed plan is for a new bridge slightly downstream from the existing bridge. Not only would this straighten out two very bad curves but would allow use of the present bridge during construction of the new structure.

Check Four Calls

Firemen were called out to two brush fires, and for a blaze in some old lumber yesterday, and received one call due to an apparent short circuit today. A brush fire was reported off Mary's avenue near Andrew street at 3:47 p. m., and another on the top of the Dwyer sand bank, Abeel street at 11:22 p. m. The fire in the old lumber was at Bruyn avenue and Cornell street, and the call was at 7:59 p. m. The call today at 11:53 a. m., was to the home of Norman Farber, 107 Wurts street, where a short in a washing machine caused considerable smoke.

Harris Takes Command

Berlin, Nov. 29 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, former chief of staff of the 2nd Army at Ft. Meade, Md., arrived last night to take command of U. S. troops in Berlin.

Peril Seen . . .

been set by Republicans during the presidential campaigns of 1944, 1948 and 1952.

Dulles opened his news conference by reading a prepared statement in which he said:

"OUR NATION will need the same bipartisan unity which in the past has given authority, vitality and much success to our foreign policies."

Dulles added that "careless or uninformed indulgence in partisan excesses" could result in peril to the nation's safety.

His statement said further:

"It needs to be remembered that those hostile to the United States and its ideals are not going to take a vacation, so that we here can safely concentrate on a domestic political battle.

"WE SHOULD not encourage them to become bolder, calculating that the months ahead, because they are an election period for us, will provide unusual opportunities for them."

Dulles voiced his views after Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said that if Republicans expect Democrats "to refrain from using foreign policy as a political football, we have got to make sure that we Republicans don't kick it around ourselves."

The deadlock at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference, from which Dulles returned 12 days ago has prompted numerous top Democrats to lash out at his handling of foreign policy.

THE CRITICISMS have come from Adlai Stevenson, an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York; and Sens. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.). Harriman and Kefauver are Democratic presidential possibilities.

Wiley proposed in a statement that both political parties adopt a "code of self-restraint" in 1956 campaign discussion of international affairs. His statement was given to newsmen for later release before Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler offered the Republicans a conditional "truce" on the issue.

Writer Hints Majors Might Quit for Year

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Dan Daniel of the New York World-Telegram and the Sun said today that major league baseball was hinting at suspension of operations for one year because of being "harassed by the Department of Justice and handicapped by the television-radio lobby in Washington."

The veteran baseball writer said it was doubtful that a majority of the 16 clubs in the majors would permit such a drastic proposal come to a vote, but declared:

"Responsible officials are so desperate they are toying with the idea of a year's suspension of operations.

"The matter is not on Commissioner Ford Frick's announced agenda for the major leagues' annual meeting in Chicago next week. Out of necessity such discussion must be secret."

Daniel said a top official told him the other day: "It would be a terrible thing for baseball to stop competition for a season, but a layoff might offer the best solution to our problems. Suppose we were to announce a shutdown and explain to the fans that Washington is hampering us to a point at which we no longer are able to conduct our business? How would those who now harry and threaten us justify their actions to the baseball followers of America?"

See Ike in Race

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sens. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Allot (R-Colo.) said today they are confident—along with GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall—that President Eisenhower will run again if his health permits. Sen. Butler (R-Md.) said he wasn't prepared to guess at this time on Eisenhower's course. But he agreed with Hall that if the President seeks a second term, Vice President Nixon will be the second man on the ticket.

Charles Lapp

Charles Lapp of Alligerville died suddenly at his home Monday night. Funeral arrangements will be announced by the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home, Kerhonkson.

Catherine Bell

Graveside services for Catherine Bell, 82, former resident of Napanoch, who died at Middletown Sunday, will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday at the Accord Rural Cemetery with the Rev. James A. Doris, pastor of St. Mary's Parish, Ellenville, officiating. Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Nancy Quick of Deland, Fla., and several nieces and nephews.

Mary K. Hudler

Funeral services for Miss Mary K. Hudler of 71 Orchard street, who died Friday were held Monday at Sweet and Keyser Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. The Rev. Forrest R. Prindle, pastor of Reformed Church of the Comforter, of which Miss Hudler was a long and faithful member, officiated. Sunday evening a large delegation from Vanderlyn Council, Daughters of America led by Mrs. Burton Giles, councilor and Mrs. Raymond Whitbeck, chaplain conducted ritualistic services. Burial was in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Patrick McElhenney

The funeral of Patrick McElhenney, 75, who died Saturday in this city after a long illness, was held Monday at 8:30 a. m. from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, 176 Broadway, thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9 a. m. a Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly. Seated in the sanctuary was the Rev. Francis X Toner. During the time the body reposed in the funeral home Father Toner called to say prayers for the deceased. Sunday evening Father Farrelly called and led those present in the recitation of the Rosary. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Toner gave the final absolution and blessing at the grave.

Anna (Madish) Melechowicz

The funeral of Mrs. Anna (Madish) Melechowicz was held Monday at 9 a. m. from her late residence, 120 Hasbrouck avenue, thence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Joseph J. Sieczek at 9:30 a. m. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Miss Theresa Gehringer. While the body reposed in the home many relatives and friends called and numerous floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Sunday at 8 p. m. the Immaculate Conception Rosary Society called and was led in the recitation of the Holy Rosary by their spiritual director, Father Sieczek, and the Rosary Rosary Society also attended the Mass in a body and acted as an honorary escort. Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery where Father Sieczek gave the final blessing. The bearers were Fred Hartmann, Joseph Sember, Walter Wolczak, Val Skop, Edward Amato and Michael Kruszenski.

Ike Calls . . .

ly all did at last week's session.

HAGERTY ALSO announced Eisenhower will see Budget Director Rowland Hughes at 11 a. m. EST Thursday to continue a discussion on the 1956-57 budget.

The cabinet will meet as usual at Washington Friday but Eisenhower will not attend.

Sub-freezing weather and a lack of pressing business kept the President away from his downtown Gettysburg office today as new speculation swept the country as to his second term intentions.

EISENHOWER conferred at his farm home instead with the White House staff secretary, Col. Andrew Goodpaster, and dictated to his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman.

The mercury plummeted to 14 above during the night. This morning with the temperature in the crisp 20's, Eisenhower phoned his office, learned there wasn't much doing, and decided to work at his Gettysburg battlefield country home.

IT WAS A GOOD bet he found some occasion for chuckling over the renewed will-he-run? controversy.

This long-simmering question boiled up again yesterday when Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, fresh from a conference with the Chief Executive, offered with a broad smile this "personal opinion":

Eisenhower will run again "if he feels he is able."

The White House itself had nothing further to say—though Hall's statement obviously was cleared in advance. The chairman conferred with Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, before and after his 45-minute meeting with the President. Hagerty sat impassive beside Hall when the statement was made.

World News in Brief

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) — The Soviet Union protested to Britain today against a foreign office spokesman's charge that Russian Premier Bulganin had expressed "hypocritical" views on German unification.

Charge D'Affaires N. D. Belokhvostikov called on Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, permanent head of the foreign office, and complained that such expressions "are incompatible with the nature of the relations existing between our two countries."

PARIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—Premier Edgar Faure's government today appeared to be doomed after Communist deputies announced they would vote against him later tonight on a vote of confidence. On two previous confidence votes, both on a question of early elections, Faure had been kept in office only through the support of the big Communist bloc. The vote later tonight will be his cabinet's fifth confidence test in six weeks.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Nationalist China has informed the Latin American Republics it will veto outer Mongolia's application for UN membership, it was reported today. This would kill a plan to admit 18 new members at this session of the Assembly.

The Nationalist Chinese delegation here has said it has no instructions on the membership question. The Chinese some years ago said they would veto outer Mongolia in the Security Council. But this was before the membership issue appeared near a solution and more than two-thirds of the UN Assembly favored admission of all 18 applicants.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A Negro delegate injected the racial segregation issue into the White House education conference today by inquiring whether federal travel money has been paid to delegates who "do not support the Constitution."

Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), said he had just returned from South Carolina, "where some newspapers are advocating defiance of the Supreme Court integration decision."

He asked whether delegates from South Carolina signed a statement that they uphold the Constitution when they filled out expense vouchers.

NEW CASTLE, IND., Nov. 29 (AP)—Striking CIO United Auto Workers voted 86-72 today to accept a new contract and end their violent four-month-old strike against Perfect Circle Corp. here.

The announcement of the vote came from Emil Mazey, Detroit, UAW secretary-treasurer, after a 2½-hour meeting in which the members heard the full contract, negotiated in Chicago, read.

The acceptance came as a force of 93 National Guard troops remained to guard against any recurrence of the Oct. 5 riot in which eight nonstrikers and strikers were wounded at the piston ring foundry.

CALCUTTA, INDIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—The most tumultous welcome of their entire Indian tour greeted Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev today when they arrived in Calcutta.

More than one million people turned out to cheer the Soviet leaders at the airport and on their drive into the city—then jammed so tightly around the governor's residence where they are staying that Bulganin and Khrushchev found themselves prisoners of their admirers.

Mentions Rice Property for New County Building

Among sites suggested for the proposed new county office building, was one received today by the Freeman asking that the former Rice property on Wurts street be considered.

The suggestion came from a local resident, who asked to remain unidentified, but in his opinion the site has sufficent land for the bulding and for parking facilities, including the area on the Post street side.

Recent indication by the Board of Supervisors that the need for a new county office building drew several suggestions as to a suitable location for it. Some have proposed keeping it in the uptown area, others asked that downtown be considered, and it was also suggested that it be built on a site along the Boulevard.

White Sentenced, Stoff Must Pay

Thomas Gerald White, 26, of 265 Magnolia street, Newark, N. J., charged with grand larceny, second degree, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny in County Court Monday afternoon and was sentenced to 79 days in the county jail, that being the time he had already served. James Abernethy appeared for defendant. White, charged with having taken jewelry and other articles from John and Helen Sharp, was turned over to federal authorities under a warrant for his return to Buffalo.

Daniel L. Stoff, Jr., of Charlton City, Mass., charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry and was given a year in jail, execution of sentence being suspended on condition he make restitution. Norman Kellar appeared for defendant. Court was recessed until 2 o'clock today by County Judge William A. Kelly.

White Plains Woman Killed on Turnpike

Donegal, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—An auto skidded and crashed into a stopped trailer truck on the ice-covered Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Donegal interchange today and killed one person and injured five others.

Fatally injured was Mrs. Eunice Wolfe, 53, of White Plains, N. Y., an occupant in the car operated by Harold Carter, 40, of East Elmhurt, N. Y.

Carter, his wife, Ophelia, Miss Lucille Rich, 24, of 369 W. 119th street, New York; Miss Alberta Culbreath, 23, of R.D. 4, Norristown; and Miss Doris Chambers, 28, of Hastings, N. Y., all were injured, none seriously.

Leo Calabrese, 39, of 52 High street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., the driver of the truck, was not hurt.

There are about 1,600,000 mentally deficient children in the United States.

Steep Rocks

he said. He pointed out also that the new plant came to the community "at a good time in the city's history" . . . at a time when the number of brickyards was gradually decreasing.

He said labor unions have assured the mayor that there is plenty of competent help available for the construction of the plant.

MR. STREIFER said it was their plan to "recruit our work force locally and to a considerable extent among those employed during the construction stage."

Mr. Streifer said they would be taught specialty operations, although no educational or special experience would be required.

HE POINTED out that the initial capacity of the plant would be 6,000 barrels a day, increasing to approximately 9,000 within a year.

Mr. Streifer said options had been taken on approximately 150 acres on North street—including the Dwyer Lighterage, Inc., property with approximately 1,000 feet river frontage and extending on both sides of North street and the David Terry property back of the Dwyer property, extending into the uplands, taking in most of Devil's Lake and reaching into the town of Ulster.

It is contemplated that the plant will be constructed on the river frontage of the property with covered conveyors leading to it from high ground in the back. Tests have determined that the outcroppings of rock are "peculiarly suited to the manufacture of cement," Mr. Streifer explained.

HE SAID THAT negotiations have been in progress with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., for the supply of both natural gas and electric power to the plant. It is problematical at this point whether Central Hudson can supply the gas in the quantities required.

Mr. Streifer said a distinctive feature of this plant was the complete absence of dust in the operation and that it would be perfectly possible "to eat right off the plant!" Dust losses in old-time plants were a waste as well as a nuisance, he said, explaining that today dust was "captured" and reused.

Harold W. O'Connor, Albany avenue realtor, handled the realty aspects of the negotiations including the securing of options. Frank Campochiaro, local attorney, has been associated with Mr. Streifer in some of the legal aspects of the enterprise, it was reported.

MR. SOPER has constructed and supervised operations of similar cement plants in Argentina where he was consulting engineer to former President Juan Peron. He also constructed a plant similar to that proposed for Kingston in the South American nation of Columbia. Other cement plants were constructed by Mr. Soper in Cuba, Canada and the Yucatan peninsula in Mexico. He is now engaged in the construction of similar plants in Venezuela and Montreal, Canada.

Police Inspector

requesting Lt. Gen. George P. Hays (ret.) to quit.

HAYS HAD BEEN appointed to the commission by Republican former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey when the agency was formed over two years ago to police labor on the racket-ridden waterfront.

Harriman's action brought into the open an apparent rift between the New York governor and Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, both Democrats. A point at issue was apparently the selection of a new executive director.

Before Hays left office, he and the New Jersey commissioner, Joseph Weintraub, named William P. Sirignano of the commission staff as acting executive director and provided that he should keep the job until Weintraub and McGrath agreed on someone else.

McGRATH REFUSED to take office under these conditions, and on Nov. 7 Harriman and Meyner met to iron out the dispute. It was agreed that McGrath would not take office until he and Weintraub had selected a new director and that they should make the choice as soon as possible. McGrath is now scheduled to be sworn in tomorrow.

In Albany, Harriman said he was gratified by the selection and added:

"With an executive director who is not only trained in the law but who has risen through the ranks of the police department to head the police academy and is thus an expert on law enforcement, the staff of the commission has been strengthened for the peformance of its work."

$200,000 Fire

St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 29 (AP)—A fire early today destroyed the plant and warehouse of the Tregunno Canning Co., one of the largest in the Niagara fruit belt. About 40,000 cases of canned goods were destroyed. Total damage was estimated at $200,000. No casualties were reported. P. E. Tregunno, the proprietor, said no one was in the building when the fire started. Cause of the blaze was being investigated.

Adlai Making Gains

Gainesville, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Some of Florida's political leaders are showing signs of warming up to Adlai Stevenson, the man they snubbed at the polls in 1952. Starting out today on a handshaking tour of the University of Florida campus, the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination said he felt "highly encouraged" by the reception given him during the first day of his "see the people" tour of the state.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—The stock market resumed its uptrend early this afternoon after earlier hesitation.

Gains ran from fractions to a point on pivotal issues following mixed early trading. A few losers spotted the list.

Steels, motors and rails were traded with fair activity and estimated volume is about at the level of yesterday's 2,460,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents to $180.70 at noon. The industrials and rails were up $1 or better.

Rain Will Be 'Hot'

Tokyo, Wednesday, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Central Meteorological Observatory said today a mass of radioactive air has moved over Japan and for some time to come rain will be fairly "hot." It was another in a series of radioactivity reports following the explosion of a nuclear device this month in Russia. The observatory said henceforth its forecasts would warn of any radioactive rain.

Span to . . .

serious damage done by the flood. The structure appears to be in good condition from a casual observation but Bixby said the damage was so severe it would be dangerous to allow traffic to enter the bridge.

"IT IS IN SUCH condition that there is a possibility of a fast and spectacular collapse of the structure if it were in use. There might not be sufficient time to clear traffic from the structure," Bixby said in referring to the possibility of collapse.

The contemplated work he said was the "minimum adequate support necessary to insure the safety of the bridge."

Bixby expressed some concern wether the depth of the channel at the bridge was sufficient to accommodate the necessary boats from which operations could be conducted. This may create some delay in getting equipment to the scene.

SHORTLY AFTER the disastrous flood and the damage to the pier, Senator Arthur H. Wicks wrote the State Department of Public Works asking that an examination be made to ascertain the condition of the structure. Supervisors Edward Eckert of Esopus and Percy Bush of Ulster, whose towns are connected by the bridge, had sought action from the State Department of Public Works toward an early opening of the bridge.

It was after divers had made an examination of the damaged pier that it was announced the damage had been so great that closing of the structure was necessary pending repairs.

PLANS FOR A NEW bridge just downstream from the existing bridge have been under discussion for some time. Bixby said the damage to the existing bridge probably would hasten the erection of a new bridge and he said data has been sought by the State Department in Albany from the District office for plans for a new structure. This study is being made and the work has been under way for the past two or three weeks.

The proposed plan is for a new bridge slightly downstream from the existing bridge. Not only would this straighten out two very bad curves but would allow use of the present bridge during construction of the new structure.

Check Four Calls

Firemen were called out to two brush fires, and for a blaze in some old lumber yesterday, and received one call due to an apparent short circuit today. A brush fire was reported off Mary's avenue near Andrew street at 3:47 p. m., and another on the top of the Dwyer sand bank, Abeel street at 11:22 p. m. The fire in the old lumber was at Bruyn avenue and Cornell street, and the call was at 7:59 p. m. The call today at 11:53 a. m., was to the home of Norman Farber, 107 Wurts street, where a short in a washing machine caused considerable smoke.

Harris Takes Command

Berlin, Nov. 29 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, former chief of staff of the 2nd Army at Ft. Meade, Md., arrived last night to take command of U. S. troops in Berlin.

Peril Seen . . .

been set by Republicans during the presidential campaigns of 1944, 1948 and 1952.

Dulles opened his news conference by reading a prepared statement in which he said:

"OUR NATION will need the same bipartisan unity which in the past has given authority, vitality and much success to our foreign policies."

Dulles added that "careless or uninformed indulgence in partisan excesses" could result in peril to the nation's safety.

His statement said further:

"It needs to be remembered that those hostile to the United States and its ideals are not going to take a vacation, so that we here can safely concentrate on a domestic political battle.

"WE SHOULD not encourage them to become bolder, calculating that the months ahead, because they are an election period for us, will provide unusual opportunities for them."

Dulles voiced his views after Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said that if Republicans expect Democrats "to refrain from using foreign policy as a political football, we have got to make sure that we Republicans don't kick it around ourselves."

The deadlock at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference, from which Dulles returned 12 days ago has prompted numerous top Democrats to lash out at his handling of foreign policy.

THE CRITICISMS have come from Adlai Stevenson, an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York; and Sens. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.). Harriman and Kefauver are Democratic presidential possibilities.

Wiley proposed in a statement that both political parties adopt a "code of self-restraint" in 1956 campaign discussion of international affairs. His statement was given to newsmen for later release before Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler offered the Republicans a conditional "truce" on the issue.

WoodstockFoundation To Elect Officers

Woodstock, Nov. 29—The annual meeting of the general membership of the Woodstock Foundation will be held Thursday, Dec. 1, in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church at 8 p. m. There will be a slate of six new directors presented and an election of officers in keeping with the new by-laws.

The following by-laws were revised and accepted at a meeting of the board of directors last October 10:

The Woodstock Foundation, a non-profit organization founded for the purpose of improving the quality of the practice of arts, offers a limited number of annual awards, tenable under the freest possible conditions, for research and practice in the arts and for creative work in any of the arts. The awards will be granted by the board of trustees upon nominations by a Committee of Selection.

The foundation plans include the offering of a number of awards annually, the number and amount of each award to be determined annually by the board of trustees.

Candidates for awards shall be limited to men and women under 40 years of age of unusual creative ability in the arts and/or crafts, who are American citizens and residents of Woodstock township or the Maverick. In addition to candidates' requests for consideration and/or letters of recommendation, they shall fill out a form satisfactory to the Board of Trustees. No member of the Board of Trustees shall be eligible for an award.

The Committee of Selection, consisting of three trustees, shall be elected to their office by common consent and vote of the Board of Trustees and shall elect their own chairman. The president of the Foundation will act ex-officio. In any given year, no trustee who has nominated or recommended a candidate for an award shall be a member of the Committee of Selection. At the discretion of the board, the committee may consist of, or include, persons who are neither trustees nor general members.

The Committee of Selection will require evidence that candidates are persons of unusual capacity for research, or that they are persons of unusual and proven creative ability in some one of the arts or crafts. The Committee of Selection shall make such evidence available to the Board of Trustees prior to the vote on awards.

The Board of Trustees shall consist of 18 members whose term of office shall be three years, six of whom shall be elected at the annual meeting. Nominations for office shall be made by the Board of Trustees and/or from the floor, provided such nominees be present and agree to serve. Not more than one member of an immediate family shall serve as a trustee. This annual election shall be held within one month following the distribution of awards. Any vacancy occurring during the year shall be filled at the discretion of the president with the approval of the board. A former trustee may be elected an honorary member and shall serve ex-officio.

Members shall consist of those who have contributed time and/or money to the work of the foundation. Members shall be eligible to vote and to hold office.

The Board of Trustees shall elect its officers from its members to include a president, vice president, secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer who shall serve for one year and cannot be removed from office except by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Trustees.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, a quorum shall consist of at least 50 per cent of its members. At an annual meeting, a quorum shall consist of a quorum of trustees plus those who are present.

Amendments to the by-laws shall be made by a two-thirds majority vote of the Board of Trustees, provided they in no way violate the spirit of the foundation as expressed in the preamble.

Christmas Celebration Fund Appeal Started

Woodstock, Nov. 29 — The committee in charge of the community Christmas eve celebration on the village green, headed by Lewis R. Wilson, has made an appeal for contributions and would appreciate early returns in order that they may budget their expenditures.

"We believe the success of our community Christmas eve program," Wilson said, "is a glowing tribute to the civic pride of our townspeople. We have all witnessed its growth through the years from a few people singing Christmas carols to the present program with an attendance of over a thousand."

Last year Santa presented over 500 stockings to the village children. He also distributed over $400 worth of food baskets containing complete Christmas dinners to the less fortunate families in the town. As the scope of the program has broadened, the expenditures have increased in proportion. Its success is dependent upon the combined efforts of all individuals and organizations.

Contributions may be sent to the Christmas eve program, L. R. Wilson, chairman, Woodstock.

Yule Exhibition-Sale Slated for Dec. 10

Growing Sectors Feeling Costlier Borrowing Pinch

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Tighter money and costlier borrowing is likely to pinch first and most painfully in some of the faster growing sections of the nation.

In most cases they have been making their growth on imported money. Their own economy isn't rich enough yet to generate the needed investments.

THOSE AREAS — the west and south and the midwest farming states now seeking to diversity by luring industries—are competing keenly for the funds still concentrated to large degree in the older financial centers.

Northern and eastern money is building many of the homes, factories and even the schools and highways that give physical evidence of the postwar shifts in population and industry around the nation.

That is why these fast growing areas have uttered the loudest squawks about costlier credit and scarcer money supply. The tighter money policy is aimed at braking the boom before it leads to runaway inflation.

HOW THE ECONOMIC make-up of various sections of the nation is changing and why funds have been flowing from the northeast in record amounts in recent years can be seen in a number of examples around the land.

To house the thousands of Americans on the move has taxed the ingenuity of bankers and mortgage brokers in many states.

One is Arizona. The Bureau of Business Research of the University of Arizona notes that over the last five years newcomers have averaged more than 40,000 a year. They and those already there have needed new homes.

The bureau notes that "all the resources of all the banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies domiciled in Arizona are not large enough to support this volume of construction." So Arizona has called upon out-of-state institutions, mostly in the east, to finance its building spree.

THE BUREAU wonders how hard will be the impact of government restrictions on mortgage lending and warns of coming struggles "in finding willing lenders from among the financial institutions domiciled in the capital centers of our country in competition with other areas of the west and south."

Financing new industries is another competitive struggle for outside money among the newer and faster growing regions.

"In recent years competition among states and localities for new industry seems to have increased," the Tax Foundation Inc. notes. Major methods used include property tax exemptions, industrial bond issues, and quasi-public development corporations.

IN SOME states tax exemptions are encouraged by state laws; some cities have granted tax exemption independently. The foundation points out that this trend is widely used in the fast growing industrial south.

Some states are sending delegations to the eastern financial centers to seek out investment money. Governor Orville Freeman of Minnesota and some industrialists from his state will be in New York this week, for example, to tell big city security analysts why they think their state is a good one for eastern investments.

Farmers as well as industrialists are looking for money—although in a different form—and for a different reason—and their complaints may rise with the recent tendency to tighten instalment credit terms. This tendency started with the big eastern banks.

FARMERS HAVE been using this credit more of late to buy machinery. Their aim: to reduce their unit cost of production and increase output to offset if possible the decline in prices they get for their products. Stricter instalment payment terms might pinch.

The first sharp outcries against tighter money came from builders, mostly in the west and south, but some of the midwest farm states are beginning to grumble.

In the east, where investment money tends to concentrate, there has been less inclination to protest.

Long Vacation

Clinton, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Three 13-year-old boys spent 13 hours of their Thanksgiving school vacation in a jail cell, though they committed no offense against the law. Joseph Kelsey, Arjoe Budd and Stillman Swan Jr. locked themselves in one of the town lock-up's two cells Saturday while they were exploring the quarters, which are unattended. Shouting and banging on the bars brought no help because Boston Post Rd. traffic drowned out all the noise they could make. If a former town partolman hadn't happened to drop in to check the lock-up Saturday night, the boys might have spent all weekend there.

Phone Company To Participate In S-D Campaign

The New York Telephone Company, a pioneer in stressing driver safety year-round, will supplement its normal program with a special safety campaign in Kingston in observance of national Safe Driving Day, Dec. 1.

The accelerated program will continue during the 21-day national observance, Nov. 21 to Dec. 11, calling wide attention to the need for safety on the highway.

LOCAL TELEPHONE men point out that although the company's safe driving record is far better than the national average, "when you're speaking of safety there is always room for improvement."

Throughout the company's upstate area last year its 2,548 vehicles logged a total of 24,251,000 miles. The average number of miles company vehicles traveled between accidents was 168,000—an improvement of 36 per cent over the 1952 record total of 124,000 miles. And—a mishap as minor as a scratched fender can be counted by the company as an accident.

This total is less than half the national average motor vehicle accident rate.

LAST YEAR the company's 91 trucks and cars in the Kingston plant subdistrict, which includes the Hudson-Catskill-Fleischmanns area, traveled a total of 1,005,000 miles in all kinds of road and traffic conditions. Since 1950 telephone company vehicles have run up a total of 129 million miles in the upstate area without a driver fatality.

The company has scheduled several special activities to mark "S-D Day."

Throughout the company's operating territory drivers with 25 years of safe driving will be singled out for special recognition.

AT SPECIALLY-called safety conferences telephone employes will hear trained safety experts expound the need for safety behind the wheel both on and off the job.

Safety messages will be carried to employes in pay envelopes, through the company's own information program, and in letters from company president Keith S. McHugh mailed to employes at their homes.

Company vehicles will display bumper strips that advertise the need for safety for all members of the community.

The telephone company gives credit for its excellent safe driving record not only to its drivers, but to its comprehensive driver training program and also the mechanics and garagemen who keep vehicles in top operating condition.

IN KINGSTON there are four men in a garage force headed by W. J. Cole, garage foreman. These men service telephone company vehicles that operate throughout the area.

The company's "S-D" program is designed to increase employe and public awareness of the importance of safety, and to urge constant attention to safety rules.

"We're enthusiastic over this observance and will do all we can to make it a success," Leonard W. Herrick, telephone company manager, said.

Dean of Engineering To Address PTA Group

Woodstock, Nov. 29 — Erwin Cannon will be the guest speaker at the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association meeting, Thursday, Dec. 1, at the Woodstock School at 8 p. m. His topic will be "Education For What?"

Mr. Cannon was administrative dean of engineering for Associated Colleges of Upper New York. He received three fellowships from the Carnegie Foundation and his masters degree from Columbia University. He was head of the History of Art and Aesthetics in Antioch College, Ohio. For 13 years he was head of History and Art Department and History of Civilization in the Rhode Island School of Design.

Area Hunters Bag Deer

Woodstock, Nov. 29 — Among the hunters in the area who have gotten deer within the past few days are: Gene Howland of Lake Hill, a six point buck; Bob Bartlett of Lake Hill; Gordon Walker of Willow; C. D. Berien from Maryland, who owns a summer home at Wittenberg, a 171 pound ten point buck; Eddie Cain, a spike horn buck, weighing 130 pounds; Walter Angevine, a spike horn buck weighing 130 pounds; Sherwood Shultis, an eight point 170 pound buck; Egbert Bonestell, a 140 pound, six point buck, all of Wittenberg; and Warren Knaust of Saugerties, a three point 160 pound buck.

Growing Sectors Feeling Costlier Borrowing Pinch

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Tighter money and costlier borrowing is likely to pinch first and most painfully in some of the faster growing sections of the nation.

In most cases they have been making their growth on imported money. Their own economy isn't rich enough yet to generate the needed investments.

THOSE AREAS — the west and south and the midwest farming states now seeking to diversity by luring industries—are competing keenly for the funds still concentrated to large degree in the older financial centers.

Northern and eastern money is building many of the homes, factories and even the schools and highways that give physical evidence of the postwar shifts in population and industry around the nation.

That is why these fast growing areas have uttered the loudest squawks about costlier credit and scarcer money supply. The tighter money policy is aimed at braking the boom before it leads to runaway inflation.

HOW THE ECONOMIC make-up of various sections of the nation is changing and why funds have been flowing from the northeast in record amounts in recent years can be seen in a number of examples around the land.

To house the thousands of Americans on the move has taxed the ingenuity of bankers and mortgage brokers in many states.

One is Arizona. The Bureau of Business Research of the University of Arizona notes that over the last five years newcomers have averaged more than 40,000 a year. They and those already there have needed new homes.

The bureau notes that "all the resources of all the banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies domiciled in Arizona are not large enough to support this volume of construction." So Arizona has called upon out-of-state institutions, mostly in the east, to finance its building spree.

THE BUREAU wonders how hard will be the impact of government restrictions on mortgage lending and warns of coming struggles "in finding willing lenders from among the financial institutions domiciled in the capital centers of our country in competition with other areas of the west and south."

Financing new industries is another competitive struggle for outside money among the newer and faster growing regions.

"In recent years competition among states and localities for new industry seems to have increased," the Tax Foundation Inc. notes. Major methods used include property tax exemptions, industrial bond issues, and quasi-public development corporations.

IN SOME states tax exemptions are encouraged by state laws; some cities have granted tax exemption independently. The foundation points out that this trend is widely used in the fast growing industrial south.

Some states are sending delegations to the eastern financial centers to seek out investment money. Governor Orville Freeman of Minnesota and some industrialists from his state will be in New York this week, for example, to tell big city security analysts why they think their state is a good one for eastern investments.

Farmers as well as industrialists are looking for money—although in a different form—and for a different reason—and their complaints may rise with the recent tendency to tighten instalment credit terms. This tendency started with the big eastern banks.

FARMERS HAVE been using this credit more of late to buy machinery. Their aim: to reduce their unit cost of production and increase output to offset if possible the decline in prices they get for their products. Stricter instalment payment terms might pinch.

The first sharp outcries against tighter money came from builders, mostly in the west and south, but some of the midwest farm states are beginning to grumble.

In the east, where investment money tends to concentrate, there has been less inclination to protest.

Long Vacation

Clinton, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Three 13-year-old boys spent 13 hours of their Thanksgiving school vacation in a jail cell, though they committed no offense against the law. Joseph Kelsey, Arjoe Budd and Stillman Swan Jr. locked themselves in one of the town lock-up's two cells Saturday while they were exploring the quarters, which are unattended. Shouting and banging on the bars brought no help because Boston Post Rd. traffic drowned out all the noise they could make. If a former town partolman hadn't happened to drop in to check the lock-up Saturday night, the boys might have spent all weekend there.

Phone Company To Participate In S-D Campaign

The New York Telephone Company, a pioneer in stressing driver safety year-round, will supplement its normal program with a special safety campaign in Kingston in observance of national Safe Driving Day, Dec. 1.

The accelerated program will continue during the 21-day national observance, Nov. 21 to Dec. 11, calling wide attention to the need for safety on the highway.

LOCAL TELEPHONE men point out that although the company's safe driving record is far better than the national average, "when you're speaking of safety there is always room for improvement."

Throughout the company's upstate area last year its 2,548 vehicles logged a total of 24,251,000 miles. The average number of miles company vehicles traveled between accidents was 168,000—an improvement of 36 per cent over the 1952 record total of 124,000 miles. And—a mishap as minor as a scratched fender can be counted by the company as an accident.

This total is less than half the national average motor vehicle accident rate.

LAST YEAR the company's 91 trucks and cars in the Kingston plant subdistrict, which includes the Hudson-Catskill-Fleischmanns area, traveled a total of 1,005,000 miles in all kinds of road and traffic conditions. Since 1950 telephone company vehicles have run up a total of 129 million miles in the upstate area without a driver fatality.

The company has scheduled several special activities to mark "S-D Day."

Throughout the company's operating territory drivers with 25 years of safe driving will be singled out for special recognition.

AT SPECIALLY-called safety conferences telephone employes will hear trained safety experts expound the need for safety behind the wheel both on and off the job.

Safety messages will be carried to employes in pay envelopes, through the company's own information program, and in letters from company president Keith S. McHugh mailed to employes at their homes.

Company vehicles will display bumper strips that advertise the need for safety for all members of the community.

The telephone company gives credit for its excellent safe driving record not only to its drivers, but to its comprehensive driver training program and also the mechanics and garagemen who keep vehicles in top operating condition.

IN KINGSTON there are four men in a garage force headed by W. J. Cole, garage foreman. These men service telephone company vehicles that operate throughout the area.

The company's "S-D" program is designed to increase employe and public awareness of the importance of safety, and to urge constant attention to safety rules.

"We're enthusiastic over this observance and will do all we can to make it a success," Leonard W. Herrick, telephone company manager, said.

DANGEROUS SECRECY

The Associated Press Managing Editors Association recently adopted a resolution condemning governmental secrecy that is withholding from American citizens facts about their own government that they are entitled to know. The association took a similar stand during the Truman administration on an executive order which gave heads of government agencies the right to decide whether or not information should be classified.

It was hoped that the Eisenhower administration would rescind the order. The fact is, many newsmen claim, it was replaced by one even less satisfactory.

The resolution of condemnation represented sentiment among membership of the APME—it did not involve the Associated Press itself or its staff.

Sensible newspapers would not want any information that would in any way affect the security of the country. And it is generally conceded that steps to preserve important secrets must be taken. Yet the people's right to know what their government is doing must not be denied without extremely good reasons. As matters stand now there is the possibility of abuse of the right to withhold information. The administration would do well to review the order and make the necessary changes.

TO NIAGARA IN A HURRY,

Niagara Falls is doomed. In only 1,000 years the river will have cut back a few hundred yards to a layer of soft rock. When the brink of the falls reaches this layer, it will slice through and form a steep rapids.

Perhaps before that time a way will have been found to reinforce the river bed so that this catastrophe will be averted. Meanwhile tourists who have not seen the falls had better hurry to beat that thousand year deadline.

INTELLECTUAL SMOG ALERT

For years it was almost one of the cliches of our democracy that many people were woefully ignorant about the simplest aspects of national and world affairs. Recently, however, there have been signs that the general level of information among the American citizenry is rising.

If this is actually so, perhaps one of the scientific foundations ought to undertake a study to see where people are getting their information. There is some doubt they get it in school.

Professor Preston Albright, a Miami (Ohio) University history teacher, writes in the current issue of the magazine School and Society that most college freshmen are foggy on their American history.

He made a check and got some astonishing results. Some students misplaced the Civil War by a couple of centuries. Some through World War I was fought in the 1930's. A few said Grover Cleveland was President at the time.

Nearly all knew George Washington was the nation's first President, but less than a fourth could tell when he took office. All knew that the head of this government today is President Eisenhower, but many came up with weird spellings of his name.

We don't know how widespread these youthful blank spots are. But they suggest glaring weakness in our vaunted system of education.

DO-IT-YOURSELF SAFETY

A speaker before the American Public Health Association said recently that the do-it-yourself movement is helping to make the home more dangerous than traffic. "There is no control over the health and safety of the home hobbyist," he said.

In industry enlightened management and labor unions are constantly seeking ways to make machinery safer. Unfortunately people who have small machine tools for home use do not always take adequate precautions. As a result accidents occur, often crippling or even fatal.

The do-it-yourself idea is good. It can help people live better, provide them with an outlet for creative energies, save them money. But common sense dictates that safety measures be taken. Why let what should be relaxation and pleasure result in misfortune and tragedy? Do it yourself—but do it safely.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

PROFESSIONAL POLICE

When most of us think of a policeman, to mind comes a crotchety person who directs traffic or who tells you to move on when you form part of a crowd. When I was a boy on the sidewalks of New York, it was different. The policeman was an enormous hulk of an Irishman who knew everyone on the block, listened to all their troubles, made peace between husbands and wives, looked after the children so that they would not get into trouble. We had no juvenile delinquents then, just some bad boys and girls and the cop on the beat knew how to take care of them. True, there were street fights, but we had not yet learned that disrespect for parents and elders was a mark of progress and, therefore, when the cop showed up on the corner, the fight was over.

So the other day, I went down to Washington to attend the commencement exercises of the FBI Academy which does not train FBI agents but consists of classes of local police officers who get a refresher course in the techniques of professionalized policing. This Academy has been in existence about 20 years, and has turned out more than 3,000 students.

One of the speakers on this occasion was a former graduate of this school, Stephen P. Kennedy, who is now Police Commissioner of New York, which is an exceedingly tough job because New York is as large as some countries and contains peoples of every race, color, creed and variety of habits, customs and traditions. Also its terrain, as Kennedy pointed out, makes it a difficult place to police. Also the police force is so frightfully undermanned that there are hardly enough to go around.

It was in this atmosphere that I learned what such men as J. Edgar Hoover and Stephen P. Kennedy mean by professional police. What they mean is that the police have functions to perform as a doctor does and that therefore, a police officer has to maintain law and order without regard to the political fortunes of those who temporarily hold elective office.

In New York, it used to be traditional that when a new police commissioner took office, the Mayor or the head of Tammany Hall would hand him instructions for promotions, out of line, based on political gratitude often unrelated to ability. In recent years, this has been complicated by political insistence on the virtue of paying off political debts to the so-called racial and religious minorities. By appointing a person to office who came from one of these groups, the politicians were able to show that they were not guilty of racial or religious discrimination, even if the appointee were a dope.

None of this is professional policing and may be responsible for some of the disrespect for law, order, and policing. So these men in the FBI Academy are given a dose of professional training and professional ideals and it is hoped that when they return to their communities, they will be strong enough in spirit to resist the self-serving politicians.

But there is another side, the technical side of policing which requires constant refreshing if a police officer is to know what he is about. Those who commit crimes against, life, property or civilization can only be convinced by facts. The FBI specializes in facts and is up-to-date mechanically to accumulate, index and deliver facts. One item alone will explain. The FBI has a store of more than 137,000,000 finger prints which are scientifically indexed and which can be delivered by mechanical devices in minutes.

In this day of scientific crime, the policeman must understand a fact when he sees one. He needs to know when and how to get at facts and how to use them so that what he says about the facts will stand up in a court of law under the rules of evidence. Such a police officer as Stephen Kennedy is not only a cop who has walked the beat but he is also a lawyer, as are many FBI agents. Such men know how to prepare their cases so that when they come into court, their testimony is not beaten down by a shrewd lawyer. Whether they deal with dope peddlers or Alger Hisses, it is upon facts that they must depend.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FOOT PROBLEMS IN CHILDREN

Infants or children with feet turned inward or outward are often a source of worry to parents. Sometimes no treatment is required; simple conservative measures are sufficient. In other instances, orthopedic treatment is necessary. (Orthopedics is that branch of surgery concerned with corrective treatment of deformities, diseases and ailments especially those affecting the limbs, bones, muscles and joints, whether by apparatus, manipulation or operation. It was formerly devoted to the correction and treatment of deformities in children).

Quite frquently, these defects correct themselves in time and parents must often be reassured that the child is not being neglected when the doctor feels that this correction will take place in the passage of a few months.

In Modern Medicine in Canada, Drs. Barry Friedman and Earle E. Smith of Mount Sinai Hospital, Cleveland, consider some of the foot problems arising in children. First, there are feet turned inward during infancy in the pre-walking stage. This may be caused by a twisting inward of the tibia or shin bone or by a twisting inward of the foot between the ankle and the toes. Most infants are born with a twisting inward of the shin bone but this usually corrects itself before the infant starts to walk. However, some infants have a persistent inward turning of one or both legs below the knee, the left leg being most frequently the one so affected. The child should be at least six months old before active treatment is considered. If the twisting inward is still noticeable beyond that age, a bar can be attached to the shoes with straps which hold the feet in an outward facing position. The bar is worn day and night (attached to the shoes) for four to six weeks, and thereafter, the device is applied during naps and at night for another three to four weeks. Improvement is usually rapid.

The turning inward of the foot is recognized by the fact that the toes turn inward in relation to the rest of the foot. The outside border of the foot is curved outwardly. No treatment is necessary when the condition is slight but if severe it requires active treatment, usually manipulation and casts, by an orthopedist.

Feet and legs turned outward during infancy in the pre-walking stage are caused by outward turning of the entire lower limb from the hips down. The condition usually occurs on both sides and in infants with fat thighs. Corrective measures should be simple until the child is six months of age. Only single-thickness diapers are applied to avoid bulky masses between the thighs that will exaggerate the outward turning of the legs. If the condition is still noticeable after six months of age, a similar bar to that described above is employed.

Tomorrow we will consider similar defects in the walking child.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — How much good it did to bring the seven Russian journalists to the United States for a grand, transcontinental tour is going to remain something of a mystery. They are a pretty inscrutable bunch.

After their arrival in Washington at the end of their tour, there was one unscheduled and unofficial event where the Russians might have let their hair down. But they didn't reveal a thing.

The group had been taken to see Mount Vernon. Frank Kluckholn—the U. S. newsman who conducted the tour for the State Department — suggested they stop in for a visit with one of his friends, John B. Adams.

A former newspaper, wire service, magazine and radio correspondent, Adams lives across the Potomac in Alexandria, Va., in one of the first all-steel prefabricated houses built in the Washington area.

ADAMS IS ALSO a champion pistol and rifle shot. He won the 50-meter prone competition in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki. He has an extensive collection of trophies and guns in his home. This includes a Russian-made rifle taken from the Hukbalahap rebels in the Philippines—on which the Russians had no comment.

But they liked this informal call. They were interested in everything. How much the house cost. How it was paid for by savings bonds cashed in when the war was over. How the Adams' three-days-a-week maid, married to a chauffeur, is building an even bigger house, of brick.

One of the Russians proposed taking Adams' young daughter back home with him and sending his own daughter here in exchange. The deal didn't go through. But the atmosphere was one of complete friendliness and human understanding.

Kluckholn told the Russians that Adams could shoot out a burning cigarette, held in a smoker's mouth. Boris Izakov, of the Russian magazine International Affairs, immediately lit up a cigarette and asked for a demonstration.

THEY COULDN'T HAVE that right in town. But Adams took them a few miles away where they could do a little shooting.

Being out of practice Adams merely nicked and knocked over the cigarette on his first two shots. On the third he clipped it in two.

Then to show the Russians he wasn't fooling, he took a calling card and stuck it in the bark of a tree edgewise. Facing the edge, he cut the card in two on his first shot.

They all went back to the Adams house for the rest of the afternoon and over a bottle of Scotch everyone relaxed.

Here was the Russians' chance to unburden. But aside from expressing annoyance at a senator who had tried to lecture them that morning, they didn't give.

On the other hand, their questions—though friendly — showed that little understanding of American democracy had sunk in.

THEY HOPE THEIR newspaper articles will be published in book form in this country.

The annual prize which Izakov proposed for the American writer making the greatest contribution to understanding between the two countries was a well-meant gesture.

In the present state of world affairs, however, this is a prize which no American writer could afford to win.

And while a reciprocal American prize award for Russians was suggested by the Soviet newsmen, it is doubtful if any of them could survive an American award.

Coming just at the time when the Geneva conference of foreign ministers has gone bust, there doesn't seem to be any form of cultural exchange which can improve understanding, even though this would seem to be needed more than anything else.

Extraordinary Change of Luck

The Earl of Glasgow (1792-1869) who raced horses for fifty years was always pursued by the most outrageous bad luck. Exasperated, he announced on October 30, 1852, that he would run six of his horses at the Newmarket Races that day and that any of his horses that lost its race would be shot on the spot. For the first and only time in his life, all his six horses won. His full name was James Carr-Boyle, 5th Earl of Glasgow. He never wore an overcoat and had an annual income of $750,000 equal to 15 million dollars today.

Criticism Not Forthcoming From 'Neutralists' on Bomb

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 29—Strangely enough, now that the Russians have exploded a powerful hydrogen bomb, there is no wave of protest from the same quarters which criticized the Atomic Energy Commission in recent months for testing bombs in Nevada. It will be inferred doubtless that, when the Russians do it, the critics in this country and abroad think it's all right. If the United States had exploded such a powerful bomb last week, the United Nations corridors would be rocking with the thunderous comments of the "neutralists" and others who feel America should be prohibited from making atomic tests.

THE MOST sensible comment—a thoroughly American point of view—has come from Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Democrat, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, who called on the United States to step up its hydrogen-bomb tests to answer Russia's display of firepower. He said the United States "cannot afford to take a chance" and that, "if you're in a contest, as their explosions indicate, you better make sure you're up to date."

The Russians announced that, because they exploded their bomb at a high altitude, there was no danger from the "fall-out." The question of what real damage the "fall-out" can do has been debated but, although inside the United States no powerful bombs that could produce a damaging "fall-out" have been tested, quite a furor nevertheless has been stimulated by various persons who never seem to worry about the fact that the Russians are doing some of the same kind of testing.

THE RUSSIANS aren't handicapped by criticism. They don't worry about "the Geneva spirit," either. Even though their top governmental people are in India supposedly to encourage the "neutralist" government there to keep on shouting for "peaceful co-existence," it doesn't seem to bother the Kremlin to pick just such a time to explode the most powerful hydrogen bomb Russia has ever tested.

Information as to what Russia is up to comes from a variety of sources—not the least sensational being a speech by Sen. Stuart Symington, of Missouri, Democrat, who was formerly Secretary of the Air Force under the Truman administration. Speaking at a political dinner this week at Baltimore, Mr. Symington said in part:

"The future looks worse. For a great many years, since 1920, the Soviets have been working continuously on guided and ballistic missiles. They obtained much help from the Nazis in this field.

"IN THIS COUNTRY we have been working casually on comparable missiles. I say casually advisedly—because for two years we dropped entirely the development of the now acknowledged most important weapon in the who missile field — the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"This weapon, with a hydrogen warhead, could hit us from Moscow less than an hour after a button had been pushed.

"Against this weapon there is no known defense, except the automatic deterrent which would result from having buttons and missiles of our own.

"But we have no such missile today, and even now we are not making an all-out effort in this field."

At the Air Force offices here it was said that regrettably no information could be made available, as this would be the same thing as furnishing information to the Russians on a highly secret matter.

The Missouri Senator also makes good political use of a speech by J. Russell Wiggins, chairman of the "Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors," quoting the latter as follows:

"History does not record a free government that was secret or a secret government that was free."

The Russians, of course, censor their press, so they keep secrets. In America there used to be a self-imposed or voluntary censorship by the press itself. It worked well during the two world wars but during the "cold war," when there are being manufactured hydrogen bombs of the most devastating nature and missiles that supposedly can cross between Russia and the United States in an hour's time, the demand is made that all this be published.

MR. SYMINGTON himself argues that the people have a right to know what is being done about missiles. But the Administration isn't anxious to help Russia to know. Hence, the exact amount being spent on missiles is carefully concealed in the budget, and nobody will say for publication either that America has or hasn't licked the missile problem.

It could be, of course, that there is no known defense against the intercontinental ballistic missile because there is no known missile. This correspondent frankly doesn't know either and doesn't want to know, as that's the kind of secret nobody should proclaim from the housetops.

Federal Aid to Education Most Explosive at Meeting

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The men and women taking part in the President's White House conference on education would like to think it will do good. Will it? Or will it be just a lot of people letting off steam?

That was what political-minded Washington wondered about as the conference opened a four-day meeting here Monday. The delegates include educators, labor, farm and civic leaders, businessmen and clergymen.

They may, in spite of their varied views on how to get more schools and teachers, reach some majority opinions without explosions. But they still seem to face a triple problem of time, politics, and money.

THIS CONFERENCE has had a build-up for almost two years, a lot of fanfare, and country-wide interest. President Eisenhower proposed it in a message to Congress Jan. 7, 1954.

Then he created a committee of 34 men and women to advise him on what the government should do about the country's educational needs.

Since then, and at the committee's suggestion, all the states and territories have had their own conferences to discuss what they thought needed to be done.

Reports on all those states' conferences were supposed to be sent to the committee. Not all of them have arrived yet. Only about five states took the trouble to print and bind their reports.

This writer saw them and the unbound reports in the committee's files. Some of those unbound ones appear so disorganized that—if they are a true reflection of what happened at the state conferences—those conferences must have been chaos.

There is disagreement among the states, and within the individual state conferences, on whether the states should have federal aid. That question—federal aid to education—will probably be the most explosive at this conference.

MEANWHILE state officials, —governors and educators—appointed delegates to this convention. They didn't necessarily have to be the same people who took part in their states' conferences.

Some of them, apparently, don't have to be guided at all by what their state conferences agreed on. For instance: the Pennsylvania people were told by their governor that they were coming here uninstructed.

When this conference finishes up Thursday, its reports or recommendations will be turned over to the President's committee. That committee doesn't have to be bound by the action of this conference.

This is where the time element enters. The 34-member committee which Eisenhower created to advise him doesn't meet to decide on recommendations until Jan. 16.

But probably before then—perhaps in the first 10 days of January—Eisenhower will send his state of the union message to Congress, a natural vehicle for any recommendations he wants to make on education.

HE COULD hardly make any specific recommendations unless he had been informed long before the committee's Jan. 16 meeting what its recommendations were likely to be.

But if he makes specific recommendations before he gets the committee's report, then a question arises: why the committee at all and why the conferences?

He could speak in general terms about education and later, after getting the committee's recommendations, send a special message to Congress on education.

But apparently no matter what this conference or Eisenhower's committee recommends on federal aid to education, that subject will be up to its neck in politics anyway.

The Democrats run Congress. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader in the Senate, said a week ago his party would push for federal aid to education. If Eisenhower asks for federal aid, plus other things, he'll be dealing with Democrats in an election year. They'll have ideas of their own, no doubt.

DANGEROUS SECRECY

The Associated Press Managing Editors Association recently adopted a resolution condemning governmental secrecy that is withholding from American citizens facts about their own government that they are entitled to know. The association took a similar stand during the Truman administration on an executive order which gave heads of government agencies the right to decide whether or not information should be classified.

It was hoped that the Eisenhower administration would rescind the order. The fact is, many newsmen claim, it was replaced by one even less satisfactory.

The resolution of condemnation represented sentiment among membership of the APME—it did not involve the Associated Press itself or its staff.

Sensible newspapers would not want any information that would in any way affect the security of the country. And it is generally conceded that steps to preserve important secrets must be taken. Yet the people's right to know what their government is doing must not be denied without extremely good reasons. As matters stand now there is the possibility of abuse of the right to withhold information. The administration would do well to review the order and make the necessary changes.

TO NIAGARA IN A HURRY,

Niagara Falls is doomed. In only 1,000 years the river will have cut back a few hundred yards to a layer of soft rock. When the brink of the falls reaches this layer, it will slice through and form a steep rapids.

Perhaps before that time a way will have been found to reinforce the river bed so that this catastrophe will be averted. Meanwhile tourists who have not seen the falls had better hurry to beat that thousand year deadline.

INTELLECTUAL SMOG ALERT

For years it was almost one of the cliches of our democracy that many people were woefully ignorant about the simplest aspects of national and world affairs. Recently, however, there have been signs that the general level of information among the American citizenry is rising.

If this is actually so, perhaps one of the scientific foundations ought to undertake a study to see where people are getting their information. There is some doubt they get it in school.

Professor Preston Albright, a Miami (Ohio) University history teacher, writes in the current issue of the magazine School and Society that most college freshmen are foggy on their American history.

He made a check and got some astonishing results. Some students misplaced the Civil War by a couple of centuries. Some through World War I was fought in the 1930's. A few said Grover Cleveland was President at the time.

Nearly all knew George Washington was the nation's first President, but less than a fourth could tell when he took office. All knew that the head of this government today is President Eisenhower, but many came up with weird spellings of his name.

We don't know how widespread these youthful blank spots are. But they suggest glaring weakness in our vaunted system of education.

DO-IT-YOURSELF SAFETY

A speaker before the American Public Health Association said recently that the do-it-yourself movement is helping to make the home more dangerous than traffic. "There is no control over the health and safety of the home hobbyist," he said.

In industry enlightened management and labor unions are constantly seeking ways to make machinery safer. Unfortunately people who have small machine tools for home use do not always take adequate precautions. As a result accidents occur, often crippling or even fatal.

The do-it-yourself idea is good. It can help people live better, provide them with an outlet for creative energies, save them money. But common sense dictates that safety measures be taken. Why let what should be relaxation and pleasure result in misfortune and tragedy? Do it yourself—but do it safely.

'These Days'

PROFESSIONAL POLICE

When most of us think of a policeman, to mind comes a crotchety person who directs traffic or who tells you to move on when you form part of a crowd. When I was a boy on the sidewalks of New York, it was different. The policeman was an enormous hulk of an Irishman who knew everyone on the block, listened to all their troubles, made peace between husbands and wives, looked after the children so that they would not get into trouble. We had no juvenile delinquents then, just some bad boys and girls and the cop on the beat knew how to take care of them. True, there were street fights, but we had not yet learned that disrespect for parents and elders was a mark of progress and, therefore, when the cop showed up on the corner, the fight was over.

So the other day, I went down to Washington to attend the commencement exercises of the FBI Academy which does not train FBI agents but consists of classes of local police officers who get a refresher course in the techniques of professionalized policing. This Academy has been in existence about 20 years, and has turned out more than 3,000 students.

One of the speakers on this occasion was a former graduate of this school, Stephen P. Kennedy, who is now Police Commissioner of New York, which is an exceedingly tough job because New York is as large as some countries and contains peoples of every race, color, creed and variety of habits, customs and traditions. Also its terrain, as Kennedy pointed out, makes it a difficult place to police. Also the police force is so frightfully undermanned that there are hardly enough to go around.

It was in this atmosphere that I learned what such men as J. Edgar Hoover and Stephen P. Kennedy mean by professional police. What they mean is that the police have functions to perform as a doctor does and that therefore, a police officer has to maintain law and order without regard to the political fortunes of those who temporarily hold elective office.

In New York, it used to be traditional that when a new police commissioner took office, the Mayor or the head of Tammany Hall would hand him instructions for promotions, out of line, based on political gratitude often unrelated to ability. In recent years, this has been complicated by political insistence on the virtue of paying off political debts to the so-called racial and religious minorities. By appointing a person to office who came from one of these groups, the politicians were able to show that they were not guilty of racial or religious discrimination, even if the appointee were a dope.

None of this is professional policing and may be responsible for some of the disrespect for law, order, and policing. So these men in the FBI Academy are given a dose of professional training and professional ideals and it is hoped that when they return to their communities, they will be strong enough in spirit to resist the self-serving politicians.

But there is another side, the technical side of policing which requires constant refreshing if a police officer is to know what he is about. Those who commit crimes against, life, property or civilization can only be convinced by facts. The FBI specializes in facts and is up-to-date mechanically to accumulate, index and deliver facts. One item alone will explain. The FBI has a store of more than 137,000,000 finger prints which are scientifically indexed and which can be delivered by mechanical devices in minutes.

In this day of scientific crime, the policeman must understand a fact when he sees one. He needs to know when and how to get at facts and how to use them so that what he says about the facts will stand up in a court of law under the rules of evidence. Such a police officer as Stephen Kennedy is not only a cop who has walked the beat but he is also a lawyer, as are many FBI agents. Such men know how to prepare their cases so that when they come into court, their testimony is not beaten down by a shrewd lawyer. Whether they deal with dope peddlers or Alger Hisses, it is upon facts that they must depend.

That Body of Yours

FOOT PROBLEMS IN CHILDREN

Infants or children with feet turned inward or outward are often a source of worry to parents. Sometimes no treatment is required; simple conservative measures are sufficient. In other instances, orthopedic treatment is necessary. (Orthopedics is that branch of surgery concerned with corrective treatment of deformities, diseases and ailments especially those affecting the limbs, bones, muscles and joints, whether by apparatus, manipulation or operation. It was formerly devoted to the correction and treatment of deformities in children).

Quite frquently, these defects correct themselves in time and parents must often be reassured that the child is not being neglected when the doctor feels that this correction will take place in the passage of a few months.

In Modern Medicine in Canada, Drs. Barry Friedman and Earle E. Smith of Mount Sinai Hospital, Cleveland, consider some of the foot problems arising in children. First, there are feet turned inward during infancy in the pre-walking stage. This may be caused by a twisting inward of the tibia or shin bone or by a twisting inward of the foot between the ankle and the toes. Most infants are born with a twisting inward of the shin bone but this usually corrects itself before the infant starts to walk. However, some infants have a persistent inward turning of one or both legs below the knee, the left leg being most frequently the one so affected. The child should be at least six months old before active treatment is considered. If the twisting inward is still noticeable beyond that age, a bar can be attached to the shoes with straps which hold the feet in an outward facing position. The bar is worn day and night (attached to the shoes) for four to six weeks, and thereafter, the device is applied during naps and at night for another three to four weeks. Improvement is usually rapid.

The turning inward of the foot is recognized by the fact that the toes turn inward in relation to the rest of the foot. The outside border of the foot is curved outwardly. No treatment is necessary when the condition is slight but if severe it requires active treatment, usually manipulation and casts, by an orthopedist.

Feet and legs turned outward during infancy in the pre-walking stage are caused by outward turning of the entire lower limb from the hips down. The condition usually occurs on both sides and in infants with fat thighs. Corrective measures should be simple until the child is six months of age. Only single-thickness diapers are applied to avoid bulky masses between the thighs that will exaggerate the outward turning of the legs. If the condition is still noticeable after six months of age, a similar bar to that described above is employed.

Tomorrow we will consider similar defects in the walking child.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — How much good it did to bring the seven Russian journalists to the United States for a grand, transcontinental tour is going to remain something of a mystery. They are a pretty inscrutable bunch.

After their arrival in Washington at the end of their tour, there was one unscheduled and unofficial event where the Russians might have let their hair down. But they didn't reveal a thing.

The group had been taken to see Mount Vernon. Frank Kluckholn—the U. S. newsman who conducted the tour for the State Department — suggested they stop in for a visit with one of his friends, John B. Adams.

A former newspaper, wire service, magazine and radio correspondent, Adams lives across the Potomac in Alexandria, Va., in one of the first all-steel prefabricated houses built in the Washington area.

ADAMS IS ALSO a champion pistol and rifle shot. He won the 50-meter prone competition in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki. He has an extensive collection of trophies and guns in his home. This includes a Russian-made rifle taken from the Hukbalahap rebels in the Philippines—on which the Russians had no comment.

But they liked this informal call. They were interested in everything. How much the house cost. How it was paid for by savings bonds cashed in when the war was over. How the Adams' three-days-a-week maid, married to a chauffeur, is building an even bigger house, of brick.

One of the Russians proposed taking Adams' young daughter back home with him and sending his own daughter here in exchange. The deal didn't go through. But the atmosphere was one of complete friendliness and human understanding.

Kluckholn told the Russians that Adams could shoot out a burning cigarette, held in a smoker's mouth. Boris Izakov, of the Russian magazine International Affairs, immediately lit up a cigarette and asked for a demonstration.

THEY COULDN'T HAVE that right in town. But Adams took them a few miles away where they could do a little shooting.

Being out of practice Adams merely nicked and knocked over the cigarette on his first two shots. On the third he clipped it in two.

Then to show the Russians he wasn't fooling, he took a calling card and stuck it in the bark of a tree edgewise. Facing the edge, he cut the card in two on his first shot.

They all went back to the Adams house for the rest of the afternoon and over a bottle of Scotch everyone relaxed.

Here was the Russians' chance to unburden. But aside from expressing annoyance at a senator who had tried to lecture them that morning, they didn't give.

On the other hand, their questions—though friendly — showed that little understanding of American democracy had sunk in.

THEY HOPE THEIR newspaper articles will be published in book form in this country.

The annual prize which Izakov proposed for the American writer making the greatest contribution to understanding between the two countries was a well-meant gesture.

In the present state of world affairs, however, this is a prize which no American writer could afford to win.

And while a reciprocal American prize award for Russians was suggested by the Soviet newsmen, it is doubtful if any of them could survive an American award.

Coming just at the time when the Geneva conference of foreign ministers has gone bust, there doesn't seem to be any form of cultural exchange which can improve understanding, even though this would seem to be needed more than anything else.

Extraordinary Change of Luck

The Earl of Glasgow (1792-1869) who raced horses for fifty years was always pursued by the most outrageous bad luck. Exasperated, he announced on October 30, 1852, that he would run six of his horses at the Newmarket Races that day and that any of his horses that lost its race would be shot on the spot. For the first and only time in his life, all his six horses won. His full name was James Carr-Boyle, 5th Earl of Glasgow. He never wore an overcoat and had an annual income of $750,000 equal to 15 million dollars today.

Criticism Not Forthcoming From 'Neutralists' on Bomb

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 29—Strangely enough, now that the Russians have exploded a powerful hydrogen bomb, there is no wave of protest from the same quarters which criticized the Atomic Energy Commission in recent months for testing bombs in Nevada. It will be inferred doubtless that, when the Russians do it, the critics in this country and abroad think it's all right. If the United States had exploded such a powerful bomb last week, the United Nations corridors would be rocking with the thunderous comments of the "neutralists" and others who feel America should be prohibited from making atomic tests.

THE MOST sensible comment —a thoroughly American point of view—has come from Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Democrat, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, who called on the United States to step up its hydrogen-bomb tests to answer Russia's display of firepower. He said the United States "cannot afford to take a chance" and that, "if you're in a contest, as their explosions indicate, you better make sure you're up to date."

The Russians announced that, because they exploded their bomb at a high altitude, there was no danger from the "fall-out." The question of what real damage the "fall-out" can do has been debated but, although inside the United States no powerful bombs that could produce a damaging "fall-out" have been tested, quite a furor nevertheless has been stimulated by various persons who never seem to worry about the fact that the Russians are doing some of the same kind of testing.

THE RUSSIANS aren't handicapped by criticism. They don't worry about "the Geneva spirit," either. Even though their top governmental people are in India supposedly to encourage the "neutralist" government there to keep on shouting for "peaceful co-existence," it doesn't seem to bother the Kremlin to pick just such a time to explode the most powerful hydrogen bomb Russia has ever tested.

Information as to what Russia is up to comes from a variety of sources—not the least sensational being a speech by Sen. Stuart Symington, of Missouri, Democrat, who was formerly Secretary of the Air Force under the Truman administration. Speaking at a political dinner this week at Baltimore, Mr. Symington said in part:

"The future looks worse. For a great many years, since 1920, the Soviets have been working continuously on guided and ballistic missiles. They obtained much help from the Nazis in this field.

"IN THIS COUNTRY we have been working casually on comparable missiles. I say casually advisedly—because for two years we dropped entirely the development of the now acknowledged most important weapon in the who missile field — the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"This weapon, with a hydrogen warhead, could hit us from Moscow less than an hour after a button had been pushed.

"Against this weapon there is no known defense, except the automatic deterrent which would result from having buttons and missiles of our own.

"But we have no such missile today, and even now we are not making an all-out effort in this field."

At the Air Force offices here it was said that regrettably no information could be made available, as this would be the same thing as furnishing information to the Russians on a highly secret matter.

The Missouri Senator also makes good political use of a speech by J. Russell Wiggins, chairman of the "Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors," quoting the latter as follows:

"History does not record a free government that was secret or a secret government that was free."

The Russians, of course, censor their press, so they keep secrets. In America there used to be a self-imposed or voluntary censorship by the press itself. It worked well during the two world wars but during the "cold war," when there are being manufactured hydrogen bombs of the most devastating nature and missiles that supposedly can cross between Russia and the United States in an hour's time, the demand is made that all this be published.

MR. SYMINGTON himself argues that the people have a right to know what is being done about missiles. But the Administration isn't anxious to help Russia to know. Hence, the exact amount being spent on missiles is carefully concealed in the budget, and nobody will say for publication either that America has or hasn't licked the missile problem.

It could be, of course, that there is no known defense against the intercontinental ballistic missile because there is no known missile. This correspondent frankly doesn't know either and doesn't want to know, as that's the kind of secret nobody should proclaim from the housetops.

Federal Aid to Education Most Explosive at Meeting

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The men and women taking part in the President's White House conference on education would like to think it will do good. Will it? Or will it be just a lot of people letting off steam?

That was what political-minded Washington wondered about as the conference opened a four-day meeting here Monday. The delegates include educators, labor, farm and civic leaders, businessmen and clergymen.

They may, in spite of their varied views on how to get more schools and teachers, reach some majority opinions without explosions. But they still seem to face a triple problem of time, politics, and money.

THIS CONFERENCE has had a build-up for almost two years, a lot of fanfare, and country-wide interest. President Eisenhower proposed it in a message to Congress Jan. 7, 1954.

Then he created a committee of 34 men and women to advise him on what the government should do about the country's educational needs.

Since then, and at the committee's suggestion, all the states and territories have had their own conferences to discuss what they thought needed to be done.

Reports on all those states' conferences were supposed to be sent to the committee. Not all of them have arrived yet. Only about five states took the trouble to print and bind their reports.

This writer saw them and the unbound reports in the committee's files. Some of those unbound ones appear so disorganized that—if they are a true reflection of what happened at the state conferences—those conferences must have been chaos.

There is disagreement among the states, and within the individual state conferences, on whether the states should have federal aid. That question—federal aid to education—will probably be the most explosive at this conference.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

BY HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—In the wild and woolly west, it seems, there was nothing wilder than a cowboy's aim.

Millions of American kids today take it for granted that the oldtime cowboys were faster than greased lightning on the draw and practically never missed their target in a gunfight.

"THE PLAIN FACT is," says Herbert O. Brayer, "that cowboys as a group were generally poor shots. Alas, it is all too true . . . they couldn't hit the broad side of a barn!"

Brayer, alas, is no mere killjoy bent on overturning youthful idols. He is recognized as a top authority on the wild west, and spent years going through court records and getting sworn testimony to debunk the legend that the average cowboy was an artist with a six-gun.

The result of his researches, proving that cowboys missed more often than they hit, are carried in the January issue of the magazine "Guns."

HERE ARE a few of his disclusures:

Item: The famous Texas cattleman, Charles Goodknight told Brayer: "I've known hundreds of the best and worst cowpunchers in the business, and the number of real working cowboys who could hit a man at 50 feet with a .44 or .45 you could count on your fingers and toes. But some of them were pretty fair shots with a rifle—and some were damn good!

"The best shots in the cow country certainly were not the cowboys — they were the ones who usually got shot! It was the professional gunslingers who spent their time learning to draw fast and shoot straight while the honest cowpoke was busy branding, driving up the drags, repairing fence, or busting steers out of the bush.

"IF THERE WAS a gunfight in town in which someone was badly hurt or killed, you could almost bet there was a professional gunman involved, a lawman, gambler, or one of the outlaws who found safety on the frontier."

Item: Jim Shaw, a veteran trail rider who became president of the Wyoming Stock Growers Assn., said: "I only knew a half dozen real cowboys who were experts with revolvers. My brother could put five out of six bullets into a playing card at 50 feet, but I've seen him miss completely against a live target at 25 feet."

Item: Many cowboys preferred rifles or shotguns to revolvers, and as early as the late 1870's many ranchers forbade the carrying of firearms on the range, during roundups or while on the trail. If on rare occasions they needed a gunman they hired one. They didn't depend on their own cowboys.

Item: In 1881 two rival cowboys got in a gunfight in a Dodge City, (Kan.) saloon. More than 100 shots were fired, and the only casualty was a cat. The cowboys could have done better with rocks or beanshooters.

Item: In one shooting fracas in New Mexico in 1884 a 19-year-old Mexican boy killed four cowboys and wounded six others. then holed up in a dobe hut and fought 80 beseiging cowboys to a draw. Some 4,000 shots were poured at him, but at the end of 33 hours the boy surrendered unharmed on his own terms and got off scot free.

Item: Many cowboys kept their guns in such poor condition that if fired they were more likely to blow up themselves than their quarry. In 1887 U. S. Deputy Marshal Timothy Tooms of the Dakotas said: "Most cowboys are very slow in drawing and unless they take plenty of time to sight their weapons have little chance of hitting even a stationary target."

Item: In 1,020 shooting incidents in 13 cowtowns between 1870 and 1890 Brayer found only 84 cowboys were killed while shooting at each other but 266 cowboys died with their boots on while battling non-cowboys.

THE TRUTH IS that many of the cowboys were teen-agers who wore a six-gun only as a badge of manhood—and really didn't know quite how to handle it if they tried to use it in a hurry.

Of course, kiddies, you already knew that the Indian was a pretty poor shot, too. Or did you? Any good modern archer today could outshoot the bow-and-arrow Indian of a century ago.

Who can a kid believe in? Maybe Buck Rogers . . . maybe.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

How would you like to go to Albany and back for 50 cents. It was done back in 1896 according to the September 3, Kingston Weekly Freeman. It said, "Handsome lithographs had been hung in different business places about Kingston showing a cut of the steamer, General Slocum," and giving data in regard to the excursion. Further on, I notice in the Sept. 10 issue, they say that 3,000 persons went on the Slocum excursion. "They came from all points along Ulster and Delaware, the Wallkill Valley and West Shore railroad. Many came from up the creek and across the river. About 2,000 stood on the dock to see the excursionists start and were packed so closely that it was almost impossible to move about. The 20th Regiment Band accompanied the excursionists, and played continually from their arrival until after the boat started, over an hour. No doubt many old timers remember the tragedy of the steamer, General Slocum, which caught on fire, going through Hell Gate, East River, N. Y. on June 15, 1904 and 1021 lives were lost.

Folks back in 1896 were wondering what the world was coming to according to the Poughkeepsie-News-Press of 1896 as four wheelwomen, (women who rode on bicycles) who have adopted tights. (They are called, ladies' slacks, nowadays.) To be sure, the reporter wrote, "they do not wear them through the principal streets of Poughkeepsie, but on the contrary roads it is nearly an every day occurence to meet these wheelwomen in these garments. They discard their skirts and strap them to the handlebars. One of the wheelwomen told the reporter, "women are going to be emancipated from these long skirts that sweep up the filth of the streets."

I wonder how many old timers remember Howard Myer's cigar store at 39 John street it was opened back in October of 1896. Every patron of the store was presented with a handsome cigar case of either red or black leather, on opening day. It was made to represent a folded glove, and was stamped with Mr. Myer's name and business address in gold letters. In that same October 15 paper an item said: "Preparations for winter are being made at the county treasurer's office, No. 65 John street. The stove was put up today." Those were the days when there were firms who took down the coal stoves in the spring, clean them and stored them in their places of business and in the fall set them up again ready for the winter. There are many folks today that would not know how to approach a coal stove, they are used to push-button heat. I have yet to see anyone toast marshmallows, bake potatoes, or pop corn, or chestnuts on a push-button heating system. A tea kettle singing a tune together with the purring of a fat cat near the woodbox, and hot delicious food on the good old coal stove made for peace and contentment in most every home across the country.

It seems that seldom does a week go back in the old newspapers that some flood items or bad weather is not mentioned. In the above issue it told about the wind blowing so hard up the Hudson river that the water in the creek rose several feet. In Ponckhockie, the docks were completely covered and at the railroad dock, work had to be stopped. The Colonial tracks were covered in many places to the depth of a foot.

Fruit-Filled Tea Breads Symbolize Yule Hospitality

BY GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food and Markets Editor

When friends drop in during the hospitable Christmas holidays, serve them your best fruited tea bread with tea or punch. It's a delightful way to express the good will of the season.

Here's a new way to make the service easier—slice it ahead of time and spread softened butter on each slice. Put it back together again to form a loaf. Each guest can serve himself without fuss or bother.

Orange Tea Bread
(Makes 2 small loaves)

One cup milk, ¾ cup sugar, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ½ cup shortening, ¼ cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast), 2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed; 2 eggs, beaten; grated peel of one orange, 5½ cups flour, ½ cup candied orange peel.

Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Measure water into a large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, for active dry yeast; lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add eggs and grated orange peel. Stir in half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in candied orange peel. Add remaining flour and turn out on floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and rub top with shortening. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour. Shape into loaves, place in a warm place in greased loaf pans 9x5x3 inches. Cover let rise in a warm place, free from draft until doubled in bulk, about one hour. Bake at 375 degrees F. (moderate oven) about 35 minutes. While still warm, frost with Confectioners' Sugar Frosting and decorate as desired with candied cherries and nuts.

Confectioners' Sugar Frosting

Combine ½ cup sifted confectioners' sugar with enough lightly beaten egg white to make spreading consistency.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Roast rump of veal, casserole of noodles with cheese, green beans, romaine salad, French dressing, enriched bread, butter or margarine, fruited tea bread, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

FOR HOSPITALITY which is decorative as well as delicious, have Orange Tea bread ready to serve.

To Dedicate Memorial

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 29 (AP)—A new memorial to the men who died here in the first Japanese attack of World War 2 will be dedicated Dec. 7. The memorial, sponsored by the Navy Club of America, is a 10 foot high natural lava rock with a plaque. The rock has been placed on Ford Island in Pearl Harbor.

Gets Biggest Wish

Newark, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—It was a tough fight, but John Carl Leonard won his "Battle of the Calories" and knocked off enough poundage to fulfill his biggest wish—acceptance in the U. S. Army. Leonard, 21, who went on a rigid diet after the army turned him down as overweight, tasted the fruits of victory yesterday. The youth, born in America but raised in Scotland, managed to pare 34 pounds from his 262-pound frame in eight weeks and was accepted in the service.

Gains Custody of Son

Cleveland, Nov. 29 (AP)—Orchestra Leader Blue Barron won a divorce and custody of his 4-year-old son Gary yesterday in Common Pleas Court. Judge Edward Blythin, in granting the divorce on Barron's cross petition, said the case was "wholly one-sided." The judge dismissed a petition filed last August by Geraldine Barron, 36, charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty. Barron contended his wife nagged him and frequented taverns with other men.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

BY HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—In the wild and woolly west, it seems, there was nothing wilder than a cowboy's aim.

Millions of American kids today take it for granted that the oldtime cowboys were faster than greased lightning on the draw and practically never missed their target in a gunfight.

"THE PLAIN FACT is," says Herbert O. Brayer, "that cowboys as a group were generally poor shots. Alas, it is all too true . . . they couldn't hit the broad side of a barn!"

Brayer, alas, is no mere killjoy bent on overturning youthful idols. He is recognized as a top authority on the wild west, and spent years going through court records and getting sworn testimony to debunk the legend that the average cowboy was an artist with a six-gun.

The result of his researches, proving that cowboys missed more often than they hit, are carried in the January issue of the magazine "Guns."

HERE ARE a few of his disclusures:

Item: The famous Texas cattleman, Charles Goodknight told Brayer: "I've known hundreds of the best and worst cowpunchers in the business, and the number of real working cowboys who could hit a man at 50 feet with a .44 or .45 you could count on your fingers and toes. But some of them were pretty fair shots with a rifle—and some were damn good!

"The best shots in the cow country certainly were not the cowboys — they were the ones who usually got shot! It was the professional gunslingers who spent their time learning to draw fast and shoot straight while the honest cowpoke was busy branding, driving up the drags, repairing fence, or busting steers out of the bush.

"IF THERE WAS a gunfight in town in which someone was badly hurt or killed, you could almost bet there was a professional gunman involved, a lawman, gambler, or one of the outlaws who found safety on the frontier."

Item: Jim Shaw, a veteran trail rider who became president of the Wyoming Stock Growers Assn., said: "I only knew a half dozen real cowboys who were experts with revolvers. My brother could put five out of six bullets into a playing card at 50 feet, but I've seen him miss completely against a live target at 25 feet."

Item: Many cowboys preferred rifles or shotguns to revolvers, and as early as the late 1870's many ranchers forbade the carrying of firearms on the range, during roundups or while on the trail. If on rare occasions they needed a gunman they hired one. They didn't depend on their own cowboys.

Item: In 1881 two rival cowboys got in a gunfight in a Dodge City, (Kan.) saloon. More than 100 shots were fired, and the only casualty was a cat. The cowboys could have done better with rocks or beanshooters.

Item: In one shooting fracas in New Mexico in 1884 a 19-year-old Mexican boy killed four cowboys and wounded six others. then holed up in a dobe hut and fought 80 beseiging cowboys to a draw. Some 4,000 shots were poured at him, but at the end of 33 hours the boy surrendered unharmed on his own terms and got off scot free.

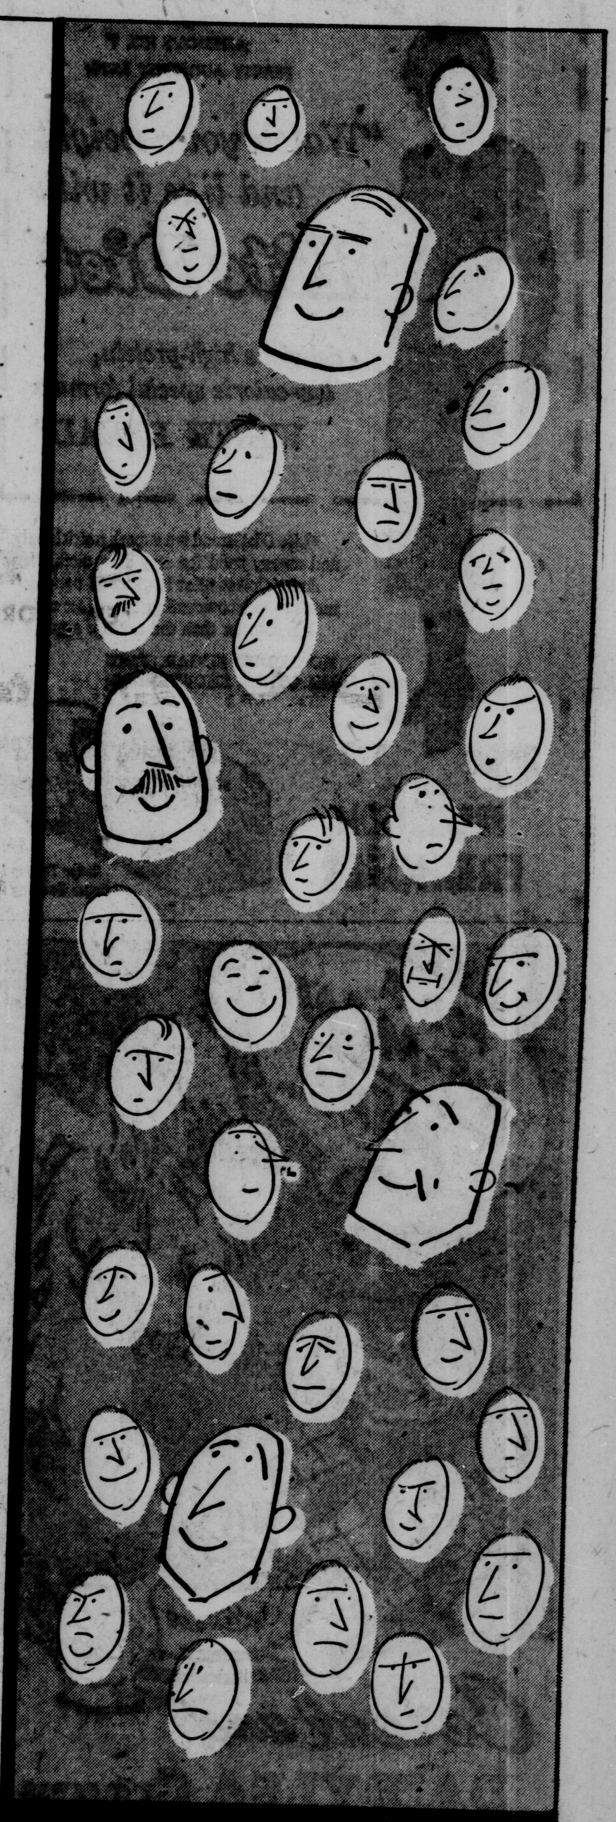
who are considering replacement or extensive repair of their heating systems.
Here are some points to think about.
INITIAL COST. Of all the automatic heating systems in common use, a Natural Gas furnace or conversion burner costs less to buy and install.
LONG LIFE. A Natural Gas burner has fewer moving parts to wear —outlasts other more complicated burner types by many years.
EFFICIENCY-CLEANLINESS. Natural Gas contains no impurities to reduce furnace efficiency — burns without soot, moisture or ash. Keeps cleaning chores at a minimum.
STORAGE. Other fuels may take valuable and expensive space. Natural Gas heat requires no storage and is delivered automatically.
DEPENDABILITY. The rugged, simple construction of Natural Gas equipment and the clean-burning properties of the fuel combine to give you years of trouble-free operation.
ECONOMY. Thousands of users will testify that all costs considered, Natural Gas heat compares favorably with any other system on the market.
It's worth a lot of serious thought!



Of course there's no such thing as the "perfect fuel." Everyone (and that includes ours) has its limitations. But we honestly feel that where Natural Gas is available, it's the fuel that offers most to the user. If you're thinking about changing, call your local heating dealer or Central Hudson. Or tear out this coupon and send it to us. (There's no obligation, of course.)

Harriman Tests Voter View on Old Farm Plan

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 29—Gov. Harriman, who can use an attractive farm plank if he wants the Democratic presidential nomination, is testing voter reaction to some principles of the old, controversial Brannan plan.

He made several references to key aspects of the plan recently in the suggestions he submitted to the U. S. Senate Agriculture committee at a hearing in Utica.

FURTHERMORE, two members of his Department of Agriculture and Markets long have been sympathetic toward the Brannan plan.

The plan, submitted to Congress in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture in the cabinet of former Democratic president Truman, evoked a storm and was rejected.

Briefly, this is how Brannan explained his plan to Congress:

There would be no more government support prices, as such, on farm commodities.

Instead, the farmer would be guaranteed a certain price for his produce. The price would be figured through use of a parity standard, which Brannan said would be "modernized."

IN THE CASE of perishable commodities, the farmer would sell on a "free" market, governed only by the law of supply and demand. Then, the government would pay him a subsidy, which would be the difference between what his produce actually brought on the market and the guaranteed price. This subsidy was termed a "production payment."

For commodities that could be stored and kept, the government would provide a similar price through guaranteed loans, marketing agreements and other devices.

The plan was aimed at providing prices for the farmer that would assure him an income roughly on a par with industrial workers and other segments of the economy. In return for his high price, the farmer would be asked to submit to certain rigid controls.

Those favoring the plan said it had two practical advantages: the farmer would get a high price. The consumer would pay a low price. Opponents charged that taxes would have to be raised both to the farmer and consumer to get the money to pay the subsidies.

Thus, they said, the farmer's price wouldn't be as high as it looked. Morover, the consumer, although actually paying less for the produce, still would be paying a high price via taxes.

BRANNAN ARGUED that his plan probably would not cost the government any more than the huge sums paid to buy surplus commodities under the high price-support system then in effect.

Brannan would have imposed three qualifications:

1. Farmers would have to agree to controls such as acreage restrictions and production allotments. (Testimony before the committee in Utica was that most New York state farmers did not want such controls.)

2. Farmers would be compelled to comply with federal soil conservation regulations. (Farm spokesmen say most modern farmers do comply with these rules on the present voluntary basis.)

3. The size of farms eligible for payments under the plan would be limited to certain maximum production figures. (This made the plan especially appealing to small family-farmers and objectionable to the larger, corporate-type farmers.)

In his Utica statement, Harriman said:

"I say it is wrong for farmers not to receive their full share of the national income." (The Brannan plan was aimed at getting them a full share.)

THE GOVERNOR suggested that "we may well try production payments where there is no other satisfactory way of supporting farm income, on a temporary basis during the present emergency."

Harriman also said he believed that as a nation "we should do more to encourage family-sized farms before they are completely swallowed in the trend of the times." And, he remarked:

"WE COULD EXTEND the soil conservation program to divert acreage temporarily from production." (Part of the Brannan plan.)

Daniel J. Carey, state agriculture commissioner who worked with Brannan under Truman, told a reporter he believed Harriman was leaning heavily toward the Brannan plan. Other authoritative farm sources have said the same thing.

Paul Smith, deputy agriculture commissioner, urged the principle of the Brannan plan by name in his testimony before the Senate committee, which has been investigating agriculture's economic problems.

But Sen. Spessard Holland, a Florida Democrat, told one of the many witnesses who urged the Brannan plan in Utica that farmers producing more than half of the nation's agricultural products—on a dollar-value basis—were opposed to the plan. These would be the larger farmers who feel they wouldn't get a fair shake under it.

Allan B. Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau at the time the plan first was proposed, said of it:

"It sounds to me like a vote-getting appeal."

St. Marks Pastor Has Special Talk

Prior to the mass meeting of all races, creeds and religions at St. Mark's AME Church on Sunday, Dec. 4, the Rev. S. B. Chappell, pastor and the congregation are inviting every one who is not attending their respective services or church to attend at 11 a. m. to hear the Rev. Mr. Chappell preach.

In regard to his subject, the Rev. Mr. Chappell asks, "Is it not true that since 1914, the churches of the world have been existing or hanging between the Devil and the deep blue sea?"

The St. Mark's Church pastor announced that in his sermon he "shall produce common facts and not fiction, that the churches are hanging between the Devil and the deep blue sea."

You sometimes read in the text books of a grand slam that can be made only by what is known as a triple trump coup. If you come to the conclusion that such hands never actually came up in play, you wouldn't be far wrong. Just such a hand did, however, turn up in the match between Norway and Italy this year in the European Championships.

Both teams actually stopped short at six hearts, but both trembled on the verge of bidding the grand slam. If the grand slam had been bid, as shown in the bidding diagram, any ranking expert would make the grand slam by means of the triple coup.

Dummy wins the first trick with the ace of spades, and the ace of hearts is taken. Declarer gets to his hand by ruffing a spade in order to draw another round of trumps with the king.

Since West discards a spade on the second trump, the situation is all too clear. South must now find some way of preventing the loss of a trump trick to East's jack.

South must plan to ruff twice more in his own hand, after which the lead must be placed in the dummy. Eventually East's trumps will be picked up even though dummy cannot lead a trump through him.

After drawing the second round of trumps with the king, South continues with a club to the dummy and a club ruff. He gets back to dummy with a top diamond to ruff another club, and the dummy is re-entered with the second top diamond. Now dummy continues to lead high clubs through East until he trumps. Whenever East trumps the party is over since South can overruff and take the rest of the tricks.

Rules Stressed By Summerfield In Yule Mailing

Old post office rules which are often forgotten in the mailing of Christmas cards were stressed in a notice issued recently by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Return as well as the recipients' addresses should be on all cards with stamps firmly affixed, he urged, and cards sent out of town should be mailed not later than Dec. 15, or sooner to distant points. Those for local delivery should be mailed by Dec. 17.

WORK OF POSTAL employes will also be facilitated, he suggested, if cards for local delivery and the others are tied in separate bundles and labeled for the separate kind of delivery.

Cards bearing three-cent stamps are for first-class delivery. They are sorted and delivered first, and will be forwarded, or returned, if necessary, provided a return address is on the envelope.

ONLY CARDS bearing three or six-cent airmail stamps, may include a personal message. Nothing more than a signature is authorized on cards mailed at and they may not be sealed. the two-cent, third-class rate, Cards mailed at the two-cent rate may not measure less than two and three-quarter by four inches.

The best time to avoid crowds at stamp windows in most post offices are before 10 a. m., and between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m.

Gasoline Sales Head For New High in N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—The state tax commissioner reports that gasoline sales in New York are heading for a new high this year.

George M. Bragalini said yesterday that sales in the first nine months of 1955 were seven per cent higher than in the same period of last year.

Sales from Jan. 1 through Sept. 30 were 2,666,913,213 gallons, compared with 2,492,610,129 gallons for the first nine months and 3,346,818,494 gallons in all of 1954.

Net tax receipts in the first three quarters of this year were $94,648,391, as against $88,622,677 for January - September, 1954.

The state collects four cents a gallon on all gasoline sales, except those to the government or for non-highway uses.

Harriman Tests Voter View on Old Farm Plan

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 29—Gov. Harriman, who can use an attractive farm plank if he wants the Democratic presidential nomination, is testing voter reaction to some principles of the old, controversial Brannan plan.

He made several references to key aspects of the plan recently in the suggestions he submitted to the U. S. Senate Agriculture committee at a hearing in Utica.

FURTHERMORE, two members of his Department of Agriculture and Markets long have been sympathetic toward the Brannan plan.

The plan, submitted to Congress in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture in the cabinet of former Democratic president Truman, evoked a storm and was rejected.

Briefly, this is how Brannan explained his plan to Congress:

There would be no more government support prices, as such, on farm commodities.

Instead, the farmer would be guaranteed a certain price for his produce. The price would be figured through use of a parity standard, which Brannan said would be "modernized."

IN THE CASE of perishable commodities, the farmer would sell on a "free" market, governed only by the law of supply and demand. Then, the government would pay him a subsidy, which would be the difference between what his produce actually brought on the market and the guaranteed price. This subsidy was termed a "production payment."

For commodities that could be stored and kept, the government would provide a similar price through guaranteed loans, marketing agreements and other devices.

The plan was aimed at providing prices for the farmer that would assure him an income roughly on a par with industrial workers and other segments of the economy. In return for his high price, the farmer would be asked to submit to certain rigid controls.

Those favoring the plan said it had two practical advantages: the farmer would get a high price. The consumer would pay a low price. Opponents charged that taxes would have to be raised both to the farmer and consumer to get the money to pay the subsidies.

Thus, they said, the farmer's price wouldn't be as high as it looked. Morover, the consumer, although actually paying less for the produce, still would be paying a high price via taxes.

BRANNAN ARGUED that his plan probably would not cost the government any more than the huge sums paid to buy surplus commodities under the high price-support system then in effect.

Brannan would have imposed three qualifications:

1. Farmers would have to agree to controls such as acreage restrictions and production allotments. (Testimony before the committee in Utica was that most New York state farmers did not want such controls.)

2. Farmers would be compelled to comply with federal soil conservation regulations. (Farm spokesmen say most modern farmers do comply with these rules on the present voluntary basis.)

3. The size of farms eligible for payments under the plan would be limited to certain maximum production figures. (This made the plan especially appealing to small family-farmers and objectionable to the larger, corporate-type farmers.)

In his Utica statement, Harriman said:

"I say it is wrong for farmers not to receive their full share of the national income." (The Brannan plan was aimed at getting them a full share.)

THE GOVERNOR suggested that "we may well try production payments where there is no other satisfactory way of supporting farm income, on a temporary basis during the present emergency."

Harriman also said he believed that as a nation "we should do more to encourage family-sized farms before they are completely swallowed in the trend of the times." And, he remarked:

"WE COULD EXTEND the soil conservation program to divert acreage temporarily from production." (Part of the Brannan plan.)

Daniel J. Carey, state agriculture commissioner who worked with Brannan under Truman, told a reporter he believed Harriman was leaning heavily toward the Brannan plan. Other authoritative farm sources have said the same thing.

Paul Smith, deputy agriculture commissioner, urged the principle of the Brannan plan by name in his testimony before the Senate committee, which has been investigating agriculture's economic problems.

But Sen. Spessard Holland, a Florida Democrat, told one of the many witnesses who urged the Brannan plan in Utica that farmers producing more than half of the nation's agricultural products—on a dollar-value basis—were opposed to the plan. These would be the larger farmers who feel they wouldn't get a fair shake under it.

Allan B. Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau at the time the plan first was proposed, said of it:

"It sounds to me like a vote-getting appeal."

St. Marks Pastor Has Special Talk

Prior to the mass meeting of all races, creeds and religions at St. Mark's AME Church on Sunday, Dec. 4, the Rev. S. B. Chappell, pastor and the congregation are inviting every one who is not attending their respective services or church to attend at 11 a. m. to hear the Rev. Mr. Chappell preach.

In regard to his subject, the Rev. Mr. Chappell asks, "Is it not true that since 1914, the churches of the world have been existing or hanging between the Devil and the deep blue sea?"

The St. Mark's Church pastor announced that in his sermon he "shall produce common facts and not fiction, that the churches are hanging between the Devil and the deep blue sea."

You sometimes read in the text books of a grand slam that can be made only by what is known as a triple trump coup. If you come to the conclusion that such hands never actually came up in play, you wouldn't be far wrong. Just such a hand did, however, turn up in the match between Norway and Italy this year in the European Championships.

Both teams actually stopped short at six hearts, but both trembled on the verge of bidding the grand slam. If the grand slam had been bid, as shown in the bidding diagram, any ranking expert would make the grand slam by means of the triple coup.

Dummy wins the first trick with the ace of spades, and the ace of hearts is taken. Declarer gets to his hand by ruffing a spade in order to draw another round of trumps with the king.

Since West discards a spade on the second trump, the situation is all too clear. South must now find some way of preventing the loss of a trump trick to East's jack.

South must plan to ruff twice more in his own hand, after which the lead must be placed in the dummy. Eventually East's trumps will be picked up even though dummy cannot lead a trump through him.

After drawing the second round of trumps with the king, South continues with a club to the dummy and a club ruff. He gets back to dummy with a top diamond to ruff another club, and the dummy is re-entered with the second top diamond. Now dummy continues to lead high clubs through East until he trumps. Whenever East trumps the party is over since South can overruff and take the rest of the tricks.

Rules Stressed By Summerfield In Yule Mailing

Old post office rules which are often forgotten in the mailing of Christmas cards were stressed in a notice issued recently by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Return as well as the recipients' addresses should be on all cards with stamps firmly affixed, he urged, and cards sent out of town should be mailed not later than Dec. 15, or sooner to distant points. Those for local delivery should be mailed by Dec. 17.

WORK OF POSTAL employes will also be facilitated, he suggested, if cards for local delivery and the others are tied in separate bundles and labeled for the separate kind of delivery.

Cards bearing three-cent stamps are for first-class delivery. They are sorted and delivered first, and will be forwarded, or returned, if necessary, provided a return address is on the envelope.

ONLY CARDS bearing three or six-cent airmail stamps, may include a personal message. Nothing more than a signature is authorized on cards mailed at and they may not be sealed. the two-cent, third-class rate, Cards mailed at the two-cent rate may not measure less than two and three-quarter by four inches.

The best time to avoid crowds at stamp windows in most post offices are before 10 a. m., and between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m.

Gasoline Sales Head For New High in N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—The state tax commissioner reports that gasoline sales in New York are heading for a new high this year.

George M. Bragalini said yesterday that sales in the first nine months of 1955 were seven per cent higher than in the same period of last year.

Sales from Jan. 1 through Sept. 30 were 2,666,913,213 gallons, compared with 2,492,610,129 gallons for the first nine months and 3,346,818,494 gallons in all of 1954.

Net tax receipts in the first three quarters of this year were $94,648,391, as against $88,622,677 for January - September, 1954.

The state collects four cents a gallon on all gasoline sales, except those to the government or for non-highway uses.

Physicians Warned on Harsh Laxatives, Serious Effects

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

Boston, Nov. 28 (AP)—Doctors were advised today to be on the alert for an intestinal ailment linked with abuse of certain laxatives lest it be mistaken for even more serious conditions.

Two University of Buffalo physicians said people who use certain strong "irritant" cathartics for prolonged periods of time can develop the condition and that doctors should keep it in mind not alone for its own potential harmfulness but also for this reason:

IT IS MARKED by changes in both the large and small intestines which, under X-ray examination, could falsely suggest the presence of such diseases as ulcerative colitis, enteritis, or even intestinal tuberculosis.

Therefore, advised doctors Norman Heilbrun and Charles Bernstein, patients in whom X-ray findings suggest outright inflammatory disease of the intestinal area should first be questioned as to whether they had used strong "irritant" cathartics for long periods.

If such is the case, they indicated, treatment then could be directed towards eliminating the cathartic cause of the ailment instead of incorrectly treating for a more serious condition.

THE BUFFALO doctors tell about it in a scientific exhibit prepared for the clinical meeting of the American Medical Association (AMA) which opens on Tuesday.

They describe X-ray findings in a series of patients, "each of whom had ingested irritant cathartics daily for at least 20 years."

Approximately 4,000 doctors are expected to attend the four-day annual session which, the AMA says, is designed "to provide the family doctor with the best solution for his day-to-day medical problems."

SCIENTIFIC lectures, panel discussions and surgical operations televised in color are among the items on the program, and the AMA's policy-making house of delegates will hold concurrent sessions.

In another scientific exhibit prepared for the meeting, a team of doctors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company present results of new research into the longevity of persons with mental and personality disorders.

Dr. William P. Shepard and two colleagues report that a recent survey of numerous life insurance companies from 1935 to 1950 showed the following:

INSURANCE applicants who recovered from relatively mild psychoneuroses had a survival rate after recovery only slightly below that of standard insurance risks.

And, even in the case of insured persons who had recovered from severe mental illness, survivorship compared "not too unfavorably" with standard, their report says.

General to Retire

Honolulu, Nov. 29 (AP) — Lt. Gen. John W. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel left the Pacific area last night for retirement. The former Korean war and Pacific army commander, who last headed the U. GE Board Head Says U. S. Needs More Investors

Hollywood, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—What this nation needs, said Philip D. Reed, is 50 million capitalists to help finance America's tremendous growth in the immediate future.

Reed, chairman of the board of General Electric, called for a seven-fold increase in the ranks of capitalism today at the 44th annual convention of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America.

THERE NOW are only six or seven million stockholders in this country, Reed said, and a total of 40 to 50 million are needed. "This tremendous increase in stockholders appears imperative if industry is to raise the private funds necessary to meet the staggering capital requirements of expansion in the years ahead."

General Electric, he said, has "enormous confidence" in the future. He cited four reasons for that confidence in his prepared speech:

1. "The large and assured population growth in the United States."

2. The new position of economic, military and political strength but the western democracies have achieved means more and more "of our rapidly rising national production can be devoted to increasing our standard of living rather than to defense."

3. An annual expenditure of four billion dollars for research "provides convincing assurances of a continued flow of new knowledge, new ideas and new products that will stimulate both investment and demand in the years ahead, and this means further growth."

4. "The emergence of our own particular brand of capitalism—a people's capitalism, in which the masses, not simply the privileged few, enjoy its fruits and benefits."

AS A GAUGE of the country's growth, Reed said: "We expect the use of electricity to double within the next 10 years, just as it has during each decade on the average since before the turn of the century. We are now projecting the sale of a trillion kilowatt hours of electricity in some fairly nearby year."

The federal taxation committee of the IBA advocated lower taxes on capital gains and high bracket earnings. The ultimate goal, said the committee, should be elimination of the capital gains tax altogether, but the immediate goal is reformation of the income tax.

A ceiling on income taxes of 50 per cent was recommended.

Limiting capital gains to three per cent of the value of the property sold was advocated. The maximum rate of 25 per cent would be left undisturbed.

Harriman Reply Says GOP Regime Is Floundering

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Gov. Harriman says President Eisenhower's administration is "obviously floundering."

The governor, a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, made the comment yesterday in reply to remarks made by Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman. Harriman did not refer to Eisenhower by name.

"It is not surprising," the governor said in a brief statement, "that the chairman of the Republican national committee should want to put a gag on discussion of our foreign policy when the administration is so obviously floundering."

HARRIMAN ACCUSED the administration of failure "to give the right kind of leadership in the struggle against communism."

Hall had said at Gettysburg, Pa., earlier in the day that it seemed "pretty dangerous and certainly not in the best interests of the country to be talking the way candidate-for-president Harriman is speaking today."

The GOP official spoke to reporters after he had conferred on politics with the President. Hall said, however, that Eisenhower had not mentioned Harriman.

THE GOVERNOR, a former diplomat under Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman, frequently has criticized foreign policy of the Eisenhower administration.

Harriman has said he would not seek the Democratic presidential nomination. But when asked recently whether he felt he should serve out his term in Albany, he said it was "the recognized right of a man to seek another office" while already holding one. His term as governor expires Dec. 31, 1958.

HIS STATEMENT follows:

"It is not surprising that the chairman of the Republican national committee should want to put a gag on discussion of the conduct of our foreign policy when the administration is so obviously floundering.

"I know our friends of the free world, and I know they are reassured when we point out the failure of the administration to give the right kind of leadership in the struggle against communism."

Physicians Warned on Harsh Laxatives, Serious Effects

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

Boston, Nov. 28 (AP)—Doctors were advised today to be on the alert for an intestinal ailment linked with abuse of certain laxatives lest it be mistaken for even more serious conditions.

Two University of Buffalo physicians said people who use certain strong "irritant" cathartics for prolonged periods of time can develop the condition and that doctors should keep it in mind not alone for its own potential harmfulness but also for this reason:

IT IS MARKED by changes in both the large and small intestines which, under X-ray examination, could falsely suggest the presence of such diseases as ulcerative colitis, enteritis, or even intestinal tuberculosis.

Therefore, advised doctors Norman Heilbrun and Charles Bernstein, patients in whom X-ray findings suggest outright inflammatory disease of the intestinal area should first be questioned as to whether they had used strong "irritant" cathartics for long periods.

If such is the case, they indicated, treatment then could be directed towards eliminating the cathartic cause of the ailment instead of incorrectly treating for a more serious condition.

THE BUFFALO doctors tell about it in a scientific exhibit prepared for the clinical meeting of the American Medical Association (AMA) which opens on Tuesday.

They describe X-ray findings in a series of patients, "each of whom had ingested irritant cathartics daily for at least 20 years."

Approximately 4,000 doctors are expected to attend the four-day annual session which, the AMA says, is designed "to provide the family doctor with the best solution for his day-to-day medical problems."

SCIENTIFIC lectures, panel discussions and surgical operations televised in color are among the items on the program, and the AMA's policy-making house of delegates will hold concurrent sessions.

In another scientific exhibit prepared for the meeting, a team of doctors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company present results of new research into the longevity of persons with mental and personality disorders.

Dr. William P. Shepard and two colleagues report that a recent survey of numerous life insurance companies from 1935 to 1950 showed the following:

INSURANCE applicants who recovered from relatively mild psychoneuroses had a survival rate after recovery only slightly below that of standard insurance risks.

And, even in the case of insured persons who had recovered from severe mental illness, survivorship compared "not too unfavorably" with standard, their report says.

General to Retire

Honolulu, Nov. 29 (AP) — Lt. Gen. John W. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel left the Pacific area last night for retirement. The former Korean war and Pacific army commander, who last headed the U. S. military advisory group in Viet Nam, said he feels the Far Eastern situation has improved in the past year. "The danger of Red aggression in Viet Nam is still present, but the administration of President Diem is active in counteracting the threat," he said.

Miss Dolores Mackey Weds Joseph Fallon

Miss Dolores Ann Mackey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Mackey of Fox Hollow Road, Rhinebeck, became the bride of Joseph Paul Fallon, son of Mrs. Samuel Day and the late Joseph P. Fallon, of West Hurley, Saturday at 2 p. m., November 26 in the Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. George Moore, of St. Mary's Church in Wappingers Falls, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Arthur Cozine was at the organ and Donald Sweeney was the soloist.

The church was decorated with white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a white velvet gown with a long waisted shirred bodice, long sleeves and a scoop neckline with sequin embroidered flowers at the shoulders. The very full gathered skirt formed a round chapel length train. Her veil was finger-tip length white silk illusion caught to a princess crown of seed pearls and sequins. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, pom pons and miniature roses.

Mrs. Milton Semanek of Wappinger Falls was the matron of honor and she wore a coral velveteen princess styled gown with bracelet sleeves, a scoop neckline and a flared cocktail length skirt. Her veiled crown was the same color as the gown and she carried a cascade of bronze pom pons and yellow and pink rose buds.

The bridesmaids included Diane Conklin, Carol Decker and Mrs. John Harrison, all of Rhinebeck.

Their gowns were similar in style to the matron of honor's in colors of emerald green.

Flower girl was Cindy Lou Merryweather.

Best man was William Dietz of Tillson and ushers included Robert Baird, Frank Falowtico, Robert Schonger and William Steuding.

A reception for approximately 225 guests was held at the Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck.

Miss Mackey graduated from Rhinebeck Central School and attended Ladycliff Academy and also completed a two-year course at Barry College for Women in Miami, Florida. She is employed at IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Joseph's School and Kingston High School. He, too, is employed by IBM in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and the southern states, the bride chose a beige Jersey dress, blonde Othello coat and hat, brown accessories and a double orchid corsage.

The couple will reside at 52 Lucas avenue.

Christmas Bazaar and Supper

The Stone Ridge Reformed Church will hold their Christmas Bazaar December 3, beginning at 1 p. m. in the church basement.

Gifts of all types will be available including items for children such as toys, dolls, dolls' clothes.

A hot plate supper will be served at 5 p. m. until all are served. On the menu will be ham, potatoes, baked beans, cabbage salad, Boston brown bread, cake and ice cream.

MRS. CONRAD S. SERNIAK

Sheehan-Serniak Nuptials Are Held

Miss Daryl Sheehan, daughter of Mrs. Harold Sheehan of 12 Washington avenue, became the bride of Conrad S. Serniak, son of Mrs. Stephen Serniak of 220 Yonkers avenue, Yonkers, Saturday, Nov. 26 at 12 noon in St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. James Keating performed the double ring ceremony.

At the organ was Mrs. C. Rafferty and Miss Patricia Keefe sang the Ave Maria, Mother at Your Feet I'm Kneeling.

The church was decorated with white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Turner and she wore a white rosepoint lace over satin fitted gown with a portrait neckline, long fitted gown with a portrait neckline, long fitted sleeves and a bouffant skirt which terminated in a lace chapel length train over accordion pleated nylon. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was attached to a lace and pearl trimmed circular satin headpiece and she carried a stylized cascade of orange blossoms and white camellias and white satin ribbon showers and stephanotis.

Miss Ann Sheehan of 12 Washington avenue was the maid of honor for her sister. She wore a water blue crystallette waltz length gown in empire bouffant style with three-quarter push-up sleeves and crushed cummerbunds. Her headpiece was a veiled clip in matching nylon tulle.

Bridemaids included Miss Lois Sheehan, another sister, and Miss Rosemary Conway of 80 Emerson street. Their gowns were of the same style as that of the maid of honor in delft blue.

The best man was Valentine A. Nowicki of 212 Palisade avenue, Yonkers.

Brothers of the bridegroom, Raymond S. Serniak of Yonkers and Donald S. Serniak of Flushing, L. I., were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Brookside Inn for approximately 60 guests.

Miss Sheehan is a graduate of St. Ursula's Academy and attended Albany State College. She is a member of Gamma Kappa Phi sorority and a teacher at St. Joseph's School in Kingston.

The bridegroom holds an AB Degree from Albany State Teachers College and is temporarily stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

Seattle Museum Buys Local Artist's Work

An article in the Seattle, Washington Times, of November 6, states that a water color painting by John P. Constantine has been purchased by the Seattle Museum of Art for its permanent collection. Mr. Constantine's painting was one of four selected by the committee out of a showing of 22 paintings submitted.

Mr. Constantine is the son of Helen C. Coons of 26 Lucas avenue and is a graduate of the University of Washington, class of 1953, where he was a member of Kappi Sigma fraternity and the Scabbard and Blade honorary. He is married to a Seattle girl and is now teaching in the Seattle High School system.

Welcoming Tea To Be Held Today

The Newcomers Club of the YWCA sponsored a tea for new members today at the Y on Clinton avenue.

Mrs. William Rylance played a group of piano solos and Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg sang several vocal selections.

Anyone that has recently moved to this area, and would be interested in becoming a member of the Newcomers Club should contact Mrs. William Johnston, 336 Clifton avenue or Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, 312 Washington avenue.

Birthday Celebration For Mrs. Goodsell

Mrs. Homer I. Goodsell of 416 Hasbrouck avenue observed her 70th birthday at a surprise party. A buffet luncheon was served and her granddaughter, Miss June Crosby, who is a soloist at the Fair Street Reformed Church, sang several selections.

Mrs. Goodsell received many presents from her friends and relatives at the party.

MRS. HAROLD LOUIS EVERY

Miss Mary Glennon Weds Harold Every

Miss Mary Ann Glennon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Glennon of 373 Abeel street, became the bride of Harold Louis Every, son of Mrs. Catherine Every of 173 Smith avenue, Sunday, Nov. 27, at 2 p. m. in the Holy Name Church in Wilbur. The Rev. Ambrose Murphy performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Mary Blum was at the organ.

The side altars of the church were decorated with white pompons and mums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a white gown of imported French Chantilly lace fashioned with a sweetheart neckline edged with iridescent sequins, a tight bodice and long sleeves, ending in points over the wrists and a full skirt of lace in ballerina length over slipper satin. The bride also wore a finger-tip French illusion veil.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Diers of 67 Van Buren street. She wore a ballerina gown of crystallette designed with a wide bodice and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Joan Glennon was the bridesmaid for her sister.

Best man was Gerald Diers of 27 DeWitt street and serving with him as ushers were David Ashdown of Port Ewen, and Edward Rielly of Hasbrouck avenue.

A reception was held at the Alpine for approximately 115 guests.

Miss Glennon is a graduate of Kingston High School and was formerly employed at C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company.

The bridegroom attended Kingston High School and is employed by Sam Sterling, contractor.

The bride chose a charcoal blue suit with an angora collar for her wedding trip through the southern states and Florida. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The couple will reside at 173 Smith avenue.

COLLEGE WEEKEND PARTY

A young man at college writes: "It seems all the advice about inviting a girl to a weekend party at college is written for the girl and nothing much for the enlightenment of the man who invites her. Will you enumerate some of his 'musts' in connection with such a weekend?"

The "musts" are: 1.—Tell her the exact duration of the weekend. 2.—Note activities planned so she will know what clothes to take. (There's no excuse for ruining her good time — and yours—by having her leave the right clothes at home.) 3.—Tell her where she is to stay (whether in a dormitory, fraternity house, house of friends, or hotel with other guests). Explain that you will meet her when she arrives, or if impossible for you, who the friend is who will come in your place. You are not expected to pay the transportation of your guest. As her host you must pay for her accommodation. Usually you, and some of your classmates, look after your guests as a group and divide the expenses between you.

Brother's Mother-in-Law

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister-in-law's mother and two sisters who live in another state came to visit her and my brother recently. They were here for about a week. I had never met any of her family. My brother thinks that I was very unfriendly toward his "in-laws" for not inviting them to my house for a meal during their visit. I think it was up to my sister-in-law and brother to invite us to their house first to meet them. There has been quite a discussion about this and we would appreciate your opinion on this matter.

Answer: Your brother should certainly have invited you to their house to meet them. Then you would return their invitation by inviting them to what you best can — not necessarily to a meal but at least afternoon tea.

Miss Dolores Mackey Weds Joseph Fallon

Miss Dolores Ann Mackey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Mackey of Fox Hollow Road, Rhinebeck, became the bride of Joseph Paul Fallon, son of Mrs. Samuel Day and the late Joseph P. Fallon, of West Hurley, Saturday at 2 p. m., November 26 in the Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. George Moore, of St. Mary's Church in Wappingers Falls, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Arthur Cozine was at the organ and Donald Sweeney was the soloist.

The church was decorated with white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a white velvet gown with a long waisted shirred bodice, long sleeves and a scoop neckline with sequin embroidered flowers at the shoulders. The very full gathered skirt formed a round chapel length train. Her veil was finger-tip length white silk illusion caught to a princess crown of seed pearls and sequins. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, pom pons and miniature roses.

Mrs. Milton Semanek of Wappinger Falls was the matron of honor and she wore a coral velveteen princess styled gown with bracelet sleeves, a scoop neckline and a flared cocktail length skirt. Her veiled crown was the same color as the gown and she carried a cascade of bronze pom pons and yellow and pink rose buds.

The bridesmaids included Diane Conklin, Carol Decker and Mrs. John Harrison, all of Rhinebeck.

Their gowns were similar in style to the matron of honor's in colors of emerald green.

Flower girl was Cindy Lou Merryweather.

Best man was William Dietz of Tillson and ushers included Robert Baird, Frank Falowtico, Robert Schonger and William Steuding.

A reception for approximately 225 guests was held at the Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck.

Miss Mackey graduated from Rhinebeck Central School and attended Ladycliff Academy and also completed a two-year course at Barry College for Women in Miami, Florida. She is employed at IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Joseph's School and Kingston High School. He, too, is employed by IBM in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and the southern states, the bride chose a beige Jersey dress, blonde Othello coat and hat, brown accessories and a double orchid corsage.

The couple will reside at 52 Lucas avenue.

Christmas Bazaar and Supper

The Stone Ridge Reformed Church will hold their Christmas Bazaar December 3, beginning at 1 p. m. in the church basement.

Gifts of all types will be available including items for children such as toys, dolls, dolls' clothes.

A hot plate supper will be served at 5 p. m. until all are served. On the menu will be ham, potatoes, baked beans, cabbage salad, Boston brown bread, cake and ice cream.

MRS. CONRAD S. SERNIAK

Sheehan-Serniak Nuptials Are Held

Miss Daryl Sheehan, daughter of Mrs. Harold Sheehan of 12 Washington avenue, became the bride of Conrad S. Serniak, son of Mrs. Stephen Serniak of 220 Yonkers avenue, Yonkers, Saturday, Nov. 26 at 12 noon in St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. James Keating performed the double ring ceremony.

At the organ was Mrs. C. Rafferty and Miss Patricia Keefe sang the Ave Maria, Mother at Your Feet I'm Kneeling.

The church was decorated with white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Turner and she wore a white rosepoint lace over satin fitted gown with a portrait neckline, long fitted gown with a portrait neckline, long fitted sleeves and a bouffant skirt which terminated in a lace chapel length train over accordion pleated nylon. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was attached to a lace and pearl trimmed circular satin headpiece and she carried a stylized cascade of orange blossoms and white camellias and white satin ribbon showers and stephanotis.

Miss Ann Sheehan of 12 Washington avenue was the maid of honor for her sister. She wore a water blue crystallette waltz length gown in empire bouffant style with three-quarter push-up sleeves and crushed cummerbunds. Her headpiece was a veiled clip in matching nylon tulle.

Bridemaids included Miss Lois Sheehan, another sister, and Miss Rosemary Conway of 80 Emerson street. Their gowns were of the same style as that of the maid of honor in delft blue.

The best man was Valentine A. Nowicki of 212 Palisade avenue, Yonkers.

Brothers of the bridegroom, Raymond S. Serniak of Yonkers and Donald S. Serniak of Flushing, L. I., were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Brookside Inn for approximately 60 guests.

Miss Sheehan is a graduate of St. Ursula's Academy and attended Albany State College. She is a member of Gamma Kappa Phi sorority and a teacher at St. Joseph's School in Kingston.

The bridegroom holds an AB Degree from Albany State Teachers College and is temporarily stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

Seattle Museum Buys Local Artist's Work

An article in the Seattle, Washington Times, of November 6, states that a water color painting by John P. Constantine has been purchased by the Seattle Museum of Art for its permanent collection. Mr. Constantine's painting was one of four selected by the committee out of a showing of 22 paintings submitted.

Mr. Constantine is the son of Helen C. Coons of 26 Lucas avenue and is a graduate of the University of Washington, class of 1953, where he was a member of Kappi Sigma fraternity and the Scabbard and Blade honorary. He is married to a Seattle girl and is now teaching in the Seattle High School system.

Clinton Avenue Methodist

A rummage sale will be held at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Wednesday at 9 a. m., sponsored by the Young Women's Circle. Mrs. Thomas W. Miller may be contacted for pick-ups.

Welcoming Tea To Be Held Today

The Newcomers Club of the YWCA sponsored a tea for new members today at the Y on Clinton avenue.

Mrs. William Rylance played a group of piano solos and Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg sang several vocal selections.

Anyone that has recently moved to this area, and would be interested in becoming a member of the Newcomers Club should contact Mrs. William Johnston, 336 Clifton avenue or Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, 312 Washington avenue.

Birthday Celebration For Mrs. Goodsell

Mrs. Homer I. Goodsell of 416 Hasbrouck avenue observed her 70th birthday at a surprise party. A buffet luncheon was served and her granddaughter, Miss June Crosby, who is a soloist at the Fair Street Reformed Church, sang several selections.

Mrs. Goodsell received many presents from her friends and relatives at the party.

Miss Mary Glennon Weds Harold Every

Miss Mary Ann Glennon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Glennon of 373 Abeel street, became the bride of Harold Louis Every, son of Mrs. Catherine Every of 173 Smith avenue, Sunday, Nov. 27, at 2 p. m. in the Holy Name Church in Wilbur. The Rev. Ambrose Murphy performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Mary Blum was at the organ.

The side altars of the church were decorated with white pompons and mums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a white gown of imported French Chantilly lace fashioned with a sweetheart neckline edged with iridescent sequins, a tight bodice and long sleeves, ending in points over the wrists and a full skirt of lace in ballerina length over slipper satin. The bride also wore a finger-tip French illusion veil.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Diers of 67 Van Buren street. She wore a ballerina gown of crystallette designed with a wide bodice and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Joan Glennon was the bridesmaid for her sister.

Best man was Gerald Diers of 27 DeWitt street and serving with him as ushers were David Ashdown of Port Ewen, and Edward Rielly of Hasbrouck avenue.

A reception was held at the Alpine for approximately 115 guests.

Miss Glennon is a graduate of Kingston High School and was formerly employed at C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company.

The bridegroom attended Kingston High School and is employed by Sam Sterling, contractor.

The bride chose a charcoal blue suit with an angora collar for her wedding trip through the southern states and Florida. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The couple will reside at 173 Smith avenue.

COLLEGE WEEKEND PARTY

A young man at college writes: "It seems all the advice about inviting a girl to a weekend party at college is written for the girl and nothing much for the enlightenment of the man who invites her. Will you enumerate some of his 'musts' in connection with such a weekend?"

The "musts" are: 1.—Tell her the exact duration of the weekend. 2.—Note activities planned so she will know what clothes to take. (There's no excuse for ruining her good time — and yours—by haying her leave the right clothes at home.) 3.—Tell her where she is to stay (whether in a dormitory, fraternity house, of friends, or hotel with other guests). Explain that you will meet her when she arrives, or if impossible for you, who the friend is who will come in your place. You are not expected to pay the transportation of your guest. As her host you must pay for her accommodation. Usually you, and some of your classmates, look after your guests as a group and divide the expenses between you.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister-in-law's mother and two sisters who live in another state came to visit her and my brother recently. They were here for about a week. I had never met any of her family. Kiwanis Kapers Leaves 'Em Laughing; Acts Revolve Around Circus Theme

Kingston Kiwanis members knew the feeling of satisfaction Monday night when, after long, hard, hours of planning and rehearsals, their yearly show, "Kiwanis Kapers" played to a full house at the Kingston High School auditorium. The performance will be repeated tonight and everyone planning to attend, is urged to get there early because seats will be at a premium. Show starts at 8:15 p. m.

The circus theme of the show is set with loud, snappy circus music and the vendors' call of "Peanuts, popcorn and candy" up and down the aisles before the first curtain call.

Hilarious clown acts, talking horses, lion tamers and sharp shooters are but a few of the many features of this top fun show.

All of the parts are played by Kiwanis members who are serious business men during the day. But once a year, they don their mad caps for two evenings in order to raise money for their Kingston Kiwanis Scholarship Foundation.

Proceeds from the show will be used to further the education of promising high school student and to help the Kiwanis General Child Welfare Program.

In talking to Bernard Feeney, producer of the show, and one of the performing members, Mortimer Englander, they said, "tonight's the night we let out all the stops."

Actress Is Hurt By Prop Weight

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Actress Nanette Fabray was knocked unconscious when hit on the head by a falling 75-pound scenery weight backstage at a television show last night.

Two doctors revived her in an ambulance on the way to Doctors Hospital.

Preliminary X-rays, it was reported, indicated there was no skull fracture or concussion. Doctors say Miss Fabray, 33, would be kept in the hospital several days for observation.

A SPOKESMAN for NBC, which broadcasts the program on which Miss Fabray was injured, said today after checking the hospital that she was in good condition, was resting quietly and had slept well. He said Miss Fabray would be examined further today.

Miss Fabray, who plays comedian Sid Caesar's wife in the NBC TV show "Caesar's Hour," was injured just after leaving the stage at the Century Theatre a few minutes before the show ended.

Graham Blames Parents

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said today juvenile delinquency in the United States "is so serious that it almost equals communism in the problems we face today." Graham blamed parents for the delinquency problem. "The young people of our country today are neglected by their parents who are drinking and carousing," Graham said. "If one were to take a survey they would find no delinquency in homes where children are taken to Sunday school faithfully, where there is Bible reading and the saying of grace at the table."

New Yorkers Get Grants

Chicago, Nov. 29 (AP)—Two New Yorkers were among the 14 young men and women who won $300 scholarships today at the National 4-H Club Congress. They were Wayne R. Keller, 20, of Bergen, Genesee county, and Doris Scotton, 19, of Dryden, Tompkins county.

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary Changes Date of Dance

At the November meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, general chairman of the dance committee, announced that the Auxiliary's annual dance will be held Saturday, Jan. 28, 1956, instead of the traditional first Saturday in February. Further plans for the dance, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel are being arranged by the committee which consists of Mrs. Burton Davis, Mrs. George Schneider, and Mrs. Robert Umpleby, ticket chairman; Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., treasurer; Mrs. George C. Rifenbary, publicity; Mrs. Elbert MacFadden, Jr., music; Mrs. Sherwood Davis, door. Mrs. Corsones announced that the first Saturday in February of 1957 has already been reserved for the Auxiliary's dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The dance committee also requested that a letter of gratitude be sent to the committee of Temple Emanuel for their gracious and understanding cooperation in changing their "Cabaret Nite" date, so as not to conflict with the dance.

In keeping with their policy of bringing comfort and pleasuse to patients in the hospital, Mrs. Stephen McGrath, good cheer chairman, announced that arrangements have been made to furnish daily and Sunday newspapers to patients in both the men's and women's wards.

Mrs. Rifenbary, president, who presided at the meeting, announced that a member-guest tea would be held on January 24, at the Nurse's Home. Mrs. Joseph Jacobson and Mrs. Peter Corsones were named co-chairmen of the tea. Tentative plans include an informal fashion show by Weisberg's Specialty Shop. All members were urged to keep this date in mind.

Mrs. Rifenbary and Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly Jr., who attended the Hudson Valley Hospital Auxiliary conference in Hudson Nov. 17, gave a report on auxiliary activities in various phases of hospital service.

After the business meeting, a film "The Traitor W hin" was shown. Dr. John L. Alley, local physician gave an interesting speech, explaining the danger signals in cancer, reviewing the early days of research, and the progress being made today. Dr. Alley reviewed the different types of cancer, and remarked that every patient is not affected by the same type. Dr. Alley also reassured the audience that curative and preventative progress is being made.

Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, Ulster Co. Director of Volunteer Field Service, American Cancer Society, spoke briefly about the free services of the "Friendly Red Door."

After the speakers, a social hour followed with Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb Jr. as hostess.

There will be no December meeting.

Survey Shows Housing Pressure to Continue

IBM Steps Up Employment, Other Jobs for Men Slack

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles based on a recent housing survey and market analysis prepared by the New York State Division of Housing at the request of the Kingston Housing Authority).

The Kingston area will probably show a substantial rise in employment in the near future, according to the survey.

IBM's new Kingston plant now employs close to 1,500 persons in defense manufacturing and its anticipated manning schedule, including a typewriter plant, which will not be opened until the spring of 1956, shows 2,000 workers by the end of 1955, 3,000 by the end of 1956 and 4,000 by the end of 1957.

PLANS BEYOND 1957 are not definite, although there is talk of going as high as 8,000. Many of these employes will come from the IBM typewriter plant now located in Poughkeepsie, but the majority will be newly recruited.

In addition, IBM is planning a training program at the Kingston plant which will not affect local employment but will result in an additional housing demand since there will be more than 700 trainees stationed in Kingston at any one time. The length of study for each trainee will not be more than eight months to a year, with regard to this training program, IBM is making special housing efforts which will be discussed in a later article of the series.

ON THE OTHER hand, layoffs have been taking place in some industries. Employment in the shipyards has dropped to a figure close to 600, as a result of about 400 lay-offs, and will continue to drop as contracts for the building of minesweepers and small boats for the navy are completed, unless new defense contracts are received. These workers are finding difficulty in locating employment elsewhere because their skills are not easily transferable.

There has also been considerable unemployment among construction workers who formerly worked on the Thruway, since the only heavy construction projects in the area are the IBM typewriter plant and the Kingston Rhinebeck bridge, the latter using very specialized labor coming mainly from outside the area for this particular job. The problem here is the comparatively high income received by these workers on the Thruway as compared to the wage levels paid for semi-skilled and unskilled workers in ordinary construction.

ONE OF THE major electrical companies manufacturing airplane parts has laid off about 300 workers since the end of 1954, due to completion of government contracts. Another, Sprague Electric Company, is closing its local plant employing about 100 workers in order to consolidate its operations elsewhere. However, at the same time, another company of the same type, located just outside the area, is recruiting 200 men in Kingston for its plant in Ellenville. No further reductions in labor force are anticipated in this industry, and the securing of new defense orders would result in new hiring.

As far as the apparel firms are concerned, there has been little overall change in employment during the past year except for the usual seasonal fluctuations. Among smaller manufacturers, the usual changes inherent in the garment industry have occurred without any substantial effect on the industry as a whole. In addition several smaller apparel firms have recently moved into the area, while some firms had considered locating in the area but did not move in when informed that the supply of sewing machine operators was tight.

KINGSTON'S OLDEST industry, brick manufacture, has suffered a steady decline. Out of 136 firms engaged in brick and cement work 30 years ago, only 11 remain, of which only three are sizable firms. The reason for this decline has been the location elsewhere of clay deposits which are of higher quality and which can be mined more cheaply, putting Kingston in a poor competitive position. While attempts are being made to improve the quality of Kingston bricks by Alfred University research personnel, it is problematical whether the industry will ever regain its former importance.

The major pickup in employment in the area, outside of IBM, has been in retail and service trade, especially in the suburban localities, as a result of the new industry and homebuilding growth. The growth of a new industry in an area, with a resulting in-migration to staff the factory, results in a need for additional employes in industries supplying the living requirements of the new population.

OF COURSE, the effects of increased manufacturing employment will depend on the type of operations involved, the availability of present community facilities and other factors. Because of the availability of many existing retail and service facilities in the Kingston area this increased employment may result in less demand for new ancillary employes than might normally be expected. It has been estimated in a study prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, on the basis of census data for several communities, that 100 new industrial jobs in an area result in total new employment of an additional 74 workers in other jobs. In Kingston, because of the local situation, this number will probably be lower.

During the next four to six months, employment will probably remain stable in the apparel and chemical industries, shipyard employment will decline if no new defense contracts are received, and construction employment should show a seasonal decrease in the last quarter of the year. Employment in the electrical equipment industry will continue to expand because of the growth at IBM, and retail trade will have an increase paralleling the rise in total employment.

IN SUMMARY, the 700 layoffs which have taken place since the beginning of the year at the shipyards and airplane parts company, together with the possible future lay-offs at the shipyards of another 200-300 workers, and the existing unemployment among construction workers, will be more than compensated for numerically by the hiring of 1,000 persons per year at IBM, and the growth of related industries taking several hundred workers off the market. It must be realized, however, that since much of the new hiring will consist of women and will be paid at slightly lower wage rates than those received at the shipyards, and substantially lower than union rates in construction.

(The fifth article in the series will deal with population trends and characteristics in the city of Kingston.)

Kiwanis Kapers Leaves 'Em Laughing; Acts Revolve Around Circus Theme

Kingston Kiwanis members knew the feeling of satisfaction Monday night when, after long, hard, hours of planning and rehearsals, their yearly show, "Kiwanis Kapers" played to a full house at the Kingston High School auditorium. The performance will be repeated tonight and everyone planning to attend, is urged to get there early because seats will be at a premium. Show starts at 8:15 p. m.

The circus theme of the show is set with loud, snappy circus music and the vendors' call of "Peanuts, popcorn and candy" up and down the aisles before the first curtain call.

Hilarious clown acts, talking horses, lion tamers and sharp shooters are but a few of the many features of this top fun show.

All of the parts are played by Kiwanis members who are serious business men during the day. But once a year, they don their mad caps for two evenings in order to raise money for their Kingston Kiwanis Scholarship Foundation.

Proceeds from the show will be used to further the education of promising high school student and to help the Kiwanis General Child Welfare Program.

In talking to Bernard Feeney, producer of the show, and one of the performing members, Mortimer Englander, they said, "tonight's the night we let out all the stops."

Actress Is Hurt By Prop Weight

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Actress Nanette Fabray was knocked unconscious when hit on the head by a falling 75-pound scenery weight backstage at a television show last night.

Two doctors revived her in an ambulance on the way to Doctors Hospital.

Preliminary X-rays, it was reported, indicated there was no skull fracture or concussion. Doctors say Miss Fabray, 33, would be kept in the hospital several days for observation.

A SPOKESMAN for NBC, which broadcasts the program on which Miss Fabray was injured, said today after checking the hospital that she was in good condition, was resting quietly and had slept well. He said Miss Fabray would be examined further today.

Miss Fabray, who plays comedian Sid Caesar's wife in the NBC TV show "Caesar's Hour," was injured just after leaving the stage at the Century Theatre a few minutes before the show ended.

Graham Blames Parents

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said today juvenile delinquency in the United States "is so serious that it almost equals communism in the problems we face today." Graham blamed parents for the delinquency problem. "The young people of our country today are neglected by their parents who are drinking and carousing," Graham said. "If one were to take a survey they would find no delinquency in homes where children are taken to Sunday school faithfully, where there is Bible reading and the saying of grace at the table."

New Yorkers Get Grants

Chicago, Nov. 29 (AP)—Two New Yorkers were among the 14 young men and women who won $300 scholarships today at the National 4-H Club Congress. They were Wayne R. Keller, 20, of Bergen, Genesee county, and Doris Scotton, 19, of Dryden, Tompkins county.

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary Changes Date of Dance

At the November meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, general chairman of the dance committee, announced that the Auxiliary's annual dance will be held Saturday, Jan. 28, 1956, instead of the traditional first Saturday in February. Further plans for the dance, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel are being arranged by the committee which consists of Mrs. Burton Davis, Mrs. George Schneider, and Mrs. Robert Umpleby, ticket chairman; Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., treasurer; Mrs. George C. Rifenbary, publicity; Mrs. Elbert MacFadden, Jr., music; Mrs. Sherwood Davis, door. Mrs. Corsones announced that the first Saturday in February of 1957 has already been reserved for the Auxiliary's dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The dance committee also requested that a letter of gratitude be sent to the committee of Temple Emanuel for their gracious and understanding cooperation in changing their "Cabaret Nite" date, so as not to conflict with the dance.

In keeping with their policy of bringing comfort and pleasuse to patients in the hospital, Mrs. Stephen McGrath, good cheer chairman, announced that arrangements have been made to furnish daily and Sunday newspapers to patients in both the men's and women's wards.

Mrs. Rifenbary, president, who presided at the meeting, announced that a member-guest tea would be held on January 24, at the Nurse's Home. Mrs. Joseph Jacobson and Mrs. Peter Corsones were named co-chairmen of the tea. Tentative plans include an informal fashion show by Weisberg's Specialty Shop. All members were urged to keep this date in mind.

Mrs. Rifenbary and Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly Jr., who attended the Hudson Valley Hospital Auxiliary conference in Hudson Nov. 17, gave a report on auxiliary activities in various phases of hospital service.

After the business meeting, a film "The Traitor Within" was shown. Dr. John L. Survey Shows Housing Pressure to Continue

IBM Steps Up Employment, Other Jobs for Men Slack

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles based on a recent housing survey and market analysis prepared by the New York State Division of Housing at the request of the Kingston Housing Authority).

The Kingston area will probably show a substantial rise in employment in the near future, according to the survey.

Globetrotters Score 74-60 Win Over Washington Generals

Hall Proves Success As Harlem Funnyman

Folks who wondered what the Harlem Globetrotters would be like without the inimitable Goose Tatum got their answer last night at the municipal auditorium.

About 1000 fans left the arena after a three-hour show convinced that Abe Saperstein's internationally famous basketeers are just as funny as ever.

Their 74-60 victory over the Washington Generals was incidental to the debut of Mr. Bob "Funnyman" Hall, successor to the fabulous Tatum. Mr. Hall had been rocking and rolling from the moment he appeared on the boards.

HALL DOES many of Tatum's old tricks as well as the master and adds some new ones of his own. He doesn't look as funny as Tatum but he has all the moves. He is making them forget Tatum in his first season as funny man for the Trotters.

Hall led the Trotters with 28 points, some of them strictly from subterfuge and collaboration with Referee Pat Kennedy. Others were downright uncanny. The rest of the Globetrotters cast played willing supporters for the zany antics of their new clown.

The Trotter's million dollar sports show was playing before a thousand dollar audience but they pulled out all the stops.

THE FANS were treated to the usual pre-game warmup and shadow ball to the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown" which has come to be recognized as the Trotters' theme song.

Leon Hillard's dribbling routine is as spectacular as ever. The Globetrotters unleased loaded balls, the human pyramid shot, their baseball and football pantomines and all the other tricks that have endeared them to international basketball audiences.

The Trotters introduced some new faces in their brilliant halftime vaudeville show. Richard Bermann, tennis table champion of Great Britain and Canada, edged Bob Guzikoff of New York, 11-10, in a thrilling 11-point match. Guzikoff will represent the United States in the forthcoming international champions. Other acts included Carl Flynn, 18-year-old balance man; Paula and Jeri on the trampoline and Shari, baton wielder.

THE RESULT of the game was never in doubt as the Trotters went ahead in the early moments and led 24-17 at the quarter and 47-29 at halftime.

Washington's best looking player was Fred Iehle, late of La Salle University's championship teams and teammate of Tom Gola. Iehle rimmed 18 points.

Wagner Reported To Be Gravely Ill

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29 (AP)—Honus Wagner considered by many as baseball's all-time great shortstop, is gravely ill, a member of his family said last night.

The 81-year-old former Pittsburgh Pirate player has been bedridden since a fall in his home about two months ago. A family spokesman said Wagner is semi-conscious most of the time and that his heart is growing weaker.

NBA Scoring Race Tightens, Lovellette Leads

New York—Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston, Philadelphia Warriors who know their way around in professional basketball scoring circles, have begun to seriously push Minneapolis' Clyde Lovellette for the National Basketball Association scoring lead.

The Laker center is out front for the third straight week with 246 points in 12 games, but he can feel the heat of Arizin's 233 markers and Johnston's 219. The Warriors have been in action only 10 times each.

Between them, Johnston and Arizin have monopolized the scoring title for the past four seasons. Arizin won it in 1952, while Johnston has been the champion for three straight campaigns.

The best per-game scoring average belongs to fourth-ranking Bob Pettit of St. Louis, who has found the basket at a rate of 23.6-points-per-scrap. Six others averaging better than 20 points a game: Arizin (23.3), Johnston (21.9), Boston's Ed Macauley (21.0), Lovellette (20.5), St. Louis' Frank Selvy (20.4) and Fort Wayne's George Yardley (20.3).

Pettit is also the new rebound leader. He grabbed 65 off the boards in four games and is now ahead of Lovellette, 167 to 163. Johnston, the defending champion, pulled into the No. 3 spot with 144.

ARIZIN stayed on top in field goal accuracy and has a .468 percentage to .458 by New York's Harry Gallatin and .452 by Bill Sharman of Boston.

Syracuse's Dolph Schayes, who hit the season's high of 17 free throws against Philadelphia on Nov. 23, retained the charity throw efficiency lead. The top three are Schayes (.881), Fort Wayne's Max Zaslofsky (.857) and Philadelphia's Jack George (.846).

An average of just over 11 assists a game last week sent Fort Wayne's Andy Phillip into a clear lead in that department. He's come up with 91. Runner-up Paul Seymour of Syracuse has 75 and George 74.

For the first time in the league's history for early-season play, two teams are scoring at a rate above 100 points a game and two others are yielding points at above that clip. Boston has averaged 102.1 markers for each of seven games, while Philadelphia's normal has been 101.7 per scrap in 10. Minneapolis has given up an average of 103.3 in each of 12 contests, and New York has permitted a par of 101.7 in 11 outings.

Little League Meets Tonight

The annual election meeting of the Kingston Little League Association will be held tonight at 7:30 p. m. at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

It is urged that all members attend this important meeting. A report will be made on the current Little League rhubarb at national headquarters.

Minor League Meeting

Bosox Buys 'Frisco Franchise; American Association Upset

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox have bought the San Francisco franchise for $150,000 in a deal calculated to strengthen the Pacific Coast League and are negotiating the sale of their Louisville farm in the American Association.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox general manager, surprised the minor league convention last night by buying the coast league outlet as Cleveland's Hank Greenberg sat back and waited for the club to fall into his lap.

The league assumed all obligations of the former owners, the San Francisco Seals, Inc., headed by Damon Miller. It had declared the franchise forfeited by Miller's group at a special meeting at Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 11. Out of the $150,000 must come $50,000 to pay a note due the league and $6,750 in back salary to former Manager Tommy Heath. After all debts are paid, the remainder will revert to Miller's group.

As the league holds a three-year lease on Seals Stadium from owner Paul Fagan, Cronin must negotiate with the league. The terms must be approved by Fagan.

GREENBERG and the Milwaukee Braves at one time showed an interest in the franchise. There was another bid by a New York group, headed by William Rosensohn, that was withdrawn last night.

While the coast league was ironing out its roughest problem, the American Association remained in a turmoil. The Milwaukee Braves, still hoping to get approval to move their Toledo franchise to Miami, were awaiting an official vote from the league. Although no vote has been taken, the Braves have been given every indication that no such transfer will be approved.

George Trautman, head of the minors, refused to answer a hypothetical question posed by Milwaukee about its right to transfer the Toledo players to another league, presumably the International, if it should acquire a franchise in that league.

"AS OF NOW we have nothing before us," said Trautman. "I still am hopeful they will get together and work out something. If a claim does come before us, we will make a decision."

A high baseball official, asked for an off-the-cuff opinion, said he thought Milwaukee couldn't force the association to go to Miami but the association could not take players away from any club.

There have been indications that the Braves, if balked in the Miami move, might yield the Toledo franchise to the league and attempt to transfer the 39 players on the list, to some other league.

THE LEAGUE has suggested the Braves consider a proposal to move to Knoxville, like Miami an "open" city with no baseball team. The Braves balked and insisted on Miami although it is about 2,100 miles away from Denver, the league's most westerly member.

The International League claims it's "all set" and the owners of Columbus, formerly an association member, have spoken strongly in opposition to any return to their old league.

Irvin to Make Comeback Try With Cubs; Giants Acquire Mound Talents of Ridzik

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 29 (AP)—Monte Irvin, whose big bat played a key role in the New York Giants' miracle finish in 1951, is coming back to the major leagues at the ripe old age of 37—this time with the Chicago Cubs.

The slugging outfielder, abandoned by the Giants last summer, was the only big name among the 10 minor leaguers selected by the majors in yesterday's annual draft session which officially opened the winter baseball meetings. Today it was the higher minors' turn to draft players from their little brothers.

Although an unusual number of big league managers were in evidence at this minor league convention, only one trade was consummated—and it was not one to cause a great flurry of excitement. The Chicago Cubs sent Hal Jeffcoat, a fair relief pitcher, to the Cincinnati Redlegs in an even up exchange for Hobie Landrith, a second string catcher.

The Cubs, in desperate need of a strong righthanded hitting outfielder, plucked Irvin from Minneapolis, the Giants' farm club in the American Association, for the $10,000 draft price, beating out at least two other clubs—Detroit and Cincinnati—to the aging flychaser. If Irvin can come anywhere near the .352 batting average he posted with the Millers. He will prove a real bargain. Chicago also took title to pitcher Vito Valentinetti from Toronto. A former Chicago White Sox chattel, Valentinetti had a 9-15 record with Charleston last season.

THE CUBS were the only club to choose more than one player in the lightest draft since 1945 when the same number of players was selected. The current crop represented an outlay of $115,000 by the big league clubs. The list included eight pitchers, an outfielder and a first baseman. Three of the players were taken from the Pacific Coast League, costing $15,000 each.

The biggest surprise was Washington's selection of a practically unknown pitcher, right-hander Conrad Grod, from Montreal, as the No. 1 pick. The Senators, exercising their privilege of making the first selection by virtue of their last place finish in the American League, chose this 23-year-old "dark horse" in preference to other eligibles with superior records and better reputations. Grob had an 11-9 record at Mobile before being moved to Montreal.

THE GIANTS took right-hander Steve Ridzik, former Philadelphia and Cincinnati pitcher, on the strength of his fine performance in the Puerto Rican winter league. Ridzik was drafted from Seattle who obtained him from San Diego where he won two and lost one. He currently boasts an 8-0 record with Santurce.

Milwaukee also took another former major league pitcher, southpaw Lou Sleater from Columbus. The former American Leaguer was 1-1 at Toledo.

The Giants completed their coaching staff with the selection of Ray Mueller, former National League catcher, as bullpen coach. They recently signed Bucky Walters and Davey Williams to coaching jobs. Mueller holds the National League endurance record for receivers, catching 233 consecutive games including all 155 games in 1944 with Cincinnati.

HUTCH GETS THE WORD—Eddie Stanky, left, former pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals and newly appointed manager of N. Y. Giants' Minneapolis farm club, goes over Cardinal team with Fred Hutchinson, who has been named Redbirds' manager, during baseball meetings at Columbus, O. (Nov. 28). Hutchinson piloted the Seattle Raniers to Pacific Coast championship in 1955. (AP Wirephoto)

Kalloch, Johnson Gain Honors

Coach of Year

SAM J. KALLOCH

Poughkeepsie High School's veteran coach and its superstar halfback have been selected for the DUSO Sportswriters Association's respective Coach of the Year and Player of the Year honors.

Sam J. Kalloch, pilot of PHS teams for 35 years, was named the league's top grid coach of 1955.

Charley Johnson, the halfback who engineered two DUSO championships for the Bridge City, was chosen as the circuit's top player.

The Coach of the Year honor was the second in four seasons for Kalloch. Previously, he was named in 1952.

The portly Pioneer mentor steered his team to an unbeaten season this fall. He turned in what was termed a "coaching masterpiece," blending three or four veteran players with a crop of 1954 reserves and jayvee graduates. The result was the greatest scoring machine Poughkeepsie has ever produced.

Kalloch has compiled an enviable record at Poughkeepsie. His football teams, over a 35-year span, have won 136 games, lost 68 and tied 10. That's a win percentage of 64 per cent.

In all sports, Kalloch-coached teams have won 937 times and lost 342.

Kalloch has coached eight unbeaten PHS teams—1921, 1938, 1939, 1941, 1942, 1944, 1953 and 1955.

Johnson ranks as one of the all-time greats in DUSO football history.

Call him Charley, Bobby or Skeet; by any name he was terrific.

Standing five feet, 11 inches and weighing 180 pounds, Johnson had all the necessary football qualities.

As a runner, he had a plethora of speed, power and deception; he could throw passes; he could catch them; he could kick. As a defensive player, he had few peers at diagnosing a play; he tackled hard, never shunning contact; he was rarely, if ever, faked out of position.

Johnson attained an All-DUSO rating three times, missing in his junior year because of injuries. He would have qualified for a player-of-the-year award any year if the honor were not limited to seniors.

Playing in 17 games during his high school career, Johnson scored 24 touchdowns. After his freshman season, Johnson never played in a losing game.

The irony of the Johnson story is that he may never play again. A host of colleges are reportedly interested in acquiring his talents; but the youth is lacking in scholastic achievement.

LL Appeals To Rank and File In Stotz Dispute

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP) — Directors of Little League Baseball, Inc., have appealed to the organization's rank and file leaders for support in their dispute with former Commissioner Carl E. Stotz.

Stotz, founder of Little League, was fired from his $14,000 a year job last Mondaty and set up a rival organization under the name of "Original Little League," which is composed of four Williamsport teams which started the organization in 1939.

HE FILED a $300,000 suit Saturday charging the directors of the corporation with breach of contract.

In a letter signed by President Peter J. McGovern, Little League directors yesterday said Stotz's suit was a reckless move, one which could spell the end of Little League competition. The letter was sent to field personnel of Little League. It urged them not to "jump to any conclusions", and asked them to write Stotz and ask him to reconsider his present stand.

Johnson TKOs McNeece in 8th

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lightheavy Tony Johnson didn't look much like a winner today, what with a bandage covering seven stitches over his right eye, but a winner he was last night, putting Billy McNeece away with an eighth round TKO at St. Nicks.

The scheduled 10-rounder came to a halt at 2:06 of the eighth, with Johnson peppering McNeece against the ropes.

THE LAST time the two New Yorkers met, they wound up in a 10-round draw. This time, Johnson had it all the way. He was ahead on all three cards when Referee Barney Felix stepped in to end it.

Johnson weighed 174, McNeece 171½.

Johnson suffered a deep gash over his right eye in the fourth.

Globetrotters Score 74-60 Win Over Washington Generals

Hall Proves Success As Harlem Funnyman

Folks who wondered what the Harlem Globetrotters would be like without the inimitable Goose Tatum got their answer last night at the municipal auditorium.

About 1000 fans left the arena after a three-hour show convinced that Abe Saperstein's internationally famous basketeers are just as funny as ever.

Their 74-60 victory over the Washington Generals was incidental to the debut of Mr. Bob "Funnyman" Hall, successor to the fabulous Tatum. Mr. Hall had been rocking and rolling from the moment he appeared on the boards.

HALL DOES many of Tatum's old tricks as well as the master and adds some new ones of his own. He doesn't look as funny as Tatum but he has all the moves. He is making them forget Tatum in his first season as funny man for the Trotters.

Hall led the Trotters with 28 points, some of them strictly from subterfuge and collaboration with Referee Pat Kennedy. Others were downright uncanny. The rest of the Globetrotters cast played willing supporters for the zany antics of their new clown.

The Trotter's million dollar sports show was playing before a thousand dollar audience but they pulled out all the stops.

THE FANS were treated to the usual pre-game warmup and shadow ball to the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown" which has come to be recognized as the Trotters' theme song.

Leon Hillard's dribbling routine is as spectacular as ever. The Globetrotters unleased loaded balls, the human pyramid shot, their baseball and football pantomines and all the other tricks that have endeared them to international basketball audiences.

The Trotters introduced some new faces in their brilliant halftime vaudeville show. Richard Bermann, tennis table champion of Great Britain and Canada, edged Bob Guzikoff of New York, 11-10, in a thrilling 11-point match. Guzikoff will represent the United States in the forthcoming international champions. Other acts included Carl Flynn, 18-year-old balance man; Paula and Jeri on the trampoline and Shari, baton wielder.

THE RESULT of the game was never in doubt as the Trotters went ahead in the early moments and led 24-17 at the quarter and 47-29 at halftime.

Washington's best looking player was Fred Iehle, late of La Salle University's championship teams and teammate of Tom Gola. Iehle rimmed 18 points.

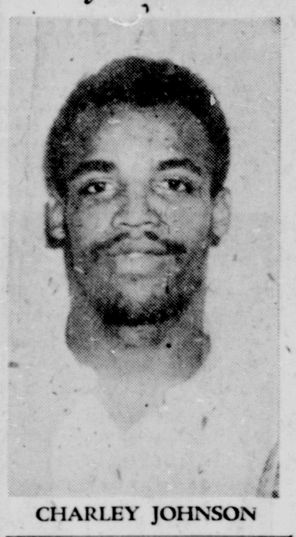
Kalloch, Johnson Gain Honors

Coach of Year

SAM J. KALLOCH

Player of Year



CHARLEY JOHNSON

Poughkeepsie High School's veteran coach and its superstar halfback have been selected for the DUSO Sportswriters Association's respective Coach of the Year and Player of the Year honors.

Sam J. Kalloch, pilot of PHS teams for 35 years, was named the league's top grid coach of 1955.

Charley Johnson, the halfback who engineered two DUSO championships for the Bridge City, was chosen as the circuit's top player.

The Coach of the Year honor was the second in four seasons for Kalloch. Previously, he was named in 1952.

The portly Pioneer mentor steered his team to an unbeaten season this fall. He turned in what was termed a "coaching masterpiece," blending three or four veteran players with a crop of 1954 reserves and jayvee graduates. The result was the greatest scoring machine Poughkeepsie has ever produced.

Kalloch has compiled an enviable record at Poughkeepsie. His football teams, over a 35-year span, have won 136 games, lost 68 and tied 10. That's a win percentage of 64 per cent.

In all sports, Kalloch-coached teams have won 937 times and lost 342.

Kalloch has coached eight unbeaten PHS teams—1921, 1938, 1939, 1941, 1942, 1944, 1953 and 1955.

Johnson ranks as one of the all-time greats in DUSO football history.

Call him Charley, Bobby or Skeet; by any name he was terrific.

Standing five feet, 11 inches and weighing 180 pounds, Johnson had all the necessary football qualities.

As a runner, he had a plethora of speed, power and deception; he could throw passes; he could catch them; he could kick. As a defensive player, he had few peers at diagnosing a play; he tackled hard, never shunning contact; he was rarely, if even, faked out of position.

Johnson attained an All-DUSO rating three times, missing in his junior year because of injuries. He would have qualified for a player-of-the-year award any year if the honor were not limited to seniors.

Playing in 17 games during his high school career, Johnson scored 24 touchdowns. After his freshman season, Johnson never played in a losing game.

The irony of the Johnson story is that he may never play again. A host of colleges are reportedly interested in acquiring his talents; but the youth is lacking in scholastic achievement.

Johnson TKOs McNeece in 8th

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lightheavy Tony Johnson didn't look much like a winner today, what with a bandage covering seven stitches over his right eye, but a winner he was last night, putting Billy McNeece away with an eighth round TKO at St. Nicks.

The scheduled 10-rounder came to a halt at 2:06 of the eighth, with Johnson peppering McNeece against the ropes.

THE LAST time the two New Yorkers met, they wound up in a 10-round draw. This time, Johnson had it all the way. He was ahead on all three cards when Referee Barney Felix stepped in to end it.

Johnson weighed 174, McNeece 171½.

Johnson suffered a deep gash over his right eye in the fourth.

Thirty-seven of the 44 players on the Alabama football squad are from Alabama.

TRAILING DOWN A WOUNDED DEER

WHEN A HUNTER FIRES AT GAME THAT DISAPPEARS, HE SHOULD TRY TO TRAIL IT EVEN THOUGH BLOOD ISN'T VISIBLE. A WOUNDED ANIMAL MAY TRAVEL SOME DISTANCE BEFORE BLEEDING ENOUGH TO BE SEEN.

IF BLOOD IS BRIGHT, DEER WON'T USUALLY TRAVEL FAR UNLESS IT'S ONLY NICKED. THUS, HUNTER SHOULD FOLLOW AT ONCE TO TAG IT BEFORE OTHERS WILL IN CROWDED AREAS. DARK BLOOD IS A GUT SHOT DEER THAT CAN TRAVEL FAR IF PUSHED; WAIT TO FOLLOW, EVEN RISKING ITS THEFT.

LL Appeals To Rank and File In Stotz Dispute

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP) — Directors of Little League Baseball, Inc., have appealed to the organization's rank and file leaders for support in their dispute with former Commissioner Carl E. Stotz.

Stotz, founder of Little League, was fired from his $14,000 a year job last Mondaty and set up a rival organization under the name of "Original Little League," which is composed of four Williamsport teams which started the organization in 1939.

HE FILED a $300,000 suit Saturday charging the directors of the corporation with breach of contract.

In a letter signed by President Peter J. McGovern, Little League directors yesterday said Stotz's suit was a reckless move, one which could spell the end of Little League competition. The letter was sent to field personnel of Little League. It urged them not to "jump to any conclusions", and asked them to write Stotz and ask him to reconsider his present stand.

Campbell's New Paltz Cagers Mix Instructing With Basketball

Teachers Open Campaign Friday Against Danbury

Kingston's Godwin Probable Starter

Loren Campbell, coach of the New Paltz State Teachers College basketball team, has a unique problem.

In a nutshell, it's this: All of his basketball players are student instructors at one time or another, and some of them are doing just that: instructing.

Since three key operatives are now occupied with cadet teaching at area high schools, it means that they have little, if, any, time to concentrate on developing their basketball skills.

This fact, Campbell believes, may make the 'Paltz players slow starters in their campaign, which opens Friday night against Danbury, Conn., Teachers at the NP gym.

Only two players, Ronnie Foster and Randy Siegel, are missing from the 1954-55 squad.

THE RETURNEES include a number of experienced players, among them John Godwin, former Kingston High School star.

Bob Miller, who has averaged 20 points per game for the past two seasons, is back for more action. Miller, who hails from Whitestone, is expected to again be the big scoring threat for the Orange and Blue.

Also returning are regulars Dick King and John Sacco and reserve Joe Umbria. King is from Herkimer, Sacco from Rye and Umbria from Brooklyn.

However, here's the rub: Miller, Sacco and King are all teaching, and all are having a tough time rounding into top shape.

CAMPBELL EXPECTS two freshmen from Long Island—Tom Murphy of Patchogue and John Hussnatter of West Sayville—to break into the starting lineup.

Another who may see plenty of action is Frank Buckley of Troy, a transfer from St. Bonaventure.

Rounding out the team are Jack Giamportone, Highland; Bob Doran, Middletown; Frank Davidowitz, The Bronx; Jim Cecere, White Plains.

GODWIN is rated as a probable starter. Last year, as a freshman, the Kingstonian played regularly until he became scholastically ineligible.

Standing six feet, two inches, Godwin is the tallest man on a squad that is lacking in height. "We really need a big man," Campbell declares. "We're going to have a tough time under the backboards."

The New Paltz coach said that Godwin had shown "definite improvement, especially in his rebounding and defensive play."

"If he keeps improving, John could turn into a real threat," Campbell continued. "He's the type that can break a ball game wide open. I'm hoping he can get rid of a 'hot night-cold night' tendency."

IN A RECENT practice game, Godwin made six of 13 field goal attempts and led his team in rebounding.

Title Match Tomorrow Night

DeMarco Confident of Victory Over Basilio in Welter Scrap

Boston, Nov. 29 (AP)—For a fellow who took a sound shellacking from Carmen Basilio the last time around, ex-welterweight champion Tony De Marco fairly breathes confidence. Tony is sure he is going to take back the 147-pound title from Basilio in the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

Breathing has a lot to do with it too. When the squat, little Bostonian with the dynamite in his left fist got stopped in the 12th round and blew his welterweight crown to Basilio in Syracuse, N. Y., June 10, he flew out of Basilio's home territory as fast as he could.

One of the first things he had done when he returned home was undergo a nose operation for a deviated septum.

The 23-year-old, 5-5½ ex-champ says he feels 100 per cent better now. He's had only one fighting chance to prove that and on the record it looks good. Big-chested Tony stopped heavier Chico Vejar, the Stamford, Conn., actor-fighter with the pushbutton chin in 2:40 of the first round on Sept. 14.

Competent observers say that he has been very impressive in the gym since then. He has been banging away with both hands and keeping his attack going.

"TONY WILL GET Basilio this time," said Sammy Fuller, former welterweight contender and now DeMarco's trainer. "He'll bomb him out. Tony will be an entirely different fighter this time. He won't have any trouble with his breathing like he did in Syracuse. And he won't lose his head when he hurts Basilio. The last time he went wild looking for the quick kayo."

The confidence in DeMarco's camp seems to have spread around the city. The odds, which had favored the 28-year-old Basilio by 9-5, have dropped to 7-5. Many here believe it will be 6-5 and pick 'em by the time they step into the Boston Garden ring.

Fighting on his home grounds hasn't hurt DeMarco's outlook, either. He'll have a big, partisan crowd rooting for him.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Recently I was asked how to break a dog of taking hold of her mistress' hand and bearing down hard enough to be quite painful. Since I have had several dogs who do this, it may be that this is a problem of some interest.

First, let me give assurance that this behavior is a sign of affection. I remember one owner who left his dog with me.

He made a point of saying, "When she takes hold of your hand you are okay. She only does this with people in whom she has complete confidence."

The time came when it became her habit to take hold of my hand and later, when she had returned to her home and I had occasion to visit her now and then, she would show that she had not forgotten by that same sign of affection.

If this behavior is painful or embarrassing it can be modified, but should not be done at the expense of the dog's confidence. To eliminate it by objecting or punishing would be a rebuff. It would be as serious as reprimanding a child who greeted you by taking your hand with his jelly-covered hand.

There must be a substitute. Some show of affection which you can make on your part so that the dog's method will not be necessary to establish the mutual affection and confidence.

One method which may work is to teach the dog to sit on command. You can then give the command whenever you greet the dog and follow up by stroking the dog's head and speaking affectionately to him. Whenever the old habit comes through, repeat the command. Follow it with the patting. You have now established a method of contact. These are substitutes which the dog can learn to expect instead. Never pat or speak sweetly when he attempts to take hold. Always speak pleasantly and encourage when he sits and/or behaves himself.

If it is a big dog, the "down" command may be more logical than the "sit."

Seven-League CYO Basketball Program to Begin Shortly

Competition in the Ulster county CYO boys' basketball leagues is expected to get under way within two weeks, director Leo A. Schupp said today. A seven-league program is proposed.

Officials of the various leagues will meet at St. Mary's school tomorrow night, 7:30 o'clock, to formulate plans for circuits involving boys not in grammar schools.

Elementary school play will begin on Saturday, Dec. 17. All boys desiring to play are required to report for physical checkups this Saturday morning, 10 o'clock, at the Myron J. Michael School gym.

Leagues for boys up to 85 pounds, 100 pounds, 120 pounds or 135 pounds are anticipated for elementary school competition.

MR. SCHUPP noted a need for coaches, officials and league supervisors.

Schedules will be in operation by Dec. 7, and no entry may be made after that date. Entry fees must accompany the official roster before a first game is played.

'Stilt' Already In Philly Fold, Gottlieb Reveals

Philadelphia, Nov. 29 (AP)—When "The Stilt" comes home, can Paradise be far behind? That might be the question uppermost in the mind of Philadelphia Warriors owner Eddie Gottlieb—and the reason for an almost perpetual smile on his face.

Gottlieb confirmed yesterday that he had drafted Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain for his 1959 Warriors, even before the seven-foot basketball star left the quiet confines of overbrook High School here for the wide open spaces of Kansas University.

The unprecedented drafting of a player four years before he is eligible for pro ranks was approved last spring when the National Basketball Association passed a new draft rule.

Gottlieb, sensing a surefire star for the pro ranks, exercised his territorial rights and promptly grabbed Chamberlain.

Oklahoma Voted Nation's Top Eleven

Sooners Top Associated Press Annual Grid Poll

(By The Associated Press)

Undefeated Oklahoma, winning at the polls in the same whirlwind fashion that it won most of its games, today captured the 1955 national college football championship and the Father J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy in the 20th annual Associated Press poll.

The bowl-bound Sooners amassed the impressive total of 3,581 points in the final AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters for the season to top Michigan State by more than 300 points. Maryland, Oklahoma's opponent in the Orange Bowl game, Jan. 2, finished third in the balloting.

Oklahoma succeeds Ohio State, Big Ten champion for the second straight year, as winner of the national championship trophy. This is the second time the Sooners have taken the award, named in honor of the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, the late former president of Notre Dame. They also finished first in the 1950 poll. It must be won three times to gain permanent possession.

Since 1941 the Associated Press poll has determined the winner of the national championship award. Notre Dame retired the Dr. Henry L. Williams trophy in 1947 and the next year the Notre Dame Monogram Club created the O'Donnell trophy in memory of Father O'Donnell, a former Irish football player who served as president of the university from 1940 through 1946.

The Associated Press poll was established in 1936. Each newspaper or radio or TV station may cast one ballot, rating the teams from first to tenth. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for tenth.

IN THE FINAL 1955 balloting Oklahoma was first on 218 of the 394 ballots cast, second on 99 and third on 35. It was one of the heaviest votes in the 20-year history of the poll.

Michigan State, with 88 first-place votes, polled a second-place total of 3,204 points and Maryland, with 55 firsts, received 3,024 points. Others finishing in the top 10 were UCLA, which will meet Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Ohio, State, Texas Christian, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Notre Dame and Mississippi.

Ohio State, last year's winner, went through the Big 10 season without a defeat but lost non-conference games to Stanford and Duke. The Buckeyes are ineligible for a second successive Rose Bowl appearance under conference rules.

Other previous winners of the O'Donnell Trophy were Michigan, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Michigan State and Maryland.

NOTRE DAME'S ninth-place finish marked the 16th time in 20 years of the AP poll that the Irish have been among the first 10 teams. They were rated fifth a week ago but dropped four places after absorbing a 42-20 thumping from Southern California in their final game of the season Saturday.

Texas A&M rated eighth in the semi-final weekly poll, also lost its final game, a 21-6 decision to Texas on Thanksgiving Day, and dropped out of the top 10, making room for Mississippi to move into 10th place.

Oklahoma, leader of the weekly polls for four weeks preceding the final ballot, wound up its season with a 53-0 walkover against Oklahoma A&M, for its 10th victory of the season and its 29th in a row.

Louis Faces Second Tax Lien

Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)—Internal Revenue authorities yesterday filed a second tax lien against Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion.

The government claims Louis owes a total of $507,610 in back taxes and interest for the years 1949, 1950 and 1951.

Louis also has been facing claims totaling $651,771 in taxes from 1946 to 1949.

Campbell's New Paltz Cagers Mix Instructing With Basketball

Teachers Open Campaign Friday Against Danbury

Kingston's Godwin Probable Starter

Loren Campbell, coach of the New Paltz State Teachers College basketball team, has a unique problem.

In a nutshell, it's this: All of his basketball players are student instructors at one time or another, and some of them are doing just that; instructing.

Since three key operatives are now occupied with cadet teaching at area high schools, it means that they have little, if, any, time to concentrate on developing their basketball skills.

This fact, Campbell believes, may make the 'Paltz players slow starters in their campaign, which opens Friday night against Danbury, Conn., Teachers at the NP gym.

Only two players, Ronnie Foster and Randy Siegel, are missing from the 1954-55 squad.

THE RETURNEES include a number of experienced players, among them John Godwin, former Kingston High School star.

Bob Miller, who has averaged 20 points per game for the past two seasons, is back for more action. Miller, who hails from Whitestone, is expected to again be the big scoring threat for the Orange and Blue.

Also returning are regulars Dick King and John Sacco and reserve Joe Umbria. King is from Herkimer, Sacco from Rye and Umbria from Brooklyn.

However, here's the rub: Miller, Sacco and King are all teaching, and all are having a tough time rounding into top shape.

CAMPBELL EXPECTS two freshmen from Long Island—Tom Murphy of Patchogue and John Hussnatter of West Sayville—to break into the starting lineup.

Another who may see plenty of action is Frank Buckley of Troy, a transfer from St. Bonaventure.

Rounding out the team are Jack Giamportone, Highland; Bob Doran, Middletown; Frank Davidowitz, The Bronx; Jim Cecere, White Plains.

GODWIN is rated as a probable starter. Last year, as a freshman, the Kingstonian played regularly until he became scholastically ineligible.

Standing six feet, two inches, Godwin is the tallest man on a squad that is lacking in height. "We really need a big man," Campbell declares. "We're going to have a tough time under the backboards."

The New Paltz coach said that Godwin had shown "definite improvement, especially in his rebounding and defensive play."

"If he keeps improving, John could turn into a real threat," Campbell continued. "He's the type that can break a ball game wide open. I'm hoping he can get rid of a 'hot night-cold night' tendency."

IN A RECENT practice game, Godwin made six of 13 field goal attempts and led his team in rebounding.

Title Match Tomorrow Night

DeMarco Confident of Victory Over Basilio in Welter Scrap

Boston, Nov. 29 (AP)—For a fellow who took a sound shellacking from Carmen Basilio the last time around, ex-welterweight champion Tony De Marco fairly breathes confidence. Tony is sure he is going to take back the 147-pound title from Basilio in the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

Breathing has a lot to do with it too. When the squat, little Bostonian with the dynamite in his left fist got stopped in the 12th round and blew his welterweight crown to Basilio in Syracuse, N. Y., June 10, he flew out of Basilio's home territory as fast as he could.

One of the first things he had done when he returned home was undergo a nose operation for a deviated septum.

The 23-year-old, 5-5½ ex-champ says he feels 100 per cent better now. He's had only one fighting chance to prove that and on the record it looks good. Big-chested Tony stopped heavier Chico Vejar, the Stamford, Conn., actor-fighter with the pushbutton chin in 2:40 of the first round on Sept. 14.

Competent observers say that he has been very impressive in the gym since then. He has been banging away with both hands and keeping his attack going.

"TONY WILL GET Basilio this time," said Sammy Fuller, former welterweight contender and now DeMarco's trainer. "He'll bomb him out. Tony will be an entirely different fighter this time. He won't have any trouble with his breathing like he did in Syracuse. And he won't lose his head when he hurts Basilio. The last time he went wild looking for the quick kayo."

The confidence in DeMarco's camp seems to have spread around the city. The odds, which had favored the 28-year-old Basilio by 9-5, have dropped to 7-5. Many here believe it will be 6-5 and pick 'em by the time they step into the Boston Garden ring.

Fighting on his home grounds hasn't hurt DeMarco's outlook, either. He'll have a big, partisan crowd rooting for him.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Recently I was asked how to break a dog of taking hold of her mistress' hand and bearing down hard enough to be quite painful. Since I have had several dogs who do this, it may be that this is a problem of some interest.

First, let me give assurance that this behavior is a sign of affection. I remember one owner who left his dog with me.

He made a point of saying, "When she takes hold of your hand you are okay. She only does this with people in whom she has complete confidence."

The time came when it became her habit to take hold of my hand and later, when she had returned to her home and I had occasion to visit her now and then, she would show that she had not forgotten by that same sign of affection.

If this behavior is painful or embarrassing it can be modified, but should not be done at the expense of the dog's confidence. To eliminate it by objecting or punishing would be a rebuff. It would be as serious as reprimanding a child who greeted you by taking your hand with his jelly-covered hand.

There must be a substitute. Some show of affection which you can make on your part so that the dog's method will not be necessary to establish the mutual affection and confidence.

One method which may work is to teach the dog to sit on command. You can then give the command whenever you greet the dog and follow up by stroking the dog's head and speaking affectionately to him. Whenever the old habit comes through, repeat the command. Follow it with the patting. You have now established a method of contact. These are substitutes which the dog can learn to expect instead. Never pat or speak sweetly when he attempts to take hold. Always speak pleasantly and encourage when he sits and/or behaves himself.

If it is a big dog, the "down" command may be more logical than the "sit."

Seven-League CYO Basketball Program to Begin Shortly

Competition in the Ulster county CYO boys' basketball leagues is expected to get under way within two weeks, director Leo A. Schupp said today. A seven-league program is proposed.

Officials of the various leagues will meet at St. Mary's school tomorrow night, 7:30 o'clock, to formulate plans for circuits involving boys not in grammar schools.

Elementary school play will begin on Saturday, Dec. 17. All boys desiring to play are required to report for physical checkups this Saturday morning, 10 o'clock, at the Myron J. Michael School gym.

Leagues for boys up to 85 pounds, 100 pounds, 120 pounds or 135 pounds are anticipated for elementary school competition.

MR. SCHUPP noted a need for coaches, officials and league supervisors.

Schedules will be in operation by Dec. 7, and no entry may be made after that date. Entry fees must accompany the official roster before a first game is played.

'Stilt' Already In Philly Fold, Gottlieb Reveals

Philadelphia, Nov. 29 (AP)—When "The Stilt" comes home, can Paradise be far behind? That might be the question uppermost in the mind of Philadelphia Warriors owner Eddie Gottlieb—and the reason for an almost perpetual smile on his face.

Gottlieb confirmed yesterday that he had drafted Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain for his 1959 Warriors, even before the seven-foot basketball star left the quiet confines of overbrook High School here for the wide open spaces of Kansas University.

The unprecedented drafting of a player four years before he is eligible for pro ranks was approved last spring when the National Basketball Association passed a new draft rule.

Gottlieb, sensing a surefire star for the pro ranks, exercised his territorial rights and promptly grabbed Chamberlain.

Oklahoma Voted Nation's Top Eleven

Sooners Top Associated Press Annual Grid Poll

(By The Associated Press)

Undefeated Oklahoma, winning at the polls in the same whirlwind fashion that it won most of its games, today captured the 1955 national college football championship and the Father J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy in the 20th annual Associated Press poll.

The bowl-bound Sooners amassed the impressive total of 3,581 points in the final AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters for the season to top Michigan State by more than 300 points. Maryland, Oklahoma's opponent in the Orange Bowl game, Jan. 2, finished third in the balloting.

Oklahoma succeeds Ohio State, Big Ten champion for the second straight year, as winner of the national championship trophy. This is the second time the Sooners have taken the award, named in honor of the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, the late former president of Notre Dame. They also finished first in the 1950 poll. It must be won three times to gain permanent possession.

Since 1941 the Associated Press poll has determined the winner of the national championship award. Notre Dame retired the Dr. Henry L. Williams trophy in 1947 and the next year the Notre Dame Monogram Club created the O'Donnell trophy in memory of Father O'Donnell, a former Irish football player who served as president of the university from 1940 through 1946.

The Associated Press poll was established in 1936. Each newspaper or radio or TV station may cast one ballot, rating the teams from first to tenth. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for tenth.

IN THE FINAL 1955 balloting Oklahoma was first on 218 of the 394 ballots cast, second on 99 and third on 35. It was one of the heaviest votes in the 20-year history of the poll.

Michigan State, with 88 first-place votes, polled a second-place total of 3,204 points and Maryland, with 55 firsts, received 3,024 points. Others finishing in the top 10 were UCLA, which will meet Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Ohio, State, Texas Christian, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Notre Dame and Mississippi.

Ohio State, last year's winner, went through the Big 10 season without a defeat but lost non-conference games to Stanford and Duke. The Buckeyes are ineligible for a second successive Rose Bowl appearance under conference rules.

Other previous winners of the O'Donnell Trophy were Michigan, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Michigan State and Maryland.

NOTRE DAME'S ninth-place finish marked the 16th time in 20 years of the AP poll that the Irish have been among the first 10 teams. They were rated fifth a week ago but dropped four places after absorbing a 42-20 thumping from Southern California in their final game of the season Saturday.

Texas A&M rated eighth in the semi-final weekly poll, also lost its final game, a 21-6 decision to Texas on Thanksgiving Day, and dropped out of the top 10, making room for Mississippi to move into 10th place.

Oklahoma, leader of the weekly polls for four weeks preceding the final ballot, wound up its season with a 53-0 walkover against Oklahoma A&M, for its 10th victory of the season and its 29th in a row.

Louis Faces Second Tax Lien

Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)—Internal Revenue authorities yesterday filed a second tax lien against Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion.

The government claims Louis owes a total of $507,610 in back taxes and interest for the years 1949, 1950 and 1951.

Louis also has been facing claims totaling $651,771 in taxes from 1946 to 1949.

Entered in the "A" division are Hoppey's, Ulster Park, Back's Cedaraps Seniors, Wimpy's Tavern, Valley Gardens and Empire Diner, the defending champions.

In the "B" division race are the Ramblers, Corner Rest, Rapp's Express, Blacktops, Back's Cedaraps Juniors, Schrader's, Accord, Lou's Celaners and the defending champion Yellow Jackets. The Accord and Cleaner teams are new to the circuit.

The first week's schedule:

Tuesday

Ramblers vs. Corner Rest (7:15).
Ulster Park vs. Hoppey's (8:15).

Wednesday

Schrader's vs. Blacktops (7:00).
Rapp's vs. Accord (8:00).
Back's Juniors vs. Lou's Cleaners (9:00).

Saturday

Empire Diner vs. Wimpy's (7:15).
Back's Seniors vs. Valley Gardens (8:15).

Child Without Arms to Be Home For Christmas

Ticonderoga, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Little Carol Frances Woodard will be home for Christmas and able to play with at least some of her toys although she has no lower arms.

Since a freight train struck her two months ago, two-year-old Carol has learned to hold dolls and dozens of other gifts in what remains of her arms. She turns the pages of books with her toes and sometimes her teeth.

And she has not forgotten how to smile.

CAROL HAS BEEN in Moses-Ludington Hospital here since the night of Sept. 27, when her father, Harold Woodard, a 34-year-old handyman, found her lying beside the railroad track near their house. She apparently had crept out of bed and fallen on the track while toddling toward a neighbor's house.

The doctors have decided that Carol may leave the hospital about mid-December.

Her mother said Carol would go to a rehabilitation center either in Schenectady or West Haverstraw after the holidays and eventually be fitted with artifical arms and hands.

She said "nothing special" was planned for Carol's homecoming but, "we'll have the best time we can."

THERE ARE FIVE other Woodard children.

Because she likes to roam the corridors of the hospital to visit other patients, Carol devised a means of getting out of her crib when the nurse wasn't around. She stood on a huge toy elephant; climbed over the railing and let herself down to the floor. The nurses ended that by removing the elephant.

Gifts and money have poured in from all over. More than $6,000 has been contributed.

One of the gifts—a 24-inch walking doll—came from 12 convicts at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

"We hope you will pardon our intrusion," they said in a message, "but we wish to spend a moment with you, if only on paper."

Father and Three Children Perish In South Blaze

Charlestown, W., Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A father and three of his five children died today in a fire that destroyed a two-story log and frame dwelling on a farm at nearby Myerstown.

The mother and two children escaped. The father died trying to save the other three children.

FIREMEN reported water froze in hoses and pumpers as they battled the flames in temperatures of around 12 above. Water had to be hauled two miles.

The dead:

Edward Davis Sowers, 39; his sons, Edward David 16, and Arthur Leon, 14, and daughter, Jo Ann, 9.

Escaping with minor burns were Patricia Willis Sowers, 35, the mother and two sons, Charles Alex, 18, and Dale, 7.

Adlai Won't Debate

Gainesville, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson isn't going to debate with Harold Stassen. Stassen, disarmament adviser to President Eisenhower, last night at Minneapolis offered to debate the farm issue with the Democratic presidential candidate now handshaking in Florida. Stassen said Stevenson had "endeavored to fool the Minnesota farmers regarding the facts of the situation" on several occasions. He added he believes "agricultural income will move upward next year if President Eisenhower's program is adopted" and described Secretary of Agriculture Benson as "one of the ablest, most devoted, conscientious men I know."

Warn They'll Shoot

Seoul, Nov. 29 (AP) — South Koera's government-controlled newspaper said today if Japanese fishing boats cross the controversial Syngman Rhee line, "Korea's growing navy will have to unlimber its guns and drive back the invaders." The Korean Republic said in an editorial that "if Japan cannot be persuaded by Korea and its friends, then the occasion for words has ended and the moment of action has arrived."

Wiltwycks Meet Thursday

A regular monthly meeting of Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1 will be held Thursday, Dec. 1, at 8 p. m. Nomination of officers will take place.

Reds Await West Promises to Halt Test of Weapons

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—Russia offered again today to stop testing nuclear weapons if the United States and Britian promise to quit also.

The offer, broadcast by the Moscow radio, came only three days after the Kremlin announced the Soviet Union had exploded its most powerful hydrogen bomb.

Today's broadcast said:

"WE CANNOT discontinue the production and testing of nuclear weapons so long as both the U. S. A. and Britain manufacture such weapons and test them.

"Proposals which the USSR put before the United Nations stipulate a total ban in nuclear weapons and their removal from national armaments.

"And as one of the first moves to disarm, the USSR suggests that countries which possess nuclear weapons pledge to discontinue their testing. We are ready to do so here and now if the other powers possessing such weapons agree to do the same."

Both Britain and the United States plan to hold new nuclear arms tests next year.

Favors Prosecution

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—John L. Lewis has told Senate investigators he thinks existing laws are adequate for dealing with any "human jackals and scoundrels" who misuse union welfare funds. The 75-year-old head of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW) suggested, however, that the attorney general be urged by a congressional resolution to step up prosecutions of such cases. A Senate Labor spbcommittee that heard Lewis turned today to General Motors Corp. pension and insurance plans in its study of the possible need for new laws to protect union welfare funds.

Fears Federal Action

Belzoni, Miss., Nov. 29 (AP)—Gov. Hugh White fears "federal action" against Mississippi unless officers concentrate on solving the shotgun wounding of a Belzoni Negro leader. The governor wired Sheriff I. J. Shelton yesterday to urge him to step up his investigation of the Friday night ambush of Gus Courts, 65-year-old grocer. Courts is president of the local chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. He says he was shot because his recent efforts to get Negroes to vote stirred white animosity.

Eight Die in Storm

Manila, Nov. 29 (AP)—At least eight persons were killed, nine injured and about 15,000 left homeless by a sudden late season storm sweeping the central Philippines, the Red Cross said today. The Manila Weather Bureau said a tropical blow with 40 m.p.h. winds is expected to pass east of Manila late tonight. The National Red Cross listed four deaths in Zambonga City, three in Negros Oriental Province and one in Zamboangu Del Norte Province. An estimated 3,000 homes were destroyed.

Will Decide Lighting

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Forthcoming tests to be conducted in Old Lyme are expected to show for the first time whether mercury vapor or fluorescent lighting is better for high speed highways. Highway Commissioner Newman E. Argraves announced today that both types of lighting will be installed experimentally on a one-mile stretch of highway just east of the Raymond E. Baldwin Bridge over the Connecticut river. The test will decide which type of lighting will be used on the Connecticut Turnpike, 130-mile, all-purpose highway being built from Greenwich to Killingly at a cost of 400 million dollars.

Youths Pay $2,125

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Four youths, who pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct in damaging the Queens home of a clergyman, received suspended sentences by paying him a total of $2,125: Magistrate Milton Solomon, who had indicated last week he would free the youths if they paid the damages, told them after suspending sentence yesterday: "This does not mean that you are scot free, but as long as you behave yourselves you will stay out of troube." The four flooded the home of the Rev. Walter Degenhardt with a garden hose while he and his wife were away for a weekend.

Won't Seek Reelection

Reno, Nev., Nov. 29 (AP)—Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.) announced last night he will not seek re-election after he completes the term of the late Sen. Pat McCarran at the end of next year. Bible said he wants to return "to the quieter role of private life." Bible was elected last year over Republican Ernest Brown, who had been appointed to the Senate for the few weeks between the time of Senator McCarran's death and the general election.

Nine Firemen Hurt

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 29 (AP)—Nine firefighters were injured early today in a general alarm blaze that destroyed four stores and damaged two others on Main street. Firefighters were hindered in their battle against the roaring pre-dawn blaze by a 15-degree temperature that froze water soon after it struck the building and the street. Deputy Fire Chief Anthony Romano gave a preliminary damage estimate of $150,000.

50,368 State Drivers Lose Auto Licenses

Albany, Nov. 29 (AP)—During the first 10 months of this year 50,368 drivers lost their licenses for causes other than financial irresponsibility, the state reported today.

Joseph P. Kelly, motor vehicle commissioner, said the figure compared with 46,452 revocations and suspensions during the same period of last year.

Kelly said revocations and suspensions for all of 1955 appeared certain to exceed last year's record 163,123.

An additional 86,574 licenses were suspended or revoked because the holders were unable to show financial responsibility after they were involved in an accident, Kelly reported. That figure compared with 88,556 for the first 10 months of 1954.

Riffs Continue Raids

Rabat, French Morocco, Nov. 29 (AP)—More trouble from rebellious tribesmen in the Riff Mountains was reported today as Premier-Designate Mohammed Bekkai continued conferences trying to form Morocco's first representative government. Sketchy reports reaching here said a military truck was ambushed yesterday in the Nador Pass area near the Spanish Moroccan frontier. The bodies of five soldiers were found near the vehicle.

Berle Leaves Hospital

Hollywood, Nov. 29 (AP)—Milton Berle left a hospital four hours after he was taken there yesterday, suffering from what was described as "extreme physical exhaustion." The comedian's doctor said he ordered Berle removed from St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica because there was too much noise from construction of a new wing to the hospital. He ordered Berle to rest at home for a week to 10 days before resuming his television work.

Killed by Train

heater in his home. Police said drifting snow had sealed doors and windows, keeping fresh air from entering.

Workbound thousands were stranded on street corners and in stalled cars. Roads leading to the city were blocked by stalled passenger cars.

A Buffalo Transit Company bus bound for Hamburg was unreported during the night but company officials said it reached Gate One of the Bethlehem Steel plant in Lackawanna this morning. Passengers were given shelter and fed.

On the Lake Shore road five buses were stalled and passengers huddled in hot dog stands and restaurants. Food was running low.

The heavy storm area was confined almost entirely to Erie county and petered off to the east within a 40-50 mile circle. Depths of four feet were measured south of the city and will be worse there later today, the weather bureau said.

A foot of snow fell in the Eatertown area overnight and the heavy snowfall continued today. Dozens of schools were closed in the area when drifts clogged secondary roads.

In Lewis county, Lowville reported five inches of snow. The storm appeared centered in the Watertown area and east into Lewis county. Near Ithaca, Lester Cornell, 31, of Brooktondale, a hamlet near Ithaca, was found pinned in his overturned automobile this morning after it had skidded from an icy dirt road last night. A passing motorist found him. Hospital attendants in Ithaca said he was in fair condition but had suffered from exposure to the near-zero cold for nearly eight hours and had a bruised chest.

The Lake Erie storm moved inland around Dunkirk, feinted to the east and then plunged north into Buffalo dumping about two feet of snow along the way. Buffalo had 10 inches by early morning.

The Weather Bureau said the storm would probably hover in the Buffalo area all today and then head back south, following a low pressure trough.

With the storm came near-zero temperatures and knife-edge winds approaching the 35-mile-an-hour mark. Roads became impassable due to ice and drifting snow. Crews worked all night to clear Rts. 20 and 5 south of Buffalo along the lake shore.

Lucky motorists holed up in hotels in Buffalo for the night; those not so lucky prevailed upon restaurant owners, gasoline station operators and residents in the suburbs for a place to sleep.

Many schools did not open today. Lancaster, Lackawanna and other communities south of the city, said schools would remain closed until conditions improved.

Northern and central New York were hit yesterday by a storm which moved in from Lake Ontario, a part of the same air mass. Squalls and flurries were expected to continue through Wednesday.

The weather bureau said the 10 above to zero temperatures would continue through tonight.

Two inches of snow were reported in Syracuse and about a foot was expected in the area north of the city.

The Adirondacks had about two inches and snow was reported as far east as Utica. State police warned that roads in the northern and central areas were dangerous due to ice and drifting snow.

The Thruway was clear east of Syracuse but ice and drifting snow made it touchy going west to Buffalo.

British Protest Shooting

Berlin, Nov. 29 (AP)—The British protested to the Russians today against the shooting of a West Berlin man by East German Communist police. The protest was delivered as the American command prepared to lodge a protest on its own against the detaining at gunpoint of two U. S. congressmen in East Berlin Sunday by Communist police. The British protest was sent in a letter by Maj. Gen. Robert C. Cottrell-Hill, British commandant in Berlin, to his Soviet counterpart, Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova.

Say Strike 'Inevitable'

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO Transport Workers Union said last night a strike against at least two major private bus companies in the city tomorrow midnight is "inevitable" and there is little chance of averting a strike against the other six. The statement was made by CIO International President Michael J. Quill and Local 100 President Matthew Guinan.

Will Protest Delay Of Route 9 Project

Schroon Lake, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP) — Businessmen of Schroon Lake and Pottersville plan to drive a stagecoach to Albany next month to protest the delay in reconstruction of a stretch of Route 9.

"We feel that our state government has given us a dirty deal," said Paul Stapley, president of the Schroon Lake Chamber of Commerce, and Charles Hinds, chairman of the Pottersville-Schroon lake "Operation Stagecoach" committee, in a statement last night.

They said state officials had been "promising for over two years" to rebuild 7.83 miles of the New York-Montreal route near this Adirondack resort community. They said the state advertised for bids on the project last October, setting the allocation at $1,800,000.

No bids were received. On Nov. 10, newspapers in the area carried new advertisements for bids with the allocation increased to $2,185,000.

Trio Without Food Lived in Subway

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—A woman and her two young children were taken to the Family Shelter today after the woman told police they had spent three almost foodless days living on subway trains.

Transit Authority Patrolman Thomas Mittasch, on duty in the IND subway's West 4th street station, saw the trio on a train about 2 a. m. mother and children were coatless and lightly clad in the freezing weather.

Mrs. Nelia Perez, 24, told the patrolman she and her daughters, Veraila, 6, and Maria, 18 months, had been evicted from a Brooklyn rooming house after she fell behind in the rent.

Mrs. Perez said she had lost her job two months ago and has no relatives in the city. Her husband, she said, is in Puerto Rico.

Would Cut Train Service on West Shore

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad is seeking permission to reduce passenger service on its West Shore line between Weehawken and West Haverstraw, N. Y., to eight trains daily in each direction.

E. C. Nickerson, vice-president of the railroad, filed a petition seeking the reduction with the New Jersey Public Utility Commission yesterday.

Indictments Are Due For Tax Scandals

St. Louis, Nov. 29 (AP)—A federal grand jury investigating alleged tax scandals during the Truman administration is expected to return some indictments this week, possibly today or tomorrow.

Theron Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, was among the witnesses waiting to testify today.

Caudle told newsmen yesterday that he had testified earlier that Harry I. Schwimmer, indicted by the jury on a perjury charge, had bought him a small oil royalty in 1950 without his knowledge but when he learned of it he deeded the royalty back to Schwimmer.

Schwimmer, former Kansas City attorney now a Puerto Rican businessman, pleaded innocent to the perjury charge yesterday. The government charges Schwimmer gave false testimony about $10,000 he received in 1949 from Irving Sachs of St. Louis, head of Shu-Stiles Inc., who was charged with income tax evasion.

Child Without Arms to Be Home For Christmas

Ticonderoga, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Little Carol Frances Woodard will be home for Christmas and able to play with at least some of her toys although she has no lower arms.

Since a freight train struck her two months ago, two-year-old Carol has learned to hold dolls and dozens of other gifts in what remains of her arms. She turns the pages of books with her toes and sometimes her teeth.

And she has not forgotten how to smile.

CAROL HAS BEEN in Moses-Ludington Hospital here since the night of Sept. 27, when her father, Harold Woodard, a 34-year-old handyman, found her lying beside the railroad track near their house. She apparently had crept out of bed and fallen on the track while toddling toward a neighbor's house.

The doctors have decided that Carol may leave the hospital about mid-December.

Her mother said Carol would go to a rehabilitation center either in Schenectady or West Haverstraw after the holidays and eventually be fitted with artifical arms and hands.

She said "nothing special" was planned for Carol's homecoming but, "we'll have the best time we can."

THERE ARE FIVE other Woodard children.

Because she likes to roam the corridors of the hospital to visit other patients, Carol devised a means of getting out of her crib when the nurse wasn't around. She stood on a huge toy elephant; climbed over the railing and let herself down to the floor. The nurses ended that by removing the elephant.

Gifts and money have poured in from all over. More than $6,000 has been contributed.

One of the gifts—a 24-inch walking doll—came from 12 convicts at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

"We hope you will pardon our intrusion," they said in a message, "but we wish to spend a moment with you, if only on paper."

Father and Three Children Perish In South Blaze

Charlestown, W., Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A father and three of his five children died today in a fire that destroyed a two-story log and frame dwelling on a farm at nearby Myerstown.

The mother and two children escaped. The father died trying to save the other three children.

FIREMEN reported water froze in hoses and pumpers as they battled the flames in temperatures of around 12 above. Water had to be hauled two miles.

The dead:

Edward Davis Sowers, 39; his sons, Edward David 16, and Arthur Leon, 14, and daughter, Jo Ann, 9.

Escaping with minor burns were Patricia Willis Sowers, 35, the mother and two sons, Charles Alex, 18, and Dale, 7.

Adlai Won't Debate

Gainesville, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson isn't going to debate with Harold Stassen. Stassen, disarmament adviser to President Eisenhower, last night at Minneapolis offered to debate the farm issue with the Democratic presidential candidate now handshaking in Florida. Stassen said Stevenson had "endeavored to fool the Minnesota farmers regarding the facts of the situation" on several occasions. He added he believes "agricultural income will move upward next year if President Eisenhower's program is adopted" and described Secretary of Agriculture Benson as "one of the ablest, most devoted, conscientious men I know."

Warn They'll Shoot

Seoul, Nov. 29 (AP) — South Koera's government-controlled newspaper said today if Japanese fishing boats cross the controversial Syngman Rhee line, "Korea's growing navy will have to unlimber its guns and drive back the invaders." The Korean Republic said in an editorial that "if Japan cannot be persuaded by Korea and its friends, then the occasion for words has ended and the moment of action has arrived.".

Reds Await West Promises to Halt Test of Weapons

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—Russia offered again today to stop testing nuclear weapons if the United States and Britian promise to quit also.

The offer, broadcast by the Moscow radio, came only three days after the Kremlin announced the Soviet Union had exploded its most powerful hydrogen bomb.

Today's broadcast said:

"WE CANNOT discontinue the production and testing of nuclear weapons so long as both the U. S. A. and Britain manufacture such weapons and test them.

"Proposals which the USSR put before the United Nations stipulate a total ban in nuclear weapons and their removal from national armaments.

"And as one of the first moves to disarm, the USSR suggests that countries which possess nuclear weapons pledge to discontinue their testing. We are ready to do so here and now if the other powers possessing such weapons agree to do the same."

Both Britain and the United States plan to hold new nuclear arms tests next year.

Favors Prosecution

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—John L. Lewis has told Senate investigators he thinks existing laws are adequate for dealing with any "human jackals and scoundrels" who misuse union welfare funds. The 75-year-old head of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW) suggested, however, that the attorney general be urged by a congressional resolution to step up prosecutions of such cases. A Senate Labor spbcommittee that heard Lewis turned today to General Motors Corp. pension and insurance plans in its study of the possible need for new laws to protect union welfare funds.

Fears Federal Action

Belzoni, Miss., Nov. 29 (AP)—Gov. Hugh White fears "federal action" against Mississippi unless officers concentrate on solving the shotgun wounding of a Belzoni Negro leader. The governor wired Sheriff I. J. Shelton yesterday to urge him to step up his investigation of the Friday night ambush of Gus Courts, 65-year-old grocer. Courts is president of the local chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. He says he was shot because his recent efforts to get Negroes to vote stirred white animosity.

Eight Die in Storm

Manila, Nov. 29 (AP)—At least eight persons were killed, nine injured and about 15,000 left homeless by a sudden late season storm sweeping the central Philippines, the Red Cross said today. The Manila Weather Bureau said a tropical blow with 40 m.p.h. winds is expected to pass east of Manila late tonight. The National Red Cross listed four deaths in Zambonga City, three in Negros Oriental Province and one in Zamboangu Del Norte Province. An estimated 3,000 homes were destroyed.

Will Decide Lighting

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Forthcoming tests to be conducted in Old Lyme are expected to show for the first time whether mercury vapor or fluorescent lighting is better for high speed highways. Highway Commissioner Newman E. Argraves announced today that both types of lighting will be installed experimentally on a one-mile stretch of highway just east of the Raymond E. Baldwin Bridge over the Connecticut river. The test will decide which type of lighting will be used on the Connecticut Turnpike, 130-mile, all-purpose highway being built from Greenwich to Killingly at a cost of 400 million dollars.

Youths Pay $2,125

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Four youths, who pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct in damaging the Queens home of a clergyman, received suspended sentences by paying him a total of $2,125: Magistrate Milton Solomon, who had indicated last week he would free the youths if they paid the damages, told them after suspending sentence yesterday: "This does not mean that you are scot free, but as long as you behave yourselves you will stay out of troube." The four flooded the home of the Rev. Walter Degenhardt with a garden hose while he and his wife were away for a weekend.

Won't Seek Reelection

Reno, Nev., Nov. 29 (AP)—Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.) announced last night he will not seek re-election after he completes the term of the late Sen. Pat McCarran at the end of next year. Bible said he wants to return "to the quieter role of private life." Bible was elected last year over Republican Ernest Brown, who had been appointed to the Senate for the few weeks between the time of Senator McCarran's death and the general election.

Nine Firemen Hurt

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 29 (AP)—Nine firefighters were injured early today in a general alarm blaze that destroyed four stores and damaged two others on Main street. Firefighters were hindered in their battle against the roaring pre-dawn blaze by a 15-degree temperature that froze water soon after it struck the building and the street. Deputy Fire Chief Anthony Romano gave a preliminary damage estimate of $150,000.

50,368 State Drivers Lose Auto Licenses

Albany, Nov. 29 (AP)—During the first 10 months of this year 50,368 drivers lost their licenses for causes other than financial irresponsibility, the state reported today.

Joseph P. Kelly, motor vehicle commissioner, said the figure compared with 46,452 revocations and suspensions during the same period of last year.

Kelly said revocations and suspensions for all of 1955 appeared certain to exceed last year's record 163,123.

An additional 86,574 licenses were suspended or revoked because the holders were unable to show financial responsibility after they were involved in an accident, Kelly reported. That figure compared with 88,556 for the first 10 months of 1954.

Riffs Continue Raids

Rabat, French Morocco, Nov. 29 (AP)—More trouble from rebellious tribesmen in the Riff Mountains was reported today as Premier-Designate Mohammed Bekkai continued conferences trying to form Morocco's first representative government. Sketchy reports reaching here said a military truck was ambushed yesterday in the Nador Pass area near the Spanish Moroccan frontier. The bodies of five soldiers were found near the vehicle.

Berle Leaves Hospital

Hollywood, Nov. 29 (AP)—Milton Berle left a hospital four hours after he was taken there yesterday, suffering from what was described as "extreme physical exhaustion." The comedian's doctor said he ordered Berle removed from St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica because there was too much noise from construction of a new wing to the hospital. He ordered Berle to rest at home for a week to 10 days before resuming his television work.

Killed by Train

Buffalo Crippled

heater in his home. Police said drifting snow had sealed doors and windows, keeping fresh air from entering.

Workbound thousands were stranded on street corners and in stalled cars. Roads leading to the city were blocked by stalled passenger cars.

A Buffalo Transit Company bus bound for Hamburg was unreported during the night but company officials said it reached Gate One of the Bethlehem Steel plant in Lackawanna this morning. Passengers were given shelter and fed.

On the Lake Shore road five buses were stalled and passengers huddled in hot dog stands and restaurants. Food was running low.

The heavy storm area was confined almost entirely to Erie county and petered off to the east within a 40-50 mile circle. Depths of four feet were measured south of the city and will be worse there later today, the weather bureau said.

A foot of snow fell in the Eatertown area overnight and the heavy snowfall continued today. Dozens of schools were closed in the area when drifts clogged secondary roads.

In Lewis county, Lowville reported five inches of snow. The storm appeared centered in the Watertown area and east into Lewis county. Near Ithaca, Lester Cornell, 31, of Brooktondale, a hamlet near Ithaca, was found pinned in his overturned automobile this morning after it had skidded from an icy dirt road last night. A passing motorist found him. Hospital attendants in Ithaca said he was in fair condition but had suffered from exposure to the near-zero cold for nearly eight hours and had a bruised chest.

The Lake Erie storm moved inland around Dunkirk, feinted to the east and then plunged north into Buffalo dumping about two feet of snow along the way. Buffalo had 10 inches by early morning.

The Weather Bureau said the storm would probably hover in the Buffalo area all today and then head back south, following a low pressure trough.

With the storm came near-zero temperatures and knife-edge winds approaching the 35-mile-an-hour mark. Roads became impassable due to ice and drifting snow. Crews worked all night to clear Rts. 20 and 5 south of Buffalo along the lake shore.

Lucky motorists holed up in hotels in Buffalo for the night; those not so lucky prevailed upon restaurant owners, gasoline station operators and residents in the suburbs for a place to sleep.

Many schools did not open today. Lancaster, Lackawanna and other communities south of the city, said schools would remain closed until conditions improved.

Northern and central New York were hit yesterday by a storm which moved in from Lake Ontario, a part of the same air mass. Squalls and flurries were expected to continue through Wednesday.

The weather bureau said the 10 above to zero temperatures would continue through tonight.

Two inches of snow were reported in Syracuse and about a foot was expected in the area north of the city.

The Adirondacks had about two inches and snow was reported as far east as Utica. State police warned that roads in the northern and central areas were dangerous due to ice and drifting snow.

The Thruway was clear east of Syracuse but ice and drifting snow made it touchy going west to Buffalo.

British Protest Shooting

Berlin, Nov. 29 (AP)—The British protested to the Russians today against the shooting of a West Berlin man by East German Communist police. The protest was delivered as the American command prepared to lodge a protest on its own against the detaining at gunpoint of two U. S. congressmen in East Berlin Sunday by Communist police. The British protest was sent in a letter by Maj. Gen. Robert C. Cottrell-Hill, British commandant in Berlin, to his Soviet counterpart, Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova.

Say Strike 'Inevitable'

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO Transport Workers Union said last night a strike against at least two major private bus companies in the city tomorrow midnight is "inevitable" and there is little chance of averting a strike against the other six. The statement was made by CIO International President Michael J. Quill and Local 100 President Matthew Guinan.

Will Protest Delay Of Route 9 Project

Schroon Lake, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP) — Businessmen of Schroon Lake and Pottersville plan to drive a stagecoach to Albany next month to protest the delay in reconstruction of a stretch of Route 9.

"We feel that our state government has given us a dirty deal," said Paul Stapley, president of the Schroon Lake Chamber of Commerce, and Charles Hinds, chairman of the Pottersville-Schroon lake "Operation Stagecoach" committee, in a statement last night.

They said state officials had been "promising for over two years" to rebuild 7.83 miles of the New York-Montreal route near this Adirondack resort community. They said the state advertised for bids on the project last October, setting the allocation at $1,800,000.

No bids were received. On Nov. 10, newspapers in the area carried new advertisements for bids with the allocation increased to $2,185,000.

Trio Without Food Lived in Subway

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—A woman and her two young children were taken to the Family Shelter today after the woman told police they had spent three almost foodless days living on subway trains.

Transit Authority Patrolman Thomas Mittasch, on duty in the IND subway's West 4th street station, saw the trio on a train about 2 a. m. mother and children were coatless and lightly clad in the freezing weather.

Mrs. Nelia Perez, 24, told the patrolman she and her daughters, Veraila, 6, and Maria, 18 months, had been evicted from a Brooklyn rooming house after she fell behind in the rent.

Mrs. Perez said she had lost her job two months ago, and has no relatives in the city. Her husband, she said, is in Puerto Rico.

Would Cut Train Service on West Shore

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad is seeking permission to reduce passenger service on its West Shore line between Weehawken and West Haverstraw, N. Y., to eight trains daily in each direction.

E. C. Nickerson, vice-president of the railroad, filed a petition seeking the reduction with the New Jersey Public Utility Commission yesterday.

The railroad now operates 22 trains in each direction on weekdays—11 during the morning and evening rush hours and 11 during the rest of the day.

Indictments Are Due For Tax Scandals

St. Louis, Nov. 29 (AP)—A federal grand jury investigating alleged tax scandals during the Truman administration is expected to return some indictments this week, possibly today or tomorrow.

Theron Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, was among the witnesses waiting to testify today.

Caudle told newsmen yesterday that he had testified earlier that Harry I. Schwimmer, indicted by the jury on a perjury charge, had bought him a small oil royalty in 1950 without his knowledge but when he learned of it he deeded the royalty back to Schwimmer.

Schwimmer, former Kansas City attorney now a Puerto Rican businessman, pleaded innocent to the perjury charge yesterday. The government charges Schwimmer gave false testimony about $10,000 he received in 1949 from Irving Sachs of St. Louis, head of Shu-Stiles Inc., who was charged with income tax evasion.

NEW YORK CITY and vicinity—Mostly fair, windy and very cold today with temperatures rising no higher than the upper 20s. Clear and cold again tonight with lowest 15 to 20 in city and along coast and 10 to 15 in interior suburbs. Wednesday, mostly fair and cold, highest about 30.

SNOW PREDICTED

EASTERN New York—Continued cold and moderately windy through Wednesday. A few snow flurries in the west and north this afternoon, tonight and Wednesday with heavy snow squalls east and southeast of Lake Ontario. High temperature today 18 to 25, low tonight 5 to 15. High Wednesday in the 20s.

Makes Surrender Offer

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—An escaped long-term convict has offered to give himself up if he is promised a new trial or a public inquiry into his conviction as a robber. The man on the run is Alfred G. Hinds, 38. He escaped Saturday from Nottingham jail, where he was serving 12 years as one of a gang which looted a London store of 38,000 pounds ($106,400) in cash and jewels two years ago. Only 7,000 pounds ($19,600) of the loot has been recovered. Hinds, who maintained he was innocent, made his surrender offer in identical letters to three London newspapers yesterday.

Advance of Reds In East Signal For Strong Guard

Oslo, Nov. 29 (AP)—Former UN Secretary General Trygve Lie sees no opportunity for an easing of international tensions in the near future. "Real relaxation," he said, "is still only a distant hope."

Lie, now a county governor here, told the Oslo Military Society last night that the democracies cannot let their guard down if freedom and security are to be preserved.

"As loyal members of NATO, we in Norway must bear the burdens and make the sacrifices this membership imposes upon us," he declared. "A slackening in our preparedness may have disastrous consequences."

Summing up recent international developments, Lie stressed the Communist advances in the Middle East, the Far East and North Africa, and said:

"All this should make everybody alert to the fact that a real relaxation is still only a distant hope.

"The Soviet Union and its partners will never give us real peace. Their propaganda and ideological efforts for the spread of world communism will lead to new difficulties, and the western democracies will constantly be confronted with new problems. The difficulties will be first met outside Europe, particularly in Asia and Africa. In fact, we are already confronted with them."

Much of Nation In Frigid Belt

(By The Associated Press)

The winter season was three weeks away but it felt much like January weather in about three-quarters of the nation today.

Icy blasts, with snow and strong winds brought unseasonable temperatures to areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic states and readings were from 20 to 30 degrees lower than yesterday morning. They were below 20 in the mid-Atlantic states and in the 20s in the interior sections of the gulf states except in Florida where they were in the 50s and 60s. It was freezing in Mobile, Ala., and shivery 22 in Atlanta.

Icy and snowy streets in many parts of the cold belt slowed traffic.

Heavy snow fell in wide sections of New York state, with a two-foot fall reported in suburbs of Buffalo. The fall in the lower Great Lakes region measured 1 to 3 inches. Lighter falls were reported in the northern plains, parts of the Great Lakes Region, the Ohio valley and northern Appalachians.

TWO FISHERMEN and three duck hunters stranded in near zero wind whipped weather in the Detroit river and Lake Erie's Maumee bay were rescued last night. A navy helicopter picked up the two fishermen from their boat mired on a mud bank in the Detroit river. The Toledo, O., duck hunters were driven ashore by winds on the barren North Cape peninsula that juts two miles into Maumee bay near the Michigan-Ohio line. The hunters believed the peninsula, which is only a foot or two above water level, was impassable. They were rescued by Michigan State Police.

May Face Murder Charges

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 29 (AP)—Five girls who left an elderly matron dead behind them in an escape from the Summit County Detention Home Sunday night were back in custody today, and the prosecutor was preparing to seek murder indictments against them. The last of the five teenagers, Mrs. Zelda De Cost, 16, surrendered last night after hiding coatless in cellars in and near the detention home in below freezing weather. Two others surrendered a few hours after the escape and two were captured. Yesterday, as police and juvenile authorities questioned her, Mirl Cain, 15, told her story of the escape that cost the life of Mrs. Eula Bonham, 59.

Modern Design Brings Success in Ancient Art

Woodstock Candle Business Runs Into $100,000-a-Year Enterprise

Patty Craft Perlmutter of Woodstock, founder of Candelier, nationally known for its decorative candles, is featured in the December issue of Cosmopolitan now on the stands.

In an article, "New Light on an Ancient Craft," Author Pat Fulford writes: "In this land of opportunity where fortunes are made overnight, hard work and lots of luck are behind most success stories. Once in a blue moon accident gives fate a push. And that's the way it happened to blonde and beautiful Patty Craft originator of the fabulous $100,000-a-year new business, Candelier. Graceful and slender Patty, only 25, has put pep and modern design into one of the oldest crafts known to man: The art of candlemaking. With 14 units already selling her candles, including Macy's in New York, Patty expects to light her way clear across the country, via the nation's smartest department stores, before the end of 1956."

DESIGNING NEW CREATION—The piece of wax Patty Craft Perlmutter works on in her studio will turn into one of the modern designs that are bringing her fame and fortune as a candelier.

THE ARTICLE is illustrated with a number of pictures—eight to be exact—with two of them attractively done in color. Photographs are by Pearson A. Mullen, a freelance photographer.

The article describes how Candelier got started on a shoestring when Patty, her husband Danny, a professional baseball player with a possible big-league future, and a friend, Jim Matteson, also of Woodstock, pooled their meager resources about four years ago and bought a small stock of candlemaking equipment from a firm which had foundered in financial difficulties.

They rented an abandoned kindergarten in Woodstock as a place to start, then set to work to learn what candlemaking was all about. To get around the expense of permanent molds they experimented with plaster and found that about 20 candles could be made before the plaster fell apart. The first candles were "far from beautiful" but one day a candle experiment somehow took form. It looked a little like a "tree with two twigs" with a wick coming out the top of each twig. Dipped in bright green it became "sensational."

THEY BEGAN to dip Patty's new artistic creations into vats of different colors. The candles began to sell with increasing success. They got a loan from a bank and bought several permanent molds. They gave the colors such names as "shadowlight," "tangerine" and "mahogany". Patty and Danny called the candles "sculptures in wax" and Candelier was in business, according to the Cosmopolitan story.

The Cosmopolitan article quotes Danny as saying they arrived in New York with exactly 35 cents. They had to build their own booth.

ACCORDING to Patty, "At 2 o'clock hordes of people descended on the flower show, and all of them headed for us. By the end of the first day we were almost sold out! As we counted our money, sale by sale, hysteria kept us from collapsing from fatigue; we found that we had $3,000 in cold, cashable cash! We could pay all our bills, our loan from the bank, the lumberman, the truck driver, everybody, and still have enough left over to buy a carload of the loveliest stuff in the world: hard, white wax!"

Candelier suddenly found itself in the wholesale business—with hundreds of active accounts. "It took them a year of hard work, cheerfully accepting returns (when candles were broken in transport), patiently sending out statement after statement to large department stores who often took three months to pay, to find out that the wholesale business was not for them."

IN THEIR Woodstock shop customers couldn't be kept away from the candle-dipping operation going on in the back. Suddenly they realized that the "clue" to the success of their business lay in the show. They moved the candle-dipping up front where everybody could watch. 'We were using old iron vats, just right for dipping, which had four separate partitions for our basic colors. The heating element was hidden underneath. When the vats were covered with wax drippings of every color in the rainbow they fitted in very well with the unusual decor of the shop." Patty also began experimenting with two-tone candles and they worked out a process, "which is our own secret," of blending perfectly any two colors the cuustomers want.

Shops were opened in Provincetown, Rockport, Rip's Retreat, Atlantic City's Steel Pier and Macy's. "Macy's was swamped with orders and we are still there 58 weeks later."

The Candelier now sells franchises to "people who may be suited for running our shops," according to Danny. "After we have trained them in the art of candle-dipping and have decorated and set up a shop for them, we are through with that end of it. Selling franchises keeps our business custom-made, insures our own income and gives us time to relax and enjoy life the way other people do. The benefit of a franchise is that our interest in each unit helps the owners just as it helps us. We have to see and get to know the owner before risking the name of Candelier in his hands. We send a trained person to the new shop, have him stay there two weeks teaching the owner how to dip candles and how to sell them. We must see that the shop is decorated according to our standards and that the location is good. Then we stock the shop with enough white candles to last the owner for several months — and he is in business."

Patty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Craft of 22 Washington avenue.

Death Ruled Suicide

Cook, Minn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Death of a St. Paul Woman whose body was found in an Orr, Minn., motel last Friday was a suicide, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. The jury ruled Mrs. Myrl Crommett, 38, wife of an architect, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound. A rifle had been found near her body. Dr. William Heiam, deputy St. Louis county coroner, said it was established at the inquest that Mrs. Crommett's companion, Thomas Pierce, was having breakfast at a cafe at the time she died.

Makes Surrender Offer

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—An escaped long-term convict has offered to give himself up if he is promised a new trial or a public inquiry into his conviction as a robber. The man on the run is Alfred G. Hinds, 38. He escaped Saturday from Nottingham jail, where he was serving 12 years as one of a gang which looted a London store of 38,000 pounds ($106,400) in cash and jewels two years ago. Only 7,000 pounds ($19,600) of the loot has been recovered. Hinds, who maintained he was innocent, made his surrender offer in identical letters to three London newspapers yesterday.

Advance of Reds In East Signal For Strong Guard

Oslo, Nov. 29 (AP)—Former UN Secretary General Trygve Lie sees no opportunity for an easing of international tensions in the near future. "Real relaxation," he said, "is still only a distant hope."

Lie, now a county governor here, told the Oslo Military Society last night that the democracies cannot let their guard down if freedom and security are to be preserved.

"As loyal members of NATO, we in Norway must bear the burdens and make the sacrifices this membership imposes upon us," he declared. "A slackening in our preparedness may have disastrous consequences."

Summing up recent international developments, Lie stressed the Communist advances in the Middle East, the Far East and North Africa, and said:

"All this should make everybody alert to the fact that a real relaxation is still only a distant hope.

"The Soviet Union and its partners will never give us real peace. Their propaganda and ideological efforts for the spread of world communism will lead to new difficulties, and the western democracies will constantly be confronted with new problems. The difficulties will be first met outside Europe, particularly in Asia and Africa. In fact, we are already confronted with them."

Much of Nation In Frigid Belt

(By The Associated Press)

The winter season was three weeks away but it felt much like January weather in about three-quarters of the nation today.

Icy blasts, with snow and strong winds brought unseasonable temperatures to areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic states and readings were from 20 to 30 degrees lower than yesterday morning. They were below 20 in the mid-Atlantic states and in the 20s in the interior sections of the gulf states except in Florida where they were in the 50s and 60s. It was freezing in Mobile, Ala., and shivery 22 in Atlanta.

Icy and snowy streets in many parts of the cold belt slowed traffic.

Heavy snow fell in wide sections of New York state, with a two-foot fall reported in suburbs of Buffalo. The fall in the lower Great Lakes region measured 1 to 3 inches. Lighter falls were reported in the northern plains, parts of the Great Lakes Region, the Ohio valley and northern Appalachians.

TWO FISHERMEN and three duck hunters stranded in near zero wind whipped weather in the Detroit river and Lake Erie's Maumee bay were rescued last night. A navy helicopter picked up the two fishermen from their boat mired on a mud bank in the Detroit river. The Toledo, O., duck hunters were driven ashore by winds on the barren North Cape peninsula that juts two miles into Maumee bay near the Michigan-Ohio line. The hunters believed the peninsula, which is only a foot or two above water level, was impassable. They were rescued by Michigan State Police.

May Face Murder Charges

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 29 (AP)—Five girls who left an elderly matron dead behind them in an escape from the Summit County Detention Home Sunday night were back in custody today, and the prosecutor was preparing to seek murder indictments against them. The last of the five teenagers, Mrs. Zelda De Cost, 16, surrendered last night after hiding coatless in cellars in and near the detention home in below freezing weather. Two others surrendered a few hours after the escape and two were captured. Yesterday, as police and juvenile authorities questioned her, Mirl Cain, 15, told her story of the escape that cost the life of Mrs. Eula Bonham, 59.

Modern Design Brings Success in Ancient Art

Woodstock Candle Business Runs Into $100,000-a-Year Enterprise

Patty Craft Perlmutter of Woodstock, founder of Candelier, nationally known for its decorative candles, is featured in the December issue of Cosmopolitan now on the stands.

In an article, "New Light on an Ancient Craft," Author Pat Fulford writes: "In this land of opportunity where fortunes are made overnight, hard work and lots of luck are behind most success stories. Once in a blue moon accident gives fate a push. And that's the way it happened to blonde and beautiful Patty Craft originator of the fabulous $100,000-a-year new business, Candelier. Graceful and slender Patty, only 25, has put pep and modern design into one of the oldest crafts known to man: The art of candlemaking. With 14 units already selling her candles, including Macy's in New York, Patty expects to light her way clear across the country, via the nation's smartest department stores, before the end of 1956."

DESIGNING NEW CREATION—The piece of wax Patty Craft Perlmutter works on in her studio will turn into one of the modern designs that are bringing her fame and fortune as a candelier.

THE ARTICLE is illustrated with a number of pictures—eight to be exact—with two of them attractively done in color. Photographs are by Pearson A. Mullen, a freelance photographer.

The article describes how Candelier got started on a shoestring when Patty, her husband Danny, a professional baseball player with a possible big-league future, and a friend, Jim Matteson, also of Woodstock, pooled their meager resources about four years ago and bought a small stock of candlemaking equipment from a firm which had foundered in financial difficulties.

They rented an abandoned kindergarten in Woodstock as a place to start, then set to work to learn what candlemaking was all about. To get around the expense of permanent molds they experimented with plaster and found that about 20 candles could be made before the plaster fell apart. The first candles were "far from beautiful" but one day a candle experiment somehow took form. It looked a little like a "tree with two twigs" with a wick coming out the top of each twig. Dipped in bright green it became "sensational."

THEY BEGAN to dip Patty's new artistic creations into vats of different colors. The candles began to sell with increasing success. They got a loan from a bank and bought several permanent molds. They gave the colors such names as "shadowlight," "tangerine" and "mahogany". Patty and Danny called the candles "sculptures in wax" and Candelier was in business, according to the Cosmopolitan story.

Shortly thereafter they "graduated," taking over an abandoned grade school in the village—increasing Candelier space for the ever-growing factory. Patty designed several candles in the shapes of centerpieces and flower holders and they took a booth in the Flower Show at the Grand Central Palace in New York—after working themselves into a state of nervous exhaustion covering fairs and carnivals for miles around to raise $400 for the entry fee.

The Cosmopolitan article quotes Danny as saying they arrived in New York with exactly 35 cents. They had to build their own booth.

ACCORDING to Patty, "At 2 o'clock hordes of people descended on the flower show, and all of them headed for us. By the end of the first day we were almost sold out! As we counted our money, sale by sale, hysteria kept us from collapsing from fatigue; we found that we had $3,000 in cold, cashable cash! We could pay all our bills, our loan from the bank, the lumberman, the truck driver, everybody, and still have enough left over to buy a carload of the loveliest stuff in the world: hard, white wax!"

Candelier suddenly found itself in the wholesale business—with hundreds of active accounts. "It took them a year of hard work, cheerfully accepting returns (when candles were broken in transport), patiently sending out statement after statement to large department stores who often took three months to pay, to find out that the wholesale business was not for them."

IN THEIR Woodstock shop customers couldn't be kept away from the candle-dipping operation going on in the back. Suddenly they realized that the "clue" to the success of their business lay in the show. They moved the candle-dipping up front where everybody could watch. 'We were using old iron vats, just right for dipping, which had four separate partitions for our basic colors. The heating element was hidden underneath. When the vats were covered with wax drippings of every color in the rainbow they fitted in very well with the unusual decor of the shop." Patty also began experimenting with two-tone candles and they worked out a process, "which is our own secret," of blending perfectly any two colors the cuustomers want.

Shops were opened in Provincetown, Rockport, Rip's Retreat, Atlantic City's Steel Pier and Macy's. "Macy's was swamped with orders and we are still there 58 weeks later."

The Candelier now sells franchises to "people who may be suited for running our shops," according to Danny. "After we have trained them in the art of candle-dipping and have decorated and set up a shop for them, we are through with that end of it. Selling franchises keeps our business custom-made, insures our own income and gives us time to relax and enjoy life the way other people do. The benefit of a franchise is that our interest in each unit helps the owners just as it helps us. We have to see and get to know the owner before risking the name of Candelier in his hands. We send a trained person to the new shop, have him stay there two weeks teaching the owner how to dip candles and how to sell them. We must see that the shop is decorated according to our standards and that the location is good. Then we stock the shop with enough white candles to last the owner for several months — and he is in business."

Patty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Craft of 22 Washington avenue.
